Police Station Beating Exposed

OR & L Grabs At Taxi Trade

Drivers Form New Union To Fight Dillingham Money

By STAFF WRITER

Dues of Honolulu's small, independent taxi operators are faced today with the strongest competition of their lives from one of Hawaii's great transportation companies—the Oahu Railway & Land Co.-known as OR & L. This railroad company owns and operates one of the largest taxi fleets in the state, using a fleet of radio-equipped cars which are being advertised as a threat to taxi operators' very existence.

"They are making a测定 of our rates," said one taxi driver, "we've been working on a fair competition for some time, but the OR & L is making us work extra hard to keep up.

The commuters, who are the mainstay of the OR & L's business, have been given a base rate which they believe is not sufficient to cover their costs. The OR & L is offering a fare of 50 cents for a five-mile ride, while independent taxi operators charge 35 cents.

The OR & L is also offering a 10-cent discount for commuters who pay in cash, while independent operators charge 15 cents for the same ride.

The OR & L's advertising campaign has been backed by the company's own radio stations, which play a constant stream of advertisements urging commuters to use the OR & L's services.

Kauai Strikers Recall Old Days, Keep Morale High

By Special Correspondence

Many Kauai strikers have decided to recall old days and keep morale high.

The strike, which was called in protest against the planting of sugarcane by the Dole Sugar Co., is being supported by many Kauai residents who believe that the company is exploiting the workers.

The strikers have been picketing outside the company's sugar mill, which is located in the heart of the sugarcane fields.

They have been joined by locals who support their cause, and the strike has become a symbol of the workers' determination to stand up for their rights.

The company, however, has continued to plant sugarcane, and the strike has become an issue of national importance.

HONOLULU RECORD

Post Promised Alzate Here Is Now Doubtful

Manuel Alzate, appointed to the position of Philippine consulate-general in Hawaii, has not yet arrived at this time. Some Filipinos observers believe that he is not coming. Alzate was appointed at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, but it is not known how long he will remain in the position.

Alzate, a former consular official in Australia, has been recommended for the post by Roosevelt, who is said to have been impressed with his abilities.

Wife Has Money

Alzate brings with him a large amount of money, which is expected to be a factor in the negotiations.

Amfac Executive Bangs Into Jalopy, Welches On $1 Debt

With a bill for one dollar in his hand, Leo Amfled, a salesman, walked into a garage and offered the owner the amount.

"I want to pay my debts," he said, "I have been fighting for years and I have no money left.

The owner, who was impressed by Amfled's sincerity, accepted the offer and gave him a receipt.

"You can keep the car," he said, "I want to pay my debts.

Amfled thanked him and left the garage, feeling relieved.

Investigator began asking him questions.

"I got the impression that the investigator felt Mr. Sumner was not in the country," he said. "I told him I wasn't interested in discussing the circumstances of the accident. All I was interested in was a promise to pay by Mr. Sumner.

When the investigator tried to ask more questions, Mr. Agnew said he was interested in seeing Mr. Sumner, who had said he was not in the country.

Mr. Agnew went to Mr. Sumner's secretary and told her that he had an appointment with the insurance department, and asked to see the vice president. He was in conference, she said. Mr. Agnew said he was interested in the accident and asked to see Mr. Sumner.

Mr. Sumner's secretary said that Mr. Sumner was not in the office and that he had left a message for the vice president. Mr. Agnew went to the phone and left the office.

Because Mr. Sumner did not call, Mr. Agnew called the following day. The secretary at Amfac's office informed Mr. Agnew that Mr. Sumner had not been able to receive the call and that he would be back the next day.

Mr. Agnew, a salesman, who has not been employed steadily for years, found that the car was not his, and the family of two children, paid the $1 to the garage.

ECOLOGIST FROM CHINA:

Next Year Critical For New Government's Reconstruction

By KOH AMIREOCH

"Next year will be critical for the reconstruction of the new government," said Mr. Koh Amireo.

"We have been working for years to establish a new government, but we have not been able to achieve it.

Mr. Koh Amireo is a well-known ecologist, and his work has been widely praised.

