Druggists War on Sundries; 75 Per Cent Lose Money

By STAFF WRITER

A fascinating economic war of survival between Honolulu’s licensed drug stores and the sundries stores was revealed this week after an agent of the Territorial Bureau of Foods and Drugs entered some sundries proprietors to dissuade selling a number of vitamins and other primary drugs to the wholesaler or to any store that maintains a licensed pharmacist.

One sundries store proprietor, at least, refused, and events that followed brought about the following developments:

1. Chief George Akau of the bureau, in an agreement, made the point that the sundries store had been “over-sold” and that some of the vitamins should be sold by prescription only.
2. The sundries store then offered to sell the vitamins through a Record agency and to pay a fee for the service.

Henriques Says Cow With Cholera Salable On Kauai

The veteran Kauai Democrat, Manuel A. Henriques, late last week, this morning, according to the newspapers Free Press, Jan. 13.

American and Philippines government agents disagreed that the counterfeit money was the same as that offered in India and in Hong Kong.

The dollars were used in Calcutta by merchants and speculators operating from the Philippines and in Hong Kong, thus gaining the Republic of the much-needed dollar.

Nishimura Got Job Because of Error In Name; Mayor Expected To Cite Case

The case of a laborer who worked for more than a year on a C-G road gang without ever being paid a single cent of his wages as he was engaged by the city commission may be one on which Mayor Wilson will use next week to express his views on the need for civil service reform.

Robert Miller was associated with the current laborer.

No one complains that the laborer is better off than his was, but the contrary, he was recommended by C-C Engineer Karl H. Schirmer for re-employment on a contract basis, and this expectation was carried out by the commission at a recent meeting.

Though hiring laborers by contract is said to be usual in the first government, Mr. Schirmer will continue in his present job.

But he owes his own job, which he got Dec. 1, 1926, to the fact that his name is very similar to that of Wallace H. Shimer, who found it in a list (more on page 7)

Onomea Co. Charges $155 for 8-Room House; "Profiteering," Say Laborers

By Special Correspondence

PANAMA CITY, May 1—The sum of $100 and fifty-five dollars rent for a single bedroom house in an isolated plantation camp—that is what Onomea Sugar Co., is presently collecting from its 12 occupants.

The union should do something about such profiteering," say the men.

Textile Industry: 200,000
Prepare for March 15 Strike
With the defense setup caused by the industry's top representatives, who are now merging to corner profits, the workers were getting raw deals almost everywhere.

Where laborers struck for legitimate increases in wages and the employers were stubborn, as in the railway strike, the union's authority was invoked to force the men back to work.

The WOOLLEN workers of the Textile Workers Union (CIO) who went on strike on New Zealand and Southern Mills, were still out on the strike this week and TWU President Fred Sheer sent a letter to cotton and rayon sales advising them not to extend agreements beyond March 15. If the employers remained bull-headed, he told them, they'd work.

"This is the deadline. Prepare to strike on that date," he wrote.

President’s Limit of Two Terms Becomes Law

With Nevada’s Senate’s first vote this week, the U.S. Constitution was amended to limit the tenure of office for U.S. Presidents to two terms. Nevada was the 36th state to ratify the amendment.

While talk of President Truman again fills the political atmosphere, the 2nd amendment is a damper on his aspirations, if he has any, among the new law indicates that two terms are long enough.

The amendment does not affect the President since he was in office when the states ratified it. Mr. Truman served three years of Franklin D. Roosevelt’s fourth term and won the 1948 election. The law is the only President who held the post after Roosevelt’s death.

Wilson: “No One Is Going To Profitize”

Charles E. Wilson, the $375,000-a-year head of General Electric Corp., until he took the job as head of Defense mobilization, has had no say in wage increases over the past five years, and the January 1932 rates for labor in general are not even as high as the 1930s.

“Liabilities” is a glimpse of what the aeronauts would “produce: 35,000 tanks and 18,000 jet aircraft engines among other items.

Wilson says, “The world is so vast and what he will be is the helpless, a job well done, the corporation’s board is helpless, and the public construction of government power projects. Such selfish doing in favor of private power has helped—power shortage. However, Wilson said, “There is enough power to meet present needs with a safe margin.”

President Truman, on the other hand, has said: “We will have to build more power plants, more steel plants, grow more cotton... in the months ahead.”

Private power monopolies are interested in developing power with government help. Wilson’s past actions would indicate that he would not put up obstacles in the path of private enterprise.

3,500 for Decency: Picket Jimcrowing Met. Life Ins.

