A Paper Hawaii Needs

Big Fight Expected Among GOP Leaders In Few Days

New "Red Baiting" Book To Come Out: Attacks Farrington, IL WU

By JACK KIMBALL

Within the next two days a book will be published in the Territory of Hawaii which will "set the Republican Party leadership at each other's throats," according to informants close to GOP circles.

The book, bearing the name "Tom O'Brien's Author, is called, "The Plot to Subvert Hawaii." While Mr. O'Brien declined to shed light on the 29-page publication, inside information made available to the writer shows conclusively that "Tom O'Brien," had a great deal of assistance from "old friends."" GOP leadership.

Playing a prominent part in publishing and authoring the "Plot," too, are O. P. Soares, chairman of the Republican Territorial Central Committee, and R. W. Durfee, chairman of the organization, associates of Mr. O'Brien, who, along with Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Soares were Drs. Dean George, retired University of Hawaii professor; Charles J. Utterback, commander of the local American Legion; Senator W. H. (Doc) Hill, and George Leister, former editor of the now defunct magazine, "Hawaii." The book, with a flaming red cover depicting a Hawaiian flag and a background of the Hawaiian flag, is being printed by a firm in Honolulu.

According to informants the publication date of the book is to be "a few days after the deadline for filing for Territorial office." It is expected to be circulated widely during the campaign and will be one of the chief pieces of campaign literature by the Farrington forces in the Republican Party.

Farrington Knocks

It is known that Delegate Farrington is aware of the book and is "burned up." Although Mr. Farrington and O. P. Soares are expected to deny any rift in their party, political observers say that the "plot" is between Mr. Farrington and his old guard opposition in the Territorial legislature. These observers also predict that Farrington will "win out" in the primary election, which is expected to be held in the latter part of May.

Parade To Feature Labor Day Program

Parade for two annual Labor Day parades on Monday, September 1, were released today by Chief of the APL, and Ralph Willmuth of the OTO.

In a year's celebration, the two labor organizations will hold separate parades beginning at 9:30 a.m. No parades for joint parades will be held.

Both services will assemble near the vicinity of Queen's and Beretania Street and then march on Beretania Street.

The APL will then proceed to Thomas Street, and the OTO will march to Beretania Street.

The parade will be preceded by a wreath-laying ceremony at the memorial to the late Mrs. Vincent Rabear, Delegate to the APL, and Mrs. George H. Wilson, Delegate to the OTO.

CIO Marchers will assemble in front of the Capitol, where Mayor John H. Wilson will deliver the main address of the day.

Other speakers will include ILWU Regional Director George Hall and ILWU Local 180 president, Jack Kawai.

WITNESSES TESTIFY REINNECKE POSSESS DEMOCRATIC IDEALS

Dr. John and Aiko Reinnecke possess the ideals of democracy and they are good teachers whether or not they are members of the Communist Party.

These points were made on Monday and Tuesday of this week by defense witnesses of the two school teachers who were discharged for not possessing the "ideals of democracy" because of alleged membership in the Communist Party.

Robert Reinnecke

The witnesses followed the Dr. Chester K. Wentworth, city-county water commissioner, who testified that Mr. and Mrs. Reinnecke have never expressed any political or religious bias or prejudice against the Jews.

Mr. Wentworth also said that the two teachers "take the position that such matters are for the individual conscience."

Takes Consistent Stand

He added: "And the government has no right to invade their conscience, as it would invade any other part of their lives."

Defense Attorney Myer C. Symonds asked Dr. Wentworth to assume that the teachers were Communist Party members, the party was an agent of Soviet Russia, and it advocated the overthrow of the American government. Then he asked the witness if he would say that the teachers were not the children of this condition.

"My answer is the same as before," he was told. "They have no right to answer a question regarded as improper does not make them improper." Dismissed.

Defense Attorney Myer C. Symonds asked the witness if he was won over to the charge that he judged teachers by their politics, rather than their teaching, and by the organization they belonged to.

Law Firm Files Historic Document To Show Government Is Bosses' Tool

A historic document on "labor and the law in the Territory of Hawaii" -- the first of its kind prepared by the government on the U.S. District Court in Honolulu by Attorney Harriet Boulog of the law firm of Boulog and Symonds, as brief in the labor grand jury case which grew out of the 1946 sugar strike.

Waipahu Union Hears Speakers

The Waipahu unit of the ILWU was scheduled to meet on Saturday morning to hear reports of the sugar picketing by the ILWU in the Territory and the pro-employer people of the law and the courts in the area of economic conflict.

Going back to the roots of the labor conflict, it is observed that the 1946 sugar strike, which was heavily documented, dealt with the "cheap labor scheme" by the planters.

Described from "plantation slavery," the strike was a mass strike by the native sugar workers against the sugar cane companies.

