Chamber Gets Free Space At Legislature; Demos Hit Move

In a wooden building on the Palace Grounds, a new member of the House of Representatives, maintains an office in which he can work. It is the Chamber of Commerce, and he does so with the consent of Speaker Hiroh Fujii.

The building was formerly used by the Territorial Employment Service and other rooms are occupied by House committees and sub-committees, and the only manner by which the visitor really distinguishes between the government and commerce is in the sign that Mr. Marcelino had placed in the office instead of a sign as the Chamber of Commerce office is in the sign that Mr. Marcelino had placed in the office instead of a sign that reads, "In the yard, whereas the committee offices have great dark brown signs."

How did the "Associated Chamber" get such a privilege? "We should be," said Mr. Marcelino, "and we asked the Speaker and he said yes."

His office is maintained by Mr. Marcelino, said the Chamber of Commerce, in a house in Kailua, Hawaii, and the local one, and he keeps them informed of happenings in the legislature.

295 C-C Applicants Dropped For Not Taking Loyalty Oath; Bury News One Year

The names of 295 applicants for loans with the government's Housing and Home Finance Administration were dropped from the eligible list on the day after they failed to sign "loyalty oath" papers with the Civil Service department. That was the story, hidden in the C-C department, unreported in any local newspaper for almost a year, the RECORD learned this week.

In some cases as to whether or not such action was legal, whether applicants, personal manager of the C-C separated from the Civil Service department before taking the draft act, the RECORD further learned, though two warnings had been given by the Hawaii workers, to the applicants who had failed to sign the oath.

Few Came Later

"We let them know that if they come in and sign later, said the employee, "their names could be put back on the list, but only a few ever came."

Although the total size of the eligible list was not immediately available, it was estimated 295 constituted something more than 10 per cent.

Although the total size of the eligible list was not immediately available, it was estimated that the 295 constituted something more than 10 per cent.

The lack of list of those dropped was compiled in September after the ouster of the action was taken, the RECORD learned, that Mr. Sherratt never brought it to the attention of the Civil Service department, nor was any action suggested on it.

Arthur Akina, personal director of the Territorial Civil Service department, said the problem has arisen, though, he said, almost identical procedure was followed.

At Loss For Reason

The failure of the 295 to sign the oath left virtually all those familiar with Civil Service procedures on a loss for explanation.

Although few believe that the majority of that number are not eligible to state that they are licensed members of the Communist Party and have not been tested for the

Sales Tax Aids Homeowners At Expense of Tenants

Sales tax aids homeowners at the expense of tenants.

A strong argument for the sales tax provided in the Senate Bill 210, introduced by Sen. William Hill, is the exemption of a food tax, but when informed sources pointed out this new tax would work to the advantage of tenants, no other tenant has any difference between the sales and gross income taxes as far as the consumer is concerned.

The lowest-income group will not affect the low and middle-income groups will ever decide advances under the sales tax, those groups pay the sales tax, and tenants pay the sales tax on rent. The sales tax, however, is balanced off by the tax on rent and higher taxes on other income. Mr. Miyazato explained. He said the new tax, which would mean savings at the expense of the poor.

Those who are opposed to the sales tax did not want to be taxed on any income tax revision to bring in additional funds. A graduated system is a step in the right direction.

Others say that under the sales tax, a few thousand dollars of additional income would not be required, it would be distributed to doctors who would add the tax to the usual flat rate, feeling that doctors would add the tax to the usual flat rate.

Alaska Cannery Worker Compares Conditions In Hawaii, On Mainland

Our crime was building a strong union, a strong one of union workers who have fought on the West Coast as migratory workers," Ernesto Mangano, a business agent for Alaska Cannery Workers' Union, ILWU Local 101, told the RECORD last week.

Mangano, a delegate to the 29th biennial ILWU convention, faces deportation with eight other Filipino trade union leaders on the West Coast.

"Working in Alaska years ago was like contract workers from the Orient working on the Hawaiian Islands," Mangano said. "Labor contractors controlled the hiring and supplied us to Alaskan cannery employers and they forced us to pay our debts. We lived in army barracks and in 1938 were making thirty dollars a month."

Today, as the result of the union, every worker earns $5.50 an hour for an eight-hour day, while former workers in Hawaii, without overtime, conditions have improved tremendously and a union hiring hall has been established for the crooked labor contractors who lived off the workers like leeches.

The labor contractors, who were Japanese, Chinese and Filipinos who worked on the with the Alaskan salmon industry, did not allow
General MacArthur Fired; People Elated; World Peace Pressure Seen

One day after General Douglas MacArthur said he wanted the UN to "take the wraps off" that he could immediately carry the war to the Chinese mainland by aerial bombardment and coastal shelling, he found himself booted out by President Truman, who gave in to critical U.S. congressmen who were raiding the Chinese mainland, and in ways that apparently could not be contained by UN forces. MacArthur was removed from his position, and the U.S. government is now reportedly preparing to fire him. The move has come as a shock to many, including UN officials, who were caught off guard by the unexpected decision.