THE WAR BRIDES

Post Promised Alzate Here is Now Doubtful

Manuel Alzate, appointed to the position of Philippine consulate-general in Hawaii, may never arrive at the capacity some Filipinos observers believe. Although Alzate's appointment was announced by President Roosevelt, some Filipinos believe he is not coming.

Alzate, a former consular official in Australia, has been recommended for the position by Roosevelt, who is said to have been impressed with his abilities.

Alzate, however, has not yet arrived, and some Filipinos believe he is not coming.

Wife Has Money

Alzate brings with him a large amount of money, which is expected to be a factor in the negotiations.

Amfac Executive Bangs Into Jalopy, Welches On $1 Debt

With a bill for one dollar in his hand, Leo Amfled, a salesman, walked into a garage and offered the owner the amount.

"I want to pay my debts," he said, "I have been fighting for years and I have no money left.

The owner, who was impressed by Amfled's sincerity, accepted the offer and gave him a receipt.

"You can keep the car," he said, "I want to pay my debts.

Amfled thanked him and left the garage, feeling relieved.

Investigator began asking him questions.

"I got the impression that the investigator felt Mr. Sumner was not in the country," he said. "I told him I wasn't interested in discussing the circumstances of the accident. All I was interested in was a promise to pay by Mr. Sumner.

When the investigator tried to ask more questions, Mr. Agnew said he was interested in seeing Mr. Sumner, who had said he was not in the country.

Mr. Agnew went to Mr. Sumner's secretary and told her that he had an appointment with the insurance department, and asked to see the vice president. He was in conference, she said. Mr. Agnew said he was interested in the accident and asked to see Mr. Sumner.

Mr. Sumner's secretary said that Mr. Sumner was not in the office and that he had left a message for the vice president. Mr. Agnew went to the phone and left the office.

Because Mr. Sumner did not call, Mr. Agnew called the following day. The secretary at Amfac's office informed Mr. Agnew that Mr. Sumner had not been able to receive the call and that he would be back the next day.

Mr. Agnew, a salesman, who has not been employed steadily for years, found that the car was not his, and the family of two children, paid the $1 to the garage.
National Summary

Consolidated, Oidsun had raised big campaign funds for President Truman. Johnson became secretary of the Navy after the inauguration and soon the B-36 became the big defense-offense club. The report that a fan job in the air force industry awaits Symington when he retires from government office has been denied thus far.

70th Anniversary

The California Eagle, a Negro newspaper, said its 70th anniversary would commemorate the occasion, the Independent Progressive Party and the Eagle will jointly sponsor a concert featuring Paul Robeson.

But the complaint has been aimed at the "invasion" by the Los Angeles City Council which passed a resolution that echoed almost word for word the threatening article of the Los Angeles Times editorial, telling concert-goers to stay away. The Times is the most anti-labor of the Los Angeles press.

Councillman Lloyd G. Davies—a member of the county sheriff's posse—emphatically said active resistance to Robeson's appearance was the way to his heart. Said Davies, in referring to the two bloody attacks on Robeson audiences at Peekskill, N.Y.: "I don't think and can't understand that with the courage to get out there and do what they did to cheer Robeson up for what he is doing.

Joe Louis and other prominent Negroes have denounced attempts to suppress Robeson's concerts. The Negroes are beginning to see, through the violence perpetrated against Negroes, that the attitude against, hampering Robeson was an assault against the Negro people.

The congressional committee's which called Founder Jackie Robinson and other Negroes to testify against Robeson, the Peckskill mob and the Los Angeles City Council were not succeeding in their objectives—to split Robeson, a most vocal and articulate fighter for Negro rights, from the others. Zionism

The National Jewish Chronicle, Washington, D.C., announced that "a concrete American answer to Russia's mystery of the atom."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT also came when British, Canadian and American scientists were meeting in Washington. Britain is asking for stock-piles of atomic bombs and secret data of the bomb. It is reported that she is going in for A-bomb production because of the British U. S. military aid to the strategic weapon.

Furthermore, the announcement of the President came when the UN sessions had just gotten underway, and just when the U. S. military was launching new practice over England to shape the offensive might of U. S. A. bomb attack.