In this day and age when militant struggles for civil rights, equality for all races, and the protection of our race are the law of the land, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is being picketed by a group of African Americans picketing the Metropolitan Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Met. Life’s housing project.

The Town & Village Committee to End Discrimination at Stuyvesant Town, which organized the picketing, sent a letter to all 33 of the organization’s leaders living in the housing project who have taken their fight to the courts.

Because of the mass protests the company has had to reduce the rents in the housing project.

Air Force: Greedy To Build “Elite Group”

Captain Byron H. Jones, air force public relations officer at the Lackland, Texas, base, had to answer the bad publicity that Lackland was receiving in the press and on the radio. He did not use force but relied on a generally effective weapon. He blamed unfavorable stories about Lackland on “social and cultural issues.”

The Senate preparedness subcommittee looked into the matter and came up with a report that gives priority to activities that are urgent... power development.

GIVES CREDIT TO HAWAII ILWU

Ed. Note: Employers by and large want a reserve army of workers. That was the lesson of labor competition among the workers to depress wages and keep them depressed. California produces farmers is notorious for this practice and one has only to read authoritative books such as "The Wages of Work," by Carey McWilliams, or the once popular novel, "Grapes of Wrath" by John Steinbeck. In view of the above, we feel the following editorial." THE MATION. Jan. 19, 1951, is interesting to RECORD readers.

Large-scale employers of farm labor have never been noted for generous treatment of their workers. The mean trick is practiced by the Hawaiian planters on their West Coast colleagues, who for some months have been seeking to recruit 18,000 workers in the island for employment in the plantations.

While this trick has not been practiced by the Hawaiian Pineapple Company to any great degree, the island officials have been trying to improve the working conditions of the workers, especially in the pineapple fields. The company has introduced a number of improvements, such as providing better housing and medical care. Many of these improvements have been welcomed by the workers, who have shown an increased interest in their jobs.

ILWU Pickets To March In Lanai Pineapple Strike

Indications from Lanai, where workers at the ILWU have been picketing for higher wages and better working conditions, are that the strike will be continued until the company agrees to their demands.

The strike began on Wednesday, when the workers at the Lanai pineapple plant announced their intention to go on strike to demand better wages and working conditions. The company has refused to negotiate with the workers, and the strike has continued for several days.

When the company again refused to meet the workers, the officials said that the strike would be continued until the company agreed to their demands. The workers have also been picketing at the company's offices in Honolulu, demanding that the company agree to their demands.

The strike has drawn attention to the poor working conditions in the pineapple plantations, and has led to increased demands for better wages and working conditions. The workers have been supported by many sympathetic people, and the strike has been successful in drawing attention to their cause.

When officers of the vice squad broke in the door at 230 Kukui St. yesterday, they found a number of men sitting around playing canasta.

The officers entered the room and asked the men to leave. The men refused and the officers told them that they would be arrested if they did not leave. The men then packed up their cards and left the room.

Fire Officials Inspect Pacific Laundry; Union Awaits NLRB Decision

A search was made of the Pacific Laundry on Tuesday by fire officials, who were looking for evidence of a fire that had been reported. The search was conducted by the NLRB, which is investigating the fire.

The NLRB is investigating the fire that occurred in the laundry, which is located in the basement of the building. The fire was reported by a worker who was on duty at the time.

The NLRB is investigating the fire to determine whether the workers were responsible for the fire or whether it was caused by an external source. The NLRB is investigating the fire because it is a labor dispute, and the workers are represented by a union.

The union is demanding that the workers be released from their duty to report the fire, and the NLRB is investigating the matter to determine whether the workers are being discriminated against.

One Prepares To Charge Faria; 2nd Visits Chief Liu

One man was, however, deeply concerned about the situation: Faria, who had assisted him in the police headquarters the previous day. Faria had assured him that he would investigate the matter further, but the man was still worried. He had heard that Chief Liu had been approached by a witness who claimed to have seen the shooter. Faria had promised to look into the matter, but the man was not sure how much progress had been made.

The Mauilliard senior had been missing for several days, and his family was becoming increasingly concerned. They had filed a report with the police, but there had been no news. The family was hoping that he might be located through the efforts of the military, which had a database of missing personnel.

Gambler's Delusion, According to a recent survey, more than half of all American adults believe in the gambler's delusion, the belief that consistent losses will eventually turn into consistent wins. The survey also found that men are more likely to engage in gambling than women, and that younger adults are more likely to gamble than older adults.