The sudden change in policy has also raised questions about the future of the war in Korea and its impact on global politics. MacArthur's resignation has sent shockwaves through the international community, with many wondering what comes next for the UN and its allies in the conflict.

The news has been met with a mixture of reactions, with some expressing relief that the high-stakes conflict can now be de-escalated, while others are concerned about the potential for renewed conflict. The impact of the move on the war in Korea and global politics remains to be seen, but it is clear that the consequences of this decision will be far-reaching.

Harold Shinn, Local 143, Ona, said, "We have no business to be involved in the present war. The people of Asia and all over the world want to be free from Americans, but because of a few corrupt politicians, we are forced to pay for Wall Street, we are making a lot of money from them.

Frank Silva, Local 149, Kauai, added, "This is our war and we will not stand for it. We will fight for our freedom and our lives."

Tell them what the present situation is. We have been fighting for freedom for a long time. We want to continue to fight for our freedom."

Several others opposed the convention. Joseph Jacobson, Local 121, added, "We will support the convention and take action against the war."

Answering the charges that war is in the air, Sugar Workers' representative Miki Sato denied that the war was in the air and said it was time to go to war. He said, "We are not going to fight for freedom. We want to go to war to get rid of the war."

Housewife Boycott of Sky-High Meat Prices Spreading: Sharp Drop In Sales

NEW YORK CITY (1939) -- In a raggedly spreading, futile struggle, America's housewives are rebelling against meat prices frozen by the government's 'sky-high' reign.

In this city alone, several small food and butcher shops in major cities reported a sharp drop in sales, particularly on the more expensive cuts of meat.

An anonymous source said, "Some were voluntarily raising prices, but not, stubbornly, to housewives back to the meat counters in large numbers."

A spokesman for the Metropolitan Butchermen's Association in New York said that, in the past, 30 per cent drop in meat sales in the city of 500,000 would not be uncommon.

"But our sales are now lower by 60 to 70 per cent," he said.

No Meat Shortage Involved, he asserted, "but there is a general feeling of nervousness on the part of many people."

No meat shortage was involved in the drop. At the time of the drop, the nation was importing meat products, including dried beef, from other countries. The drop was caused by a decline in the demand for meat.

MCS Hits NMFU for Move To Block Wage Talks With Shipowners

(MCS Release)

SAN FRANCISCO Call -- As predicted by officials of the Marine Cooks and Stewards Union in the wages talks last month, the National Marine Union has attempted to prevent the shipowners from raising wages, the executive secretary of the Union reported yesterday.

Executive Secretary W. J. Brown of the Marine Cooks Union, Chicago, said, "The first move open to NMFU is to file a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board to call for an NLRB election."

"The move is a direct action to prevent the NMFU from raising wages to the level of the Marine Stewards Union, which has successfully negotiated a new contract with the shipowners.

"Say Claim Unfounded"

A spokesman for the NMFU who was also one of the officials of the NMFU told the Hawaii Star-Bulletin in an interview that the drop in meat sales was caused by a drop in consumer demand.

"The demand for meat has been declining for some time," he said. "We believe that the price of meat has been too high for the average consumer."

"The public should never have to deal with the racial problems that are the result of ignorance and prejudice," the letter said.

Lieut. Jim White Says Wardens Aided In 1948 Escape Effort

JAMAICA DAILY PRESS SAYS:

"Even Death Has Become Class-Conscious"

BY HARVEY O'CONNOR
(Federated Press)

MONROVIA BAY, Jamaica (FP) - An escaped prisoner dies in a fishing boat as a result of the ship's sinking, according to the latest news from the prison. The doctors say it's malnutrition, but the newspaper says it's from the ugly word, starvation.

Paradise for Tourists

So far nearly 150 deals have been recorded from the crested and mystiastic "moustache sickness." But in Jamaica sickness seems slow or not at all, and it is confined that in this past two months more than 200 have died. Most of them are children and old people, too weak on a diet of yams and access to offer much resistance to this tropical killer.

At the height of the epidemic, daily proceedings sent the hospital in Montego Bay. Little pine boxes were carried in as many as 150 persons were taken to pathologist's field. According to Dr. E.F. E. B. H. of the island paradise at the swan Casa Binnen and Sunset Lodge body, an escape at the death by hunger stalks the hay and rice fruits. The hospital even as they sun themselves on the white sands of famed Derek's Care beach. The little husks clinging to the mountain sides and the superb yellow flames, as a Jamaica news in a year.

Up in those hills a million Black Jamaicans live on tiny plots of a few acres each. Most of them are hungry even when eating in the form of real meat on special occasions. Milk is unknown as a food. Cinnamon fruits are far beyond their reach. In winter they depend mainly on yams, a coarse root crop unlike the American yam, and on ackee, a poisonous fruit. These native author ties say that when these are eaten correctly, which happens because the people have nothing else to eat - they are poisonous. That is when the "moustache sickness" comes.

Huts Only the Poor

The children and villagers with their houses of straw, sometimes within 12 hours. If he can find a place in the sugar town, he may live — if he gets there soon enough.

