KAWANO WITH UN-AMERICANS

In this period of built-up hysteria, when fear stalks the land, when civil liberties guaranteed by the Constitution are trampled upon by those who great over the Taft-Harley and the Smith Acts, Jack Kawano went to Washington to serve the notorious American committee.

In 25,000 apparently well-rehearsed words, he auto to the role of a fireman, smearing, fabricating and becoming a tool of one of the worst anti-labor, racist agencies we have in government.

Kawano ignores the role played by the ILWU membership in their achievements when he says the union is completely controlled by Communists. Everyone knows the tremendous gains in economic and social fields brought about through the efforts of the ILWU. This slanting of the black and file means to show how far he has drifted away from the union. At the same time, Kawano, in a backhanded manner, gives credit to the Communists for all these gains by saying that they control the ILWU completely.

The editors of the various ILWU locals answered him: "We know of our own personal knowledge, that the ILWU involves the finest traditions of democracy. It is governed by the membership through its elected bodies, and will brook no interference or dictation from any outside organization."

Kawano says that he turned to the Communists when he and others tried to organize the longshoremen years ago. The employers wanted to see all attempts to organize the dock workers and no civic or community organizations showed any signs of willingness to lend assistance.

While Kawano says, according to his testimony, that he found more than 10 years later that the Communists had motives other than the best interest of the workers in giving the longshoremen assistance, his dealings with the individuals he names show nothing of the alleged activities of Communists which are used in the usual Red scare and Red-hating propaganda.

Kawano's case is nothing new. The trade union movement is dynamic. As it progresses, some ability go forward into positions of leadership, the same as in any other field. Others, some oldtimers, have been passed by, either because of lack of ability or by lack of militancy through the softening up process of employers and others, like politicians, who want to use the workers in achieving their own ends. Some labor leaders are thus captured, or bought out, and thus, too, is an old, old story.

P. I. Pesos Here Tied Into Black Market of Manila

A drawer in a downtown office, stuffed to the top with Philippine bank notes, was reported this week as the most sizable local symbol of the Philippine black market in money.

Involvement of the traffic is reported to be directly connected to the transportation of Philippine dollars. The peso-stuffed drawer, members of the "black" of a travel agency here which is subject to a high proportion of the sale of Philippine pesos for American dollars.

Target for the operation is said to be high market price of U. S. (more on page 23)

George W. Grasshopper of the planning commission assumes the fault directly and he says: "We stipulated the banks must be posted but we did not follow it up."

DAIRYMEN'S STIRRED BY RIVAL

Dairymen’s Association has been giving pep talks to its dairymen-sellers in boost sales, according to an employer in the campground.

Reason for the campaign, the same sources say, is the entrance of a new competitor in the milk business.

Refused To Join Pool J. W. Campos, who has been shipping approximately 8,000 quarts of milk a day to Dairymen’s, will distribute his own milk after this month as his contract to supply Dairymen’s terminates.

The Kalua rancher had shared differences with Dairymen’s last year when he began negotiating for a new contract. Dairymen’s wanted him to join the milk producers who supplies the company. The producers do not know what price they will receive until the period accounting, which is based on pay-

On October 20, 1940, the RECORD published the first of a series of stories about death through the careless handling of dynamite and the lax practices which were constant hazards to life and property throughout the Territory. What campaign continues until Governor Starnsback ordered an investigation—which brought recommendations for alterations in the laws governing the use of explosives.

July 1, a long trip was taken toward correcting the practices exposed by the RECORD. Art 101 was passed this year by the legislature and went into effect on that date. Here is some of the re-forms effected by the new law:

- "Dynamite men," to be licensed according to law, must be able to read, write and speak English and must pass written and oral examinations. (Formerly, there was no set examination and many of the 295 licensed men in the Territory had been given their licenses at the request of contractors, with informal examinations, if any.)
- Dealers must keep monthly reports of amounts of explosives on hand, amounts sold, and the names of the purchasers. Only licensed men are eligible to buy dynamite. Also, dealers must give their explosives in Territorial magazines and in some private place approved by the Territorial safety engineer. (Formerly, anyone could purchase explosives who got a police per-

"Race" Against Taxman, Says Cop

Jay Venner, taxi driver, was bound over Monday by U.S. Commissions Harry Storper, to the federal grand jury on charges of selling liquor without a license.

Chief witness against him was Jack B. Smith, of the Honolulu police who testified that on June 17 he purchased a bottle of whiskey from Venner for $1.

To Venner, as to close acquaintances on Maunakea St., where the driver operates a stand, there is more significance to the case than meets the eye.

"If they actually got evidence on him now, ask why they don’t ask them to come in six months.

Progress in Sugar
Confab Reflects
Ire of Workers

Some progress in sugar negotiations was reported this week by ILWU spokesmen, since negotiations have agreed to consider cost forms and non-cost items separate.

It was significant, union spokesmen said, that progress was made in discussions of the non-cost items which do not require any increase in pay or other money outlay on the part of the companies.