Charges, Counter Charges

In a treason trial at Budapest, Laslo Antal, an official of Hungary's foreign ministry, protested when his lawyer asked for mercy after he had been sentenced to death for treason. Rajk said his death sentence was justified and twice said he would not appeal.

The FINKER HIGH OFFICIALS, with two of his seven confederates, got the death sentence for plotting with Yugoslav's Marshal Tito to overthrow the Hungarian government.

As the treason trial took place in Hungary, neighboring Yugoslavia Tito handed a note to the Hungarian ambassador, accusing Hungary and the Soviet Union of plotting to overthrow his regime.

Aftermath of Devaluation

Our colleagues last week concluded U.S. trade unions in France and Europe that there will be more jobs. But he did not warn them of resulting higher prices nor did he speak of money value tumbling in other countries, much less the money that has made the dollar, and U. S. buys comparatively little from abroad while her export is high.

The British and industrialists would have all the breaks now to invest in countries that devolved their money. The dollar is worth much more and the hard up countries would welcome American investment.

WORKERS in countries plagued by devaluation threatened strikes. In Britain, U.S. and Europe, the unions are getting rich. About 1 1/2 million of the non-Communist trade unionists in France said they might join forces with the General Confederation of Labor, a Left Workers' Alliance, the unions in job categories.

Among workers in Europe large segments that had accepted the Marshall Plan as a boan, unseen salve if the devaluation was not passed.
More Jobholders
Than Jobhunters
At Duarte Rally

While it has been charged that some of the unemployed who appear at the rallies of the various labor unions are not genuine unemployed, the Duarte group state that their group is composed of genuine unemployed workers.

More than 500 were present at the rally of the United Farmers of America, which was held in the Duarte school auditorium.

The Duarte group has secured permission to meet every Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Duarte High School gymnasium.

President of the Duarte chapter of the United Farmers, John M. Davis, said:

"We are determined to create a community spirit here in Duarte. We believe that the community spirit is the key to the solution of the unemployment problem. We have asked for a chance to speak to the public, and we will do our best to make the Duarte community aware of the problems of the unemployed."

The group plans to hold meetings every Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Duarte High School gymnasium. They will discuss various aspects of the unemployment problem, and they will also try to organize a community-wide movement to solve the problem.

The Duarte group is composed of men and women who are unemployed and who are seeking work. They are determined to do their part to create a community spirit, and they believe that this is the key to the solution of the unemployment problem.
POLICE STATION BEATING EXPOSED

SAN FRANCISCO (APRIL 30) — A 19-year-old man was brutally beaten by police in an San Francisco police station, according to witnesses who came forward to describe the incident. The victim, identified only as John Doe, was taken into custody and later released without charges.

The incident occurred at the 14th Precinct Station on Monday night. According to witnesses, a group of police officers entered the station and began interrogating John Doe for alleged theft.

Witnesses said the officers used excessive force, slamming John Doe to the ground and punching him repeatedly.

John Doe was later released without charges, but his family is seeking justice for the beating.

The San Francisco Police Department has launched an investigation into the incident and is calling for witnesses to come forward with any information.
Alazte Post Doubtfull

(From page 2)

It is said to derive a half-million dollars from his "entre- preneurial talents..."

"But all the truth," says one of the students who was interviewed, "is that the Vietnamese official government is not interested in the welfare of the people."

Victory Uncertain

"The recently intensified pogyur..." is a threat to the Vietnamese government. Victory is uncertain, as the Vietnamese are not willing to participate in the campaign to close quota operations.

"But I have lived in the liberated areas of Vietnam over the past two years," said one of the Vietnamese students. "I have been able to observe the activities of our government and its policies, and I must say that I am concerned for the future of our country."

American Airline Helped

In answering a Kuominthung of- ficial's question, "What measures are being taken to prevent American influence in the region?" an official said, "We have taken steps to limit the influence of American companies in the region."

"But we have also taken measures to ensure that American companies do not exploit Vietnamese labor. We have emphasized the importance of fair labor practices, and we have established a system of labor unions to protect the rights of workers."

"The Kuominthung..." said another official, "is determined to ensure that the United States does not interfere in the internal affairs of the country."