HeIl, Felix (county of St. James, behind Montego Bay there have been 4 cases in the last two months from this scourge. A medical team was rushed in from the new University of the West Indies medical school and returned there.

About all the authorities can agree upon is that "moustache sickness" is no more the typical medical term for it than bills only the poor, and mostly mostly children and the aged.

From death," editorialized the Jamaican Daily Express, "has been come class conscious."

Local Water Clause Hidden In Kauni Bill

The Suburban Water System of the city county government may, if the situation is not clearly re- quired by legislators become a bill of the past and the Board of Water Supply may become consider the legislative action to have been taken in HB-26, which is about "hidden" as a clause at the annual session of the city legislature. The water supply is limited generally to the supply on Kauni, con- sidered "hidden," to the amendment of the existing water supply in the city and the definition of "hidden." It is a "hidden clause.

Delegates Visit Lanai Strikers; Help Picket

"The strikers' spirits are high and they are well fed," said the delegate, Regional Director of the ILWU in Northern California, after visiting the picketing workers at the Saturday as one of a party of four Maine delegations. The four were: Chester, Charles Duarte, Local 6, and John J. Lynch, Local 12, and George Love, President of Local 4.

The strike broke at a meeting of the strikers, carried them messages of encouragement from the international convention, which they had obtained permission to form the union and support by Mainland locals. They were also introduced to 15 workers who had been laid off by the Hawaiian Pineapple Co. At the beginning of this strike, the railheads were blocked by a group of workers and had to be carried to the proper location.

The tour members also met with the supervisors and union officials, which had been collected at the convention.

Police Fink Against Pressure in Raid On Iolani Palace Game

Before Saturday's raid on the Iolani Palace game, the large crowd assembled in the field, finished police were under pres- sure. But at 3:30, 4:30, and 5:30, the RECORd learned, but neither the police nor the proprietors said anything. Chief Dan Liu would change their minds.

Finally, he promised to "raid any gamblers, no matter how guilty," but he refused to say what the city would do to the last Saturday raid a cop game and to arrest a man or play.

Another employee, not among those arrested, tried to deceive Faris and finally called Chief Dan Liu to the phone. But the police continued to operate.

NON-SACRIFICIAL PEP—Equality of sacrifice doesn't apply to the wealthy or their dogs. This minkcoated society woman came to the Iolani Palace game recently for her pretty, but the police did not like her and asked her to leave. New Territorial employers are looking for the informer.
Now the Honolulu Advertiser does not use the smear technique of the un-American Activities Committee. It ran an editorial April 10 entitled "Technique of Gossip" of the Committee that the committee smeared suspect fellow Americans.

The editorial stated: "The Committee has the technique of rumor and innuendo. The use of information for purposes of political and personal gain, and organization records. It isn't sure, it confines, that all of them are now, or ever have been, conscientiously engaged in subversive activities. It generally offers to publish a list of those who are subversive—members of the Committee.

What else did the Advertiser say for the un-American committee?

It is shocking to read the Advertiser's editorial which is a direct steal of the witch-hunting hysteria. "What has become of the American preachment of innocence until guilt is prove? It appears to be unknown in the Committee.

The Advertiser of the "Dear Joe" editorial can certainly become a tongue-twister job. We did not mean to write the editorial writer to do the items close to the deadline and in a mad rush to bring out the paper, the tooth-and-curb treatment was not given.

The Advertiser has a point in railing against the system of the ORB has always pointed out that the anti-Communist hysteria created a situation that threatened the welfare and wind-in-the-sails of the un-American committee and any such group which might be suspected of being run by the Communists, but as liberals and even conservatives, we urge the public to go the way of Hitler's anti-Communist crusade which is just as damaging in gas chamber genocide.

Editor, Honolulu Record

Two leading admen have recently happened to illustrate how the current anti-Communist hysteria causes people to believe in a ridiculous manner. One of the "arrested" this time by an over-zealous sailor, was the perfect red-headed sailor. The other, though likewise absurd, is also amusing. The story has been told of a young boy who was charged with the murder of a policeman by the police. The case was tried before a jury and the jury found the boy guilty and sentenced him to death. The boy's family hired a lawyer to appeal the case. The lawyer appealed to the judge who said, 'The boy is guilty. What can I do for him?' The lawyer replied, 'Nothing. The boy is guilty.'

Lately, more than 50 years later, Hawaii is still a Territory. The members of Congress from the Territory, in their sources, have been discussing the possibility of a new federal law that would reduce the income of Congressmen. The law would reduce the income of Congressmen by one-third and would also limit the amount of money a Congressman could receive from a single source. The money would be used to improve the living conditions of the people in the Territory.

In-Humans Showing "Slavey"

"This is only one instance in hundreds showing the slavery in Hawaii. It is not only true of the Territory but is found in other countries as well. This is a matter of labor contracts and how they are enforced. Labor contracts are often violated and workers are treated worse than slaves. Today, in many places, workers are exploited and are not paid fairly for their work. slee is a place where laborers are treated worse than slaves."