"The new attitude of the companies, more amenable to bargaining than in the first week, was interpreted by some union men as being the reflection of the resentment expressed by men on plantations against the earlier, uncompromising manner.

"But the boys are still storing up dynamite and other odds and ends," said a union spokesman, "They call it strike insurance."

 If it's a question of the times, asks a lady, and she goes on to point out that our society's "good times" are the Advertiser's and the Advertiser's "bad times" are our society's.

"Good" is capitalised always, of course, except in the most malediction of the Democratic newspapers, and it is usually bespoken in the Advertiser. By "the times," the lady undoubtedly referred to recent outbreaks of racism in Chicago and on the West Coast.

CHUCK MAU, who received the thanks of Jack Hanzawa for assistance in testifying before the Hawaii Civil Liberties Committee, has had to pour his heart out to the Senate judiciary committee. But in the fullness of time, Turner, according to an expert in the legislation, the vision of the Tameranian, will never be confirmed. Turner is thinking of some other obstacles that might block Mac's appointment.

Tuners still talk with much outward confidence of his chances to be Secretary of Hawaii, but he is also putting out signals to see if he might get to be Secretary of the Interior.

A MAUI policeman who was deposed after differences with the department there, is still engaged in operating an illegal enterprise, according to reliable information. The enterprise has been going on for some time, but it was not the reason for his deposition.

A SEATTLE woman, reading of the current drive by unions and progressive groups against racial discrimination in places of entertainment, recalls how she participated in the same work of drive in her home town. In the State of Washington, as in a number of other states, there is a law which forbids discrimination in any public place and makes violation punishable by a stiff fine. So she drove was to see that the law was enforced. Mixed groups visited doubtful places, gathered evidence and offered owners their choice of changing their practices or facing court. In the face of such a drive, discrimination disappeared quickly to a marked degree.

THE WASHINGTON law, incidentally, is not much different from that which was presented to the legislature in 1949 by the Hawaii Civil Liberties Committee. Opponents of such a measure here have always maintained that there is no discrimination and no need for such action. Then, the Star-Bulletin a few weeks ago, editorially excused the discrimination by some establishments by saying there are places where Negroes and other minorities can go if they wish. The same argument might...
Dillingham Firm Forced To Take Coast Guard’s ‘No’ On Dynamite

Honolulu Harbor has been closed by an order of the U. S. Coast Guard, to ships carrying more than 200 cases of dynamite.

The order, dated at Washington July 6, cited an explosion at South Amboy, N. J., May 15, 1936, in which more than 200 men were blown to pieces to such an extent that their bodies could not be identified.

Exact cause of the explosion is not known, but the order was issued following a change in policy to close the harbor to ships carrying dynamite.

Dillingham W. T. newspaper representative told the Record, double the trigger fox because of the long haul to Honolulu.

Unloading is considered by some to be the only safe way to handle the situation. The company has agreed to unloading at West Loch, where the dynamite is said to be stored.

Two Choices

1. Unload at West Loch, which is under Navy jurisdiction and would require permission.
2. Unload dynamite at barges in small quantities and unload again at the docks.

The company has not been offered an alternative, and if it continuues to refuse to unload at West Loch, there will be no alternative.

Washington (AP) — William W. Boyle, Jr., Democratic national committee chairman, was linked to a $650,000 loan to a St. Louis printing concern from the reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1940. The disclosures appeared in an exclusive St. Louis Post-Dispatch story.

The firm, American Lithograph, Inc., had been denied an RFC loan three times, but was granted the first installment of the loan in 1940, shortly after it hired Boyle on a $500-a-month retainer.

Boyle issued a brief statement here saying he had represented the company only "in legal matters not connected with the company’s application for an RFC loan."

American Lithograph is now being investigated by a federal grand jury in St. Louis to determine whether the company’s application for the loan was fraudulent.

PTA NEWS BRIEFS
Parents of the Maemae school students did a remarkable job of lobbying for the $400,000 extension, but because they overlooked one step, the appropriations bill went through, they finally failed in their objective.

THE SHORTCOMING was the failure to lobby in the governor’s office. This happened, according to informed sources, because the parents felt that Governor Lomi, who has the education in this area, was not as effective as the governor’s office. Governor Lomi vetoed the Maemae school district’s request for $400,000, the amount or the amount included in the budget request.

SOME PARENTS WHO MIND Gov.-
Lomi Long was influenced by DPI and PTA elements who frowned upon the effective lobbying by the Maemae PTA members. The DPI wants the PTAs to work closely together with the department, but past experience has shown that schools in those with higher income families get priority. Thus, parents of various neglected schools are forced to take independent action.

OUR 13th
"BLOODY MONDAY" ANNIVERSARY
AUGUST 1st

The port of Hilo was closed August 1st, 1933, as longshoremen observed their "Bloody Monday" anniversary this week.

and clucked peaceful demonstrators, injuring 51, on Kahiilo dock on August 1, 1933. The members of the Hilo Chamber of Commerce were all against, and chartered, "Property rights had been preserved.

