Aloha,
I find it unethical and legally unacceptable to show up on someone else's ancestral land to erect something such as TMT as if it is manifest destiny motivated by money, power and greed. If built, will the product of the telescope ever make up for what it took to get it? Desecrating sacred and protected land, polluting water and harming the land we humans currently live on to see into space, and robbing the future generations of Hawaii to experience this part of their culture is absurd! We, and this issue, will not be "swept under the rug" as was the coercion and forced abdication during the illegal overthrow of the Hawaiian monarchy.

Mahalo & Good luck,
Nani Lancaster