"The Kuominthung..." concluded the official, "is committed to ensuring the sovereignty and independence of our country. We are working to build a strong and prosperous Vietnam."
Negro Wrestler Appreciates Aloha; Says Less Bias Here

By ALLAN BEKKMAN

Jack Claybourne, Negro wrestling star, whose picture appears elsewhere on this page, declares that Hawaii well because he has not experienced the racial discrimination he encountered in some parts of the Mainland.

"I don't drink," he said, "and that may have been the reason why I haven't been discriminated against the way some Negroes here have been. Hear them say they have been in the bars. I don't go into bars, and so until now I've been able to go everywhere I want to go."

Mr. Claybourne, a kindly man inside the ring, is easily irritated.

"I never had any trouble, outside of the Mainland, that I can remember," he said, as I talked with him in promoter Al Leavitt's office. "On the Coast I wasn't discriminated against. In New Zealand and Australia it was fine."

"Thought I Was a Cuban"

"It was just in some parts of the Mainland, the southern states that I ran up against it, especially Oklahoma, Texas, Alabama and Florida. But they wouldn't let me wrestle anywhere near the south." I was booked to wrestle a white fellow, but just before the match the company started to talk to me, and they asked me if I was a Cuban. They had booked me in Cuba."

War Brides Like T.H.

started to converse excitedly in German. Then Mrs. Gonville said to me, "I want to try to live German again, and show you how beautiful it is to speak to each other." She told me about the war, and I was so moved that I burst into tears. The woman who spoke to me in German was a German woman who had lost her husband in the war, and she wanted to continue the conversation in German to keep the memory of her husband alive.

The Ballerina

She was a beautiful woman with a soft voice and steady eyes. She was wearing a simple black dress and had long black hair. She started to dance on the stage, and the audience was completely captivated by her performance. The music was beautiful, and the lights were dimmed, creating a magical atmosphere. The ballerina's movements were graceful and elegant, and she seemed to be in her own world. The audience was completely immersed in the performance, and they were moved to tears by the beauty of the performance.

"I don't know what to say," said Mrs. Gonville, "but I want to let you know how much I appreciate your efforts to help us remember our past."

The ballerina nodded, and the conversation continued in German, with Mrs. Gonville expressing her gratitude and the woman responding with a heartfelt thank you.

The Graphic Novel

The story of Mrs. Gonville and the ballerina was then translated into a graphic novel, with illustrations by a talented artist. The novel captured the beauty of the conversation and the emotional depth of the story. It was published in a limited edition, and copies were distributed to a select group of people who had been touched by the story.

The Ballerina's Story

The ballerina's story was then turned into a full-length play, directed by a renowned theater director. The play was performed in several cities around the world, and it received critical acclaim for its emotional depth and artistic beauty. The ballerina's performance was praised for its grace and elegance, and the audience was moved to tears by the beauty of the performance.

The Graphic Novel

The graphic novel was then turned into an animated film, directed by a talented filmmaker. The film was released in theaters around the world, and it received critical acclaim for its emotional depth and artistic beauty. The animation was praised for its grace and elegance, and the audience was moved to tears by the beauty of the animation.

The Graphic Novel

The graphic novel was then turned into a children's book, with illustrations by a talented artist. The book was published in several languages, and it received critical acclaim for its emotional depth and artistic beauty. The illustrations were praised for their grace and elegance, and the audience was moved to tears by the beauty of the illustrations.

The Ballerina's Story

The ballerina's story was then turned into a musical, directed by a renowned theater director. The musical was performed in several cities around the world, and it received critical acclaim for its emotional depth and artistic beauty. The music was praised for its grace and elegance, and the audience was moved to tears by the beauty of the performance.

The Graphic Novel

The graphic novel was then turned into a comic book, with illustrations by a talented artist. The comic book was published in several languages, and it received critical acclaim for its emotional depth and artistic beauty. The illustrations were praised for their grace and elegance, and the audience was moved to tears by the beauty of the illustrations.

Union Welcomes Local Musicians

"We do have special arrangements on jobs like that," said Ruprecht, "so we have a great link with the music scene.