Felt the Rayonet
Down on the Hilo dock 19 years ago, 500 unionists, family members, friends and sympathizers demonstrated against the scab-manned Wailana. The Inland Boaters’ Union and the ILWU Local 1-31 had struck the Inter-island Navigation Co. two months before.

About 10 a.m. the demonstrators were sitting down, watching the ship coming in to dock. Kau Nakanishi, a longshoreman, was sitting down also and toward him came Officer Charles Warren.

"Get the hell out of here," barked the county officer.

Urataki later said he rose to move back, and as he turned, he felt "the point of the rayonet go through the left side of my back."

The first blood had been spilled. All hell broke loose when at 10:15, Deputy Sheriff K. K. Kurosawa gave orders to shoot. Officer Warren later said: "I was so excited I don’t know what I did."

This same officer had thrown a tear gas bomb at Hilo longshoremen on July 2 when they had held a demonstration by the scab-manned Wailana. The company continue the riot trip but the Hilo Chamber of Commerce wanted the cash ship to come in.

The "big shots in Honolulu" had given the order to the Big Island’s elected sheriff to carry out the violence. And because the "big shots" controlled politics through their dollars, Martin did as he was told. He was told to spill blood and not worry about it.

Historical Mile Post
Thus "Bloody Monday" became a historic mile post.

Chairman O’Connor of the board of supervisors said: "I was supposed to have a meeting with the sheriff and other officials before the actual shooting had started but the sheriff went and took things in his own hands."

The trade union movement in the Territory was young then. The militant longshore union in Hilo had come to stay in September 1933.

By terrorism, violence, blackmailing and brieking, employers tried to destroy the fledgling unions.

Game Master

Today, Hawaii’s Big Five employs would get a $20 to $50 million in pineapple crop tax on labor in attempting to wreck the pineapple workers’ union. What the workers are asking would cost the Hawaiian Pineapple Co. Ltd., about $54,000 a year.

Union strength has grown through numbers and experience in fighting for higher wages, improved conditions, the employability and security for future.

Their anti-union battle is out of the same cloths in the Hawaii’s organized and unorganized workers, without whom no merchant or employer can survive in business.

The Philippines government has "turned a new leaf" under President Elpidio Quirino's more determined leadership and graft and corruption are things of the past, according to Felo Neri, the President's undersecretary of foreign affairs, who passed through here recently.

The "determined leadership" of Quirino was well demonstrated last month when the president called a special session to pass the budget bill.

Here’s how the Philippines Free Press, Independent w-kny magazine, editorialized the incident:

"When President Quirino called Congress to a 10-day special session in order to work on the unpassed budget bill, only seven droopy-eyed representatives—out of a total of 99—answered the roll call. A plausible but not quite convincing explanation was offered the surprised public: the senators had gone home to their respective provinces to relax...after 100 days of grueling legislative work."

"The unimpressed fact, however, was that the majority of the honorable gentlemen of the House were still in Manila. Only a few had rushed off to their individual districts, apparently on missions of great importance but really to act as sponsors in a baptism by welding or to crown a town fiesta queen in some out-of-the-way barrio."

"It was pleasantly surprising to note, however, that on the following day the 'fainting' legislators rushed back to the city, presumably to attend the special session..."

"..."MAYBE IT WAS just another case of coincidence. But it is worth mentioning here that the day before, Senator Pablo Angeles left, vice chairman of the Senate committee on public works, had issued a press statement to the effect that pork barrel would be distributed to members of Congress. According to (David) every Senator—regardless of party affiliation—would be entitled to the amount of P100,000 ($50,000) and each Liberal representative, P150,000 "..."

Senator Tomas C. Coteron reached to the Filipinos in time to attend three days of the 100-day congressional session. Like the Scoups and Kungas, Chiang Kai-shek’s in-laws, Senator Coteron seems to have shipped it to the U.S. quite a bit of his fortune made in his native land through the work of ill-paid laborers and peasants. Looking after his interests in the U.S. apparently was more important than being present at the congressional sessions...

Senator Minerva Marigal was also absent from the last session of Congress, and as the Free Press said, attending "doubtless to his many financial interests" in the U.S.

Kendall Dared To

MAUI-When Christopher Kend- dall, Hawaii Government Em- ployees Association executive, last visited Kula Sanitarium, he may have voiced himself right into a debate.

According to reports from Kula, Mr. Kendall devoted some of his time and energy telling how he had often challenged Henry Epstein at one united nurse workers of America to debate on the issues on which the two organizations differ. Epstein, Kendall is said to have told Kula nurses, always refused all challenges.

When Epstein visited Kula a little later, the employees told him of Kendall’s words and the unpaid war, we are informed, that Einstein forthwith sent on a challenge to Kendall to debate.

Hawaii’s Paper for the Common Man
LONELY HEARTS DEPARTMENT

"It Could Be You, Georgia Child" was the heading of an article in the June 21, 1951 Honolulu Shimp, bilingual newspaper published in New York, which published a Hawaiian youth's desire to meet some AAJ femmes in New York.

The article in the Honolulu Shimp said:

Robert Young is a Chinese youth from Hawaii, age 23, who "wished to know some Japanese female friend."