Regarding 'Capital and Labor':

In early days, a few of the laborers imported to Hawaii were given a share in the 'capital' of the plantation. But the laborers soon learned that they were being used to provide cheap labor, and they began to demand better conditions. They formed unions and went on strike, demanding higher wages and better working conditions. The planters, however, were not willing to give in, and the strikes only served to strengthen their resolve. The laborers were finally forced to accept the terms of the planters, but the lesson of the strikes was not lost on them. They continued to organize and strike, and their efforts were eventually successful. The laborers were able to improve their working conditions and raise their wages, and they were able to form their own unions. The laborers were also able to unionize the other workers on the plantations, and they were able to raise the wages of those workers as well. The laborers were thus able to improve their own lot, and they were able to make the plantations more efficient and profitable. Girl Sent to Hilo Three Times When Bleeding Endangers Life

U. S. Money Orders For Philippines Are Cashed On Hong Kong Market

The near-death by bleeding of a 10-year-old girl, daughter of Lt. Col. Max力を added a new chapter to the list of recent incidents that have led to many red cross representatives to be sent from the Army to the Philippines and ordered to learn the latest plan of action.

On August 19 last year there was an official report to the American Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D.C., that had “disappeared” in Korea on July 31. The Red Cross representatives believed that our son would return to the United States and be alive. Yesterday an official report came from the Army in the Philippines, which stated that our child had not been sighted and that inquiries were being made. They were now on a flight in search of him.

Dr. Carter had entertained hope that he could reach the Philippines, but it is now clear that he has been taken ill and is not expected to return for some time.

The chain of circumstances surrounding the disappearance of Dr. Carter and his partner, Dr. W. N. Baren, have been cleared up. The boy has been reported as safe, and the worry that had been building up in the Carter family has been allayed.

Dr. Carter’s diagnosis is based on the assumption that the child was fed and cared for properly.

While it is now certain that the money orders from the Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D.C., are safe, it is not known whether the money has been cashed on Hong Kong.

The operation was a simple one which might have been performed by a planter.

$19,888 Paid by Kauai County for Student Book Rental In 1950

Kauai County paid $19,888 for the rental of books during the school year, according to figures released by Superintendent, Kauai schools.

The county has paid the student fees for the various courses.

The cost of book rental is based on the total enrollment each year and is taken from figures as of the middle of September, according to Mr. Snell.

He has already put up the later and other bills he is preparing. The worth of these bills is as broad as the Territory, but they generally have one almsaid— the prints in the bills are aimed at aiding those of lower income.

One, which is a follow-up on previous bills Henriques pushed in previous years, is a bill to allow leases up to $35 a month. In its second session, the says he, the amount of free probate was set at $3,000 six months, and $1,000 in 97.

Hits for Meat Inspection

Another, very close to home for Henriques, is a bill for the post of his own office, supervisors to set up a meat inspection bureau.

"Our present isn’t adequate at all now," he says, "There’s nothing to be done, not to be done. A butcher shop can sell a sick cow, or a pregnant cow, or a cattle to be killed at a butcher shop, and even at a meat shop."

The meat inspection system is the most important of the health issues in the Territory, and it is necessary for the health of the people.

"We cannot protect ourselves," he said, "Our present system is not adequate."

The health problems in the Territory are critical, and it is essential that the government take action to improve the meat inspection system.

THE UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII ADMINISTRATION ON THE SPOT?

The administration of the University of Hawaii has been questioned in recent months. The University, which is one of the largest in the country, has been criticized for its lack of transparency and accountability.

Several students and faculty members have raised concerns about the administration’s handling of budget cuts, faculty layoffs, and the lack of representation of students in decision-making processes.

The administration has responded to these concerns, but the questions remain. Will the administration take action to address these issues, or will they continue to ignore the concerns of the students and faculty?

SPENDING TAXPAYERS' MONEY

When the Territorial Senate can kick up its expenses for a 60-day session $23,000 just because the House asked for $50,000 more than the Upper House itself had originally planned to spend, it is time for taxpayers to do some serious thinking and tell the public officials something a thing or two.

The Territorial government is operating on a deficit and the legislators are expected to set an example of economy. Hawaii's tax structure is paid for by the operation of government, comes from the lower-income group, for here in Paradise we have a regressive tax system that soaks the people who earn a bit of what they earn for subsistence. Those who are able to pay, who accumulate large savings yearly, get away with it.

There are strong pressures on the legislators now to pass another regressive tax, the 3.2 per cent sales tax that hits the poor the hardest.

The best of a legislator's greatness is the protection he tries to give to the interests of the majority. No common man can see greatness in public servants who, for a 60-day session and precious little for the operation of the government, get $50,000 for the Department of Welfare, State spending and welfare clients below...