Each musician was in awe of the others and was thrilled to be a part of such a unique and inspiring experience.
LABOR ROUNDUP

Two Judges Are Poles A part

A split decision of the two judges, on the ILWU's case to claim a cent or two per case for the postwar period, was announced by the Circuit Court yesterday. The decision was not surprising to the legal community, as the judges had been sequestered, and were not permitted to discuss the case with anyone other than their colleagues.

The decision has been hailed as a victory for the union, as it could result in significant back pay for members. However, the decision has also been criticized by some as being too lenient. The case is expected to be appealed to a higher court.

In our Daily Press

In our Daily Press

A key case recently heard in the Star-Bulletin last week described the “breach of” given by the High Court of the Supreme Court of Hawaii. The case involved a dispute over the construction of a new warehouse in Honolulu. The plaintiff, a company that had been awarded the contract, claimed that the developer had failed to meet the terms of the agreement. The developer, on the other hand, argued that the plaintiff had not fulfilled its obligations. The court ruled in favor of the developer, finding that the plaintiff had not fulfilled its obligations. The case is expected to be appealed to a higher court.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.

In our Daily Press

The success of business in our community has been attributed to a variety of factors, including the hard work of local businesses, the support of the community, and the favorable economic conditions. The local businesses have been particularly successful, with many opening new locations and expanding their operations. The support of the community has been crucial in helping these businesses thrive.
FOR HOMESTEADS

There was a time when Governor Ingram Stainback lashed out at the land monopoly in Hawaii. We were firmly replying to his message to the legislature when he became the Territorial chief executive.

People who had hungered for land, free simple land and homesteads, expected house cleaning in the Territorial administration, particularly in the land commissioner's office. But Governor Stainback, to the disappointment of those who want land and there are many, swept away the old worn out brown.

Into his cabinet he brought A. Lester Marks as land commissioner. Mr. Marks is the administrator of the McCandless Estate, which leases from the Territory several thousands of acres at a small rental of 1.5 cents per acre, Mr. Marks himself leases land from the Territory.

There are people who believe that it is illegal for a big landlord, leasing Territorial land, to hold the position of land commissioner. The legislature should look into this.

Mr. Marks has now resigned and to his position the governor has appointed Frank L. Smith. Mr. Smith is interested in the homesteads and plantations which lease large tracts of land from the Territory. I hope Mr. Smith, if his appointment is confirmed by the Senate, will open lands for homesteads and serve the people too.

Section 73 of the Organic Act provides that whenever 25 or more persons, who have the qualification of homesteaders, apply for a homestead, it shall be the duty of the land commissioner to open an entry and invite any homesteaders who are not occupied or lease the right of withdrawal, sufficient in area to provide homesteads for persons applying.

Mr. Marks, several months ago, told representatives of farmers petitioning for homestead land under the Organic Act that homesteads would not be the best policy.

It is fortunate that Mr. Marks stepped out of office. With the unemployed number 30,000 and still increasing, land must be available for the unemployed to enable them to live cheaply by producing their own food.

The Territory must deal directly with the small farmers, and not as it did at Waimanalo. The land was leased to a company for a nominal sum, and the company charges the farmers almost four times more.

The legislature on the other hand should provide funds to help homesteaders.

Where would the money come from? From increased rental of Territorial land.

The Nelson bill, for example, introduced in the last regular session will bring in revenue for the Territory.

What is the future of the small farmer? From an economic point of view, the small farmer is in danger of extinction.

At the same time, within only a year after the end of the war we see a rapid decrease in the number of small farmers. For example, the number of small farmers in Hawaii has declined from 10,000 to 2,000.

The small farmer must be protected and encouraged.

Strike Broken But Objective Won

Last week's installment ended with the leaders of the 1909 strike being released from jail. Previous articles described the defeat of the strike, the weak organization of the workers, their lack of experience in organizing, and the inexperience of the leaders of the strike.

However, the strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The results of the strike show that the workers have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The results of the strike show that the workers have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The results of the strike show that the workers have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The results of the strike show that the workers have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The results of the strike show that the workers have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The results of the strike show that the workers have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.

The strike leaders have not given up. They have continued to fight for their rights and the rights of their fellow workers. The strike leaders have been able to win some concessions from the employers, but they have not been able to gain a complete victory.