Not being the sort to be open about his desires, he wrote a letter to the Honolulu Shimp last week:

"I would like to know if there are any Japanese in the United States. I am 23 years old and am interested in meeting some Japanese female friends."

In a transport of admiration for such business-like forthrightness and engaging frankness, the Honolulu decided to help his plea for free.

So girls, if you're interested and game—or just interested—Robert's address is 118 Elizabeth St. Apt. 22, New York City 13.

Look out the window in Washington most any time, and there's a parade of retired generals and admirals going by. They are leaving Uncle Sam's service with generous pensions in their pockets, and are taking highly paid positions with big, failing corporations and "associations." . . . High military officers constantly deal with big business for Uncle Sam. Is it a good thing for them to be accepting fat jobs with big business? Doesn't that put them under temptation not to offend big business by protecting Uncle Sam?

Joe Ryan Runs Longshore Union With Gangsters; Invites ILWU Dockers

Working longshoremen at an ILA convention? As rare as a soft-hearted ship owner.

That's what a rank and file member of "King Joe" Ryan's International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) has to say of the union into which Ryan last week invited ILWU longshoremen to return. His story on "King Joe" is published in the March issue of the "March of Labor."

Although the ILA constitution provides that there shall be one delegate for each 100 members, a very likeable man is made at carrying out these provisions, the writer reports, for few of the 109 locals of the ILA even held meetings. Of the 50 locals in New York, he says, "there is no meeting at all."

Consequently, delegates to the ILA convention are preponderantly those appointed by Ryan himself, and if anyone lifts his voice in opposition to a Ryan move, he's likely to be set upon by goons.

When a motion to make Ryan "president for life" in 1943 was on the floor of the convention, a Canadian delegate rose to say he didn't think any man ought to be appointed president for life. He was immediately surrounded by a number of bruisers who advised him to take off and miss future sessions of the convention. We did, and the motion was carried without opposition.

Gangsters Present

While there may be few longshoremen at an ILA convention, the rank-and-file writer, there are plenty of gangsters like the 11th international vice president, Gus Gonzales, who is alleged to have engineered the murder of Pete Panto, ILA rank and file.

With that sort of "democracy" in the union, it's no surprise to the rank-and-file to note the average pay of a New York longshoreman is $2,400 a year as compared with the $4,000 average received by a San Francisco ILWU longshoreman. Yet ILA men in other ports receive even less than the New Yorkers, differences being as great as 75 cents less per hour.

Though New York ILA men do get pension and welfare benefits to compensate somewhat for their low income, ILA men in other ports do not.

Instead of anything resembling a hiring hall, ILA men still stand for the shape-up and one of the demands of the rank and file at present is to limit shape-ups to once a day.

Trouble Ahead

As he approaches 68, "King Joe" faces more trouble among his subjects than ever before. Two locals, that is, Philadelphia and New York's all-Negro Local 698 have rebuffed all efforts of Ryan to force them to elect his officers, and they continue to elect militant officers of their own choosing.

The Philadelphia local defied Ryan during the Hawaii strike and refused to unload the "short" cargo by which shippers tried to dodge ILWU West Coast picket lines.

The Philadelphia local, which has often demanded non-segregated hiring, actually includes 60 per cent of Irish extraction and in its last election, it ignored the Ryan slate and elected militant officers, including a Negro president.

In 1943, Ryan's crown was shaky for three weeks when New York dockers went out on strike without any authorization. "King Joe" had to call an official strike to save his own face, the rank-and-file writer. The unison was that the strike won far better conditions for the stormthrowers than Ryan had ever mentioned.

OVERLORD TRADE

Opium smuggling in the com-temporary times, says an old-timer, has been done largely via the Imperial Line. When an import ship was making the harbor, our spy sampans would go out to follow her wake. The pickup sampans often flew a long red banner as a signal to the passer on ship to leave his bundle of budles over the side. The bundles were small bales tightly wrapped in cotton that would float them for a long time. When the pickup sampans got the bales, it would pass them on to another and that one to another until a pattern was set up believed sufficient to confuse searching authorities.

Many bundles were missed by the pickup men of course, and were later found by fishermen—who had found local dealers left a standing order of $10 per bundle for all they round and turned over.

Big Land Monopolists Sabotage Growth of Beef Industry in T. H.

Fifty-two per cent of the Territory's total land area of 4,118,477 acres is in pasture lands. The total number of these acres was leased from the Territory largely to big ranchers who pay as low as six cents per acre on a thousand-acre lease.

The L. L. McDade estate pays about $4,000 for an acre on a 1,000-acre lease in South Korea. Lester Muehlhorn, the rancher, is manager of the estate. Gay and Robinson pays seven cents per acre on a 77-acre lease in Wake. The estate, Kauai, Robert Hind, Ltd., leases 1,242 acres in North Korea at 12 cents an acre. Robert Hind, Jr., was chairman of the House lands committee during this year's legislative session. The Hinds lease, signed in 1937, will continue until 1950.

