

UNIVERSITY of HAWAI'I®
MĀNOA

*Dean, College of Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources, and Director, Research and Cooperative Extension
Honolulu, Hawai'i*

The University of Hawai'i at Mānoa (UH Mānoa) seeks a visionary, motivational and experienced leader to serve as Dean of the College of Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources (CTAHR) and Director of Research and Cooperative Extension. Building upon the many strengths of the University, as well as the unique attributes of the Hawaiian Islands, the successful candidate has an exciting opportunity to provide both academic and entrepreneurial leadership as CTAHR seeks to expand its strong intellectual presence in Hawai'i, the Asia Pacific region and around the globe.

The University of Hawai'i at Mānoa is the premier institution of higher learning in the Pacific Basin and belongs to an international community of research universities. It is one of the nation's few land-, sea- and space-grant institutions. UH Mānoa plays a unique role in bridging Hawaiian, Asian and Pacific cultures through education, research, extension/outreach and service. Many of the university's fields of study are directly related to the distinctive geographical and cultural setting of Hawai'i, an island community with diverse eco-systems and exceptional diversity of cultures. The University of Hawai'i at Mānoa is the flagship campus of the UH System and enrolls more than 20,000 students.

CTAHR is the founding college of the University of Hawai'i, is an integral part of UH Mānoa's Carnegie doctoral/research-extensive designation, and is actively engaged in assisting Hawai'i to diversify its economy to ensure a sustainable environment. CTAHR is committed to strengthening its communities, being the premier resource for tropical agricultural systems and natural resource management in the Asia-Pacific region, and for preparing students and all citizens of Hawai'i for life in a global community. The College provides strong research, extension and educational programs that support and foster tropical agricultural systems in viable communities, a diversified economy, and a healthy environment. CTAHR values learning, discovery, and engagement in formal and informal settings and strives for excellence in all its endeavors. For more information about the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa and the College, please go to www.uhm.hawaii.edu and www.ctahr.hawaii.edu.

Nominations, inquiries, and application information

Nominations, inquiries, and applications are being accepted for the position. Review of applications will begin on Tuesday, December 1, 2009, and will continue until the position is filled. Candidates must submit a cover letter summarizing the candidate's interest and qualifications for the position, a current resume, and the names of six (6) professional references, including title and contact information. For a job description and search information, please go to www.hawaii.edu/executivesearch/ctahr. E-mail correspondence is strongly encouraged. Please send materials to:

University of Hawai'i at Mānoa CTAHR Dean Search
Att: Associate Vice Chancellor Joanne Clark
University of Hawai'i at Mānoa
2500 Campus Road, Hawai'i Hall 104
Honolulu, Hawai'i 96822
Phone: 808-956-6133 / Fax: 808-956-4948
E-mail: uhmexec@hawaii.edu

The University of Hawai'i is an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution and encourages applications from and nominations of women and minority candidates.