The defense claimed that the strike was a mass strike against the sugar cane companies.

On the other hand, the defense claimed that the strike was a mass strike against the sugar cane companies.

The defense argued that the strike was a mass strike against the sugar cane companies.

Meantime, the army announced that lack of training facilities had brought about the cutting of the November draft quota to a little more than 10,000 men. In December, the draft quota will be reduced to 10,000 men. From there it will work to a goal of 20,000 men every month.

Challenged

While the President rested, Henry Wallace challenged him to postpone the draft until he (Wallace) has met with President Rahin of the Republic to discuss matters between the two countries. Wallace called for an urgent meeting with the president to discuss the matter. He is expected to arrive in Washington by Monday.

FARMER-LABOR UNION URGED BY CIO PAMPHLET

WASHINGTON (AP) — A call for closer cooperation between farmers and laborers was urged by the CIO in a pamphlet released recently.

Such cooperation, the CIO said, "must become a basic force in America's economic life to win the confidence of the more than 30,000,000 farmers who are the backbone of our country and the only certainty in the uncertain world beyond the frontiers of America's economic life."

The pamphlet states that "production cooperation" between farmers and laborers has been practiced in the United States and abroad, and that it is "a step toward the realization of a true economic democracy." The CIO says that "production cooperation" is a "way of life" that is "a step toward the realization of a true economic democracy." The pamphlet urges farmers and laborers to "think of the future" and to "work together" for the "common good."

Labor Day—Past and Present

Forty-eight years ago, on Sept. 3, 1900, a small group of workers in Hawaii, representing laborers, celebrated the historic first Labor Day in the Territory of Hawaii.

In the preceding decades, the struggle for labor rights and the growth of unions had been slow to develop. But in 1900, a group of workers, recognizing the importance of a united front, organized a parade to mark Labor Day.

The Labor Day parade of Sept. 3, 1900, marked an important milestone in the history of labor in Hawaii. It demonstrated the power of solidarity and the决心 of workers to fight for their rights.

In memory of those who have fought for their rights and continue to do so today, let us honor them and remember the struggles of the past.

Admitted Into Major League 21 Years Late, Paige Is Still A Shining Star

When Leroy (Satchel) Paige, all-time Negro pitching great, was signed by the Cleveland Indians as insurance in their quest for the American League pennant, some criticism was raised as to the soundness of such a move.

In an editorial in the July 14th edition of The Sporting News, the Baseball Bible, Sylva C. Taylor Spink wrote: "In criticising the acquisition of Satchel Paige by the Cleveland, the Sporting News be

V-J DAY

We have observed another V-J Day. It is now three years since Japanese suicide.

We have had three years to build for reconstruction, peace and better people's livelihood everywhere.

Although many months have elapsed, the day is still in our minds. Neither Germany nor Japan have we signed a peace treaty. Neither, these countries are rapidly becoming centers of a new international conflict.

Looking back over a little over three years ago, the world looked to the United States for leadership and cooperation in post-war reconstruction. But in retrospect we see clearly that our present administration has been aways away from the course charted by President Roosevelt.

There are still wars going on in the world. These are struggles for the upsurge or their liberation. Fighting against fascism, these people fought with us, believing implicitly that our common victory would enhance their liberty.

Actually what our administration did was to throw overboard the Attiette Charter and intervene in the internal affairs of various nations. The administration has done everything to prop up reactionary regimes everywhere by sending them military and political advisors, by giving military aid or economic assistance by making loans, by economic pressure and through many other means.

Not only has the present administration violated the principles of Roosevelt's foreign policy but it has turned its back to its domestic policy. The FOUR FREEDOMS which he cherished so highly are neglected at present.

Today we have the Taft-Hartley "Slave Labor Act" in place of labor's Magna Charter — the Wagner Labor Relations Act. Labor's tradition is not dead, however. There are still people who are unconscionably fighting for Roosevelt's program. This struggle is gaining ground under the leadership of such men as Henry Wallace. It raises the hopes and aspirations of the common man the world over who wants democracy and peace.

LABOR DAY

Again this year the AFL and the CIO will march separately through the streets of Honolulu to celebrate Labor day.

No one feels happier than the employers to see such a situation continue to exist.

If we remember correctly, Mayor John Wilson pointed out this very fact in his speeches to both the AFL and CIO rallies held separately last year.

If things like these where the employers are moving into positions to carry out offensive drives to crack up unions, the more they should know that the sooner the rank and file realizes this, the sooner they will be able to influence their leaders to strive for working unity with our allies.

In fact, the rank and files of both unions should now commence by trying to find out why there is no joint Labor Day celebration this year.

In removing the obstacle, they will be able to pave the way for joint celebrations in the years to come.