Smallers Ones Squeezed Out

Richard Smart of Pontier Ranch, has a lease of about 14,000 acres for approximately 25 cents an acre. He also has numerous oth-er leases. Can small ranchers and farm-ers (some of them listed as pasture land) be assimilated to diversified farming? That is one of the big monopolies over the government was apparent when about two years ago, two free government large ranchers got together to bid for pasture land in Kauai. Neither of them was in a position to lease the whole area. The Territorial government refused to split the land and this meant that a big rancher would get the lease.

Several years ago, again on Hawaii, big ranchers squeezed out the smaller ranchers in leasing Territory land.

A Closed Business

Land monopoly in the Territory gives the lease issue for ambitious young ranchers who love the soil and livestock but cannot acquire land.

Because the land monopolists have been made it almost impossible to get all the pasture land so that, at the taxpayers' expense, by controlling the government, they have found it necessary for improving the carrying capacity of the land.

The task must fall, more or less, on the public interest. The big ranchers seem content with their present production which requires most expenditures, although they can increase their output by improving the pastures and stock feed.

The beef industry has not grown, mainly for this reason. In 1910, there were 20,257 head of cattle; in 1919, 130,447, and in 1940, 141,400.

Bottom line raisers, whose land rent is low on a long-term lease, have talked beef prices which hit the consumers' pocketbooks. Last year, despite a decline in cattle marketings of from 33,700 head in 1948 to 79,500, the ranchers made a profit.

small ranchers, to farmers who want to raise a few head of beef stock on the side, it will not only mean higher prices in the $7 million industry, but will also increase the island's beef production.

The Territory imported in the commissioner became head of the American Farmers land depart-ment. Former Governor Stan-ley talked of breaking the land monopoly, but he failed to test to become a trustee of the Camp-bell estate. Politics controlled by big interests, perpetuates land monop-oly.

Gring On Land Monopoly

The agricultural extension service of the local university has been working on a project that would improve the carrying capacity. The agricultural engineering department has produced the forge chopper, which under the present land system is more adaptable for dairies, but it could be made more widely available, the forge choppers would mean tremendous economy to ranchers, if land is made available to the Gring on land monocrops and farmers, land ownership or even the leasing of government lands, will come when the system of land monop-oly is broken here in the Territory.

Public officials have been behind this. But many have their private interests. A former a

IN THE LOCAL DAILIES

In the same column of the Advertiser, July 23, page 8, section 2, were two articles which pointedly showed the times in which we are living. The headline of the top story said: "Retain Near Death: Guards Rushed To Isle."

The UP story said 95-year-old Delain was a traitor of World War II serving a life sentence for his leadership of the Vichy government of France.

THE SECOND story was headlined: "Spain Installs New Gob-net." The story said the Franco regime had installed the new cabinet to minimize foreign criticism of its fascist government. Franco’s government is the same one that supported Hitler and Mussolini.

The significant part of the whole development is that the Franco regime is giving the use of air and naval bases to the U.S. in order to bring “Spain and Western Europe” closer together. In this move also to “preserve democracy”? Since when did Franco become an advocate of democ-eracy?

STABILIZING PRICES UPWARD

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Office of Price Stabilization official took issue with President Truman’s statement in his mid-year economic report to Congress that “some collusion will be needed in selected cases . . . where prices are excessively high.”

The official said finally no price ceiling would be set for the purpose of reducing prices.

“That’s not the way OPS operates,” he commented.

Meanwhile a new OPA order confronted consumers with the immediate prospect of higher clothing, particularily the woolen goods, and threatened the existence of the five-cent bottle of soda pop.

The OPA order was expected to permit price boosts on about 71,000 manufactured items, including shoes, textiles and machinery.

The order would make “no appreciable difference” in the cost of living, OPA officials said.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, deaths from occupational accidents in 1960 totaled 15,300, and injuries almost 2,000,000.

"King Joe" Reminds Congress of Criminals

Answering the charge of the U. S. Senate crime committee that the International Longshoremen’s Association is “still infested with bandits,” President Joseph (King Joe) Ryan said that though some ILA members may have run afoul of the law, the same thing is true of every other union, every body of citizens and even of Congress itself.

Some Congressmen have been convicted as criminals, he said, and asked if it would be fair to say Congress is “infested with bandits.”

“Two Gun Molly,” Chiang’s Guerrilla Leader, Killed Many Husbands; “Our Hope in Red China” Was Puppet

By EDWARD ROHRBOUGH

There, in the cold story of Colliers magazine, July 21, is her picture:

She’s in Fornosa, looking over reports, the column says, and behind her hangs the flag of Kuo-mintang. China. She’s Huang Pan-m who they used to call “Two-Gun Molly” in Shanghai—one of the guerrillas Collier’s and correspondents Robert Shaplen call “Our Hope in Red China.”

I, for one, am fascinated because she knew so much in one color eye and was her guest shortly after V-D Day.

Miss Huang has been successively a pirate, a puppet of the Japanese, a Kuomintang guerrilla (during World War II), an American agent, an ally of the Communists, and now as Collier’s put it, “Our Hope.”

In the last year of the war, she and her pirates were operating in the Hansehow Bay area, and they had made a deal with an American agency called Air-Ground Aid Service (AGAS) to pass on such intelligence as she might come across, in return for arms and ammunition.

In Shanghai after V-D Day, Miss Huang and her adjutant, Miss Zhao, gave a dinner to the three American agents, of whom I was one. She entertained with large amounts of yellow wine, though she drank none herself.

As an aide explained: “She does not drink. She is a devout Buddhist. She has killed 60 men with her own hands, but she does not drink.”

Pills Red Pots.

The conversation became small, and a side told of a time when Miss Huang dressed in a man’s uniform, visited a somewhat hostile magistrate.

When he stared at the eunuch above her belt, Miss Huang rasped: “You think I’m pregnant, don’t you? Well, I’m not!”

And with that, she whipped two pistols from her waist and covered the trembling official.

Months later, I learned more about Miss Huang from a man who had spent the war in her area.

“She was too hot a puppet for the Japanese,” said my informant. “She was shrewd.”

I asked, “Do you think she really killed 60 men, herself?”

“If she did,” was the sarcastic answer, “most of them were her husband’s. Of course she killed many Japanese.”

I wondered if the “Col. Chiang Hsi-ming,” a woman who commanded 4,000 guerrillas near smashing according to Shaplen, could be Miss Huang’s adjutant, Helen Chang. She looks like the same woman and in any case. I’m sure she’s someone equally interesting.

But I’m afraid I know too much about Miss Huang and Miss Chang to see them as “Our Hope In Red China” or anywhere else. So far as I’m concerned, they’ll just have to go on being the “hope” of Robert Shaplen and Collier’s, who think American taxpayers ought to supply them with guns and ammunition.

Greetings On Your Third Anniversary!
Urban Redevelopment Seeks Manager; Hopes To Start Work By Jan. 1

Although several applicants have forwarded their qualifications to the Urban Redevelopment Agency to fill the new management position, Chairman Adolph Mendonsa says no appointment has been made.

The position, which carries the equivalent salary of a civil service P.2 or P.3, approximately $3,200 to $7,600, does not have to be filled by a civil engineer, Mr. Mendonsa says, but "we hope to find someone who knows something about engineering and appraising."

Mendonsa says, "The job is essentially an administrative-executive one."

By September 1, Mendonsa says, the URA hopes to have the position filled, and it also hopes to have received enough of the funds due it from Washington to set its plans in operation.

By the first of 1962, the URA hopes to begin the actual operation of removing residents from slum areas which it plans to clear and replace with new housing projects.

For the past year, the URA has been drawing up plans for the elimination of Honolulu's most distressed slum area and to remove the block placed on it by the 140 session of the legislature, which grants it insufficient powers to make it eligible for federal funds. The 31 session did grant those powers after the URA conducted an extensive educational program among representatives of various groups to emphasize the need for slum clearance.

The largest obstacle, Mendonsa says, will be that of finding adequate housing for persons who are to be moved from the slum area where anticipated slum clearance housing is to be destroyed.

"It's something like a game of checkers," Mendonsa says. "We can't move anyone until we find a place to put them."

R. DILHINGHAM SAID IT

Benjamin F. Dillingham, founder of the Dillingham dynasty and grandfather of the "baby-faced boy" senator, got the Dillingham pattern of plain speech on the anti-democratic side. Colonialism for the territory, he said in 1905, would be "a pretty good thing for Hawaii."

GREETINGS ON THE LEVEL
Longer Life—With Vitamins
Back in the days of wooden sailing ships, long voyages, salt pork and hardtack, scurvy was the terrible scourge of the sailor until they found that when lemons and limes were added to their food, the "occupational disease" disappeared.

This discovery was a clue to a whole new group of food substances essential to life and health—the vitamins. Poor 100 years passed by before it was found that other diseases—anemia, beriberi, rickets, pellagra were also caused by lack of proper diet.

The Vitamin Era
With the 20th century, the Vitamin Era in medicine opened up. The scientists discovered the basic five vitamins—A, B, C, D and E—and learned their usefulness in growth and bone formation, how essential they were to making blood, against anemia, in normal body processes. More and more new vitamins were discovered. The vitamin B group was found to be made up of 11 separate vitamins, each with its own job to do. Vitamin C holds out new hope against gengrene, vitamin A now aid in resilience to infection.

Man-Made Vitamins
If it were possible for everyone to eat a balanced diet there would be no need for vitamin supplement. But American eating habits, low incomes, food storage and freezing, improper cooking, all contribute to mild vitamin deficiencies. Much research has been devoted to discovering man's dependence on natural sources of vitamins. Plants can make vitamins within their bodies. But man is making many of the vitamins in the test tube. Major pharmaceutical companies such as Upjohn, Hoffman-La Roche and Pfizer produce them in synthetic form. The most recent addition to the list of man-made vitamins is Vitamin A, first synthesized by Hoffman-La Roche, with a new feature just added to the process by Pfizer.

Longer Life
Vitamin A plays a leading role in prolonging life. Most studies made of the average diets of elderly people show that, in general, the group is malnourished. With the addition of generous portions of food rich in calcium and vitamin A, according to nutritionist Henry C. Sherman of Columbia University, six or seven years of active life may be added.
WAR PROGRAM, NO ECONOMIC SOLUTION FOR T. H.

(Following are excerpts from a report issued by the Bank of Hawaii. It was prepared by James H. Sheekman, vice president of the bank)

"War in Korea, the defense program and the business activity it has brought with it, will not solve Hawaii's real problems. We must go ahead to develop our own permanent industries to employ more people and earn more Mainland dollars. We still have unused manpower and idle resources. We should put them to work. NOW to produce more so that we can earn more and live better in Hawaii — on a permanent basis..."

"Between November, 1949 and March, 1950, unemployment in Hawaii stood at an all-time high, ranging between thirty-two and thirty-four thousand.

"... Outmigration has been a primary cause of the reduction in unemployment. (In November, 1950, unemployment was 16,360.)

Between July 1, 1948 and October 1, 1950, 31,683 people had left the Territory."

"... Only twelve per cent of our production is for our own use. The balance of our production — eighty-eight per cent — is used to pay for things we need but can't or don't produce here — in other words, our imports. In short, we have been 'truing in the rut,' and unless something can be done to increase employment and bring our account with the Mainland into balance, we must expand Hawaiian exports and at the same time, produce more things for our own use.

HUNDREDS OPPOSE BEER IN PARKS AS VAN GOISEN SAYS, "SIT DOWN AND DRINK"

Tuesday, Mayor Wilson and the board of supervisors heard the opinions of one pro and several hundred cons on the proposal that beer be allowed in public parks.

The cons came first and included such widely varied and well-known persons as Riley Allen, editor of the Star-Bulletin, and the Rev. Leonard Uecht, who represented the Honolulu Council of Churches.

An effective opponent of any proposal to introduce beer in parks was Mrs. Paul K. Nishi, president of the League of Women Voters, who said she felt that there are already enough places for drinking without adding parks to the list. She said 90 per cent of the members of her organization have gone on record as opposed to beer in parks.

Other members of the opposition to beer in parks brought positions with many signatures.

The single proponent of a proposal was David Van Goisen, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the board in the last election.

Why Can't Public Drink?

For years, Mr. Van Goisen said, "We have a special group that enjoys the privilege of drinking at the Waikiki bar. That was the Officers' Club. Now John Q. Public wants to do the same thing." Van Goisen suggested that drinkers might be controlled by the simple expedient of mandating that they drink only when sitting down — a rule already in effect by the Liquor Commission.

Van Goisen's suggestion was greeted by jeers and laughter from the anti-beer in parks crowd, and Mrs. L. K. Blackman asked facetiously: "Why not make them sit down to drink?"

"Good," answered Van Goisen, undaunted, from the rest of the crowd as opposed to beer in parks.

The board voted to have Mayor Wilson appoint a committee to consider the matter.

AN OLD STORY

Make of the Tropic Island and Wilder steamship companies struck in protest to the beer bill. The Joint Assembly was held in the Tropic Island, and the Wilder Line was held in the Wilder Hotel, both in the Tropic Island, and the Wilder Line was held in the Wilder Hotel, both in the Tropic Island.

When Matson Backed Down

"An attempt by Matson Line officials to secure a union stevedore, Kokeana, after he had disputed a company foreman's union remarks in an upstairs cafe, was thwarted. The stevedore was arrested for the local stevedores' union, yesterday afternoon (April 25, 1936).

"Kokeana stated that the trouble arose when the foreman bragged of his anti-union principles and challenged any union man to try it. Kokeana accused him."

"When the union man returned to work, he was arrested by Captain Powers, Port Captain for Matson, and对公司."

"The discharged man then reported to the union agent, who entered the protest to the Matson office. After passing the news through the various company channels, he was reinstated."

Plantation Autocracy

During the 1920 sugar strike, 12,000 workers were evicted by the sugar plantations of Kauai. Of these, at least 2,684 were women and 500 children. Twelve accused the victims of this eviction of the influenza epidemic then raging.

In 1930 U.S. exports declined 17.3 per cent compared with the 1949 figure. At the beginning of 1931, loyalty calls by teachers were required in 22 states.

Smith St. On Limits As Narcotics Heads Go Out of Circulation

For the first time in many months, Smith St. between Berriau and Plummers has been put back on bounds by the Hawaiian Armed Services Police. Bars on the three corners of the street have been warned, however, that the status is temporary and that the area might be put in the same traffic categories at certain locations remained an obstacle.

It is the convictions and imprisonment of Greats Cavenos and Watanabe that the Narcotics charges have had some influence on the HARP decision.

THE OUTDOOR SWIM CHAMPIONSHIPS

The biggest of all ferris, Ford Konno and John Marshall didn't pull out as many had expected at the Outdoor Championships held in Detroit this year. After a mediocre showing in Japan, Marshall went to town in the Indoor Championships to be tabbed as the outstanding swimmer performing in the 15-16 age group. Konno, who has a matriculation since his return from Japan, especially his terrific time in the 800 meters in the last local A.A.U. meet at the Pacific, brought up the usual discussions about the Konno-Marshall duel. For the time being, Marshall is competing out of the water, while what with the 400 meters won by an understudy of Marshall, young Wayne Moore, and the 800 and 1,500 meters won by Ford Konno, Moore, of Yale, also won the 200 meters freestyle and with Konno was the high-point man at the Detroit meet.

Toshibo Sagawa, who took Konno to Detroit, brought along one very important factor at the meet. That factor has to do with the drinking water. Sagawa, claims that practically the whole Hawaii contingent as well as a quite a number of others from the participating clubs suffered from mild cases of dysentery.

Sagawa was quick to point out that Marshall, along with the others, suffered from this illness and that it was too bad that Swimmers with thrive on water had to develop "water trouble."

Sagawa also told us that Marshall was by no means through and that he is still a terrific competitor. Sagawa was especially impressed with Wayne Moore, 16-year-old student from Yale, who finally came into his own at Detroit. Moore developed into a quite dark horse after going into the meet practically an unknown.

Sagawa also reported that the welders of the United States, Hawaii will stand their chances in the freestyle event comes Olympics time. He figures that the Europeans have tremendous power in the100,000 entries, which is the only chance a 300-meter entry won. We got around to the diving events and we inquired about a Mesian name Joaquin Capilla who lost to John McCormick of Pasadena, Calif., by 1.86 points. McCormick scored 100.26 points while Capilla scored 19.26. That, we figures, was winning by a gun's whisker. Sagawa, a former diver himself, says that Capilla is the man to watch in the platform diving events at the Olympics and that he has as excellent chance of winning. Incidentally, Joaquin Capilla has a brother who may also develop into a top-notch diver.

SPORTS TID-BITS FROM HERE AND THERE

The big piles of dirt that you see at Ala Moana Park are for the Parks Department project termed the Oriental Garden project. We notice that the project hasn't really gotten underway, although one name of the contractor is prominently displayed. What gets us is that if the piles were too going to get situated right away why the piles of dirt were left there? The gusty winds mixed with the dirt isn't too pleasant for swimmers and beach loungers.

WE SEE WHERE the barrooming A.A.U. wrestling team is not doing too well over in Japan. In their first match with the Japan All-Stars, the visitors lost by 4 to 1 margin. Which reminds us that the sport was introduced in Japan only 10 years ago won the college boys in Japan taking the grappling art right in their stride.

Japan participated in only one Olympic Games in wrestling and made a so-so showing. However, with the report coming from Tokyo of the recent showing of the Olympic style of wrestling by the Japanese squad, it seems that the sport will gain momentum comes Olympic year.

RICHARD CLEVELAND can lay claim to the title of the world's fastest quarter mile. After winning the 190-meter class in 56 seconds flat, he swam an exhibition race on Sunday and made the distance in 55.4. That, my friends, is some speed.

When a disgruntled former labor leader falls into the hands of anti-labor elements, like the notorious un-American committee, he is forced to name names, to make unseemly confessions, and in doing so, facts become unimportant.
Thus, the editor of the RECORD finds himself, in Kawano's testimony, attending "Communist" meetings in Honolulu in 1946 when he was actually serving in the army thousands of miles away in China. Also, as an army intelligence liaison officer, he was believed to be making contacts in China with the Japanese Communist leader, Tsuchida, who was at that time, serving his 18-year sentence in prison somewhere in Japan for opposing the Japanese militarists.
Kawano's testimony is timed for the Lanai pineapple companies to lengthen their sugar staple and the current contract negotiations for 18,500 sugar workers. The employers are immensely pleased.

To serve the un-American committee, that has never done anything to benefit labor—the same committee that has led the attacks against minorities, including Chinese and their parents on the West Coast during the war, means that Kawano has joined hands with anti-labor, racist elements. And he lets himself be used when workers are in crucial negotiations and on strike.

To say that he does labor service is as illogical, and as far off the beam as to say that a man who is Chinese can be here at the same time.

We are familiar with the rise of labor to its comparative position of dignity in Hawaii—from days of contract labor and the mistresses of American Chinawomen. We know about employer violence, of blacklisting and on the brighter side, of the gains made by the multitudes of working people.

The ILWU, which Kawano condemns as Communist-controlled, has done more for laborers here than any individual or organization attacking the ILWU. This is history.

Through participation in it, plantation workers have risen to positions of leadership, to sit across the bargaining table from employer representatives. This too, is history.

To say, as Kawano does, that workers have been duped into becoming leaders and dutifully supporting conditions illogical and an insult to laborers who possess individual autonomies.

Kawano's blast against the Honolulu RECORD is the same issue that gores. This weekly has won consistent support, despite attacks of big employers and their fronts.

The majority of our readers have been with us for over three years. They are mature individuals, capable of making individual decisions, and as many of the greenhorns who are following them will tell you, they electe the role the RECORD plays in the stand community.

"Fearless and Independent" is the RECORD's slogan and this it shall continuously strive to be.
