Mendocina Buys Airways; Corp. Owed HAC $20,000

Adolph Mendocina, well known real estate agent and liquor retailer, this week confirmed reports that he is in process of buying out the Airways Hotel, Co., at an undisclosed price. Mr. Mendocina said the principal assets of the transaction have been determined, but that details remain to be agreed upon.

The story party in charge of the transaction is Alvin A. Smith, acting receiver for the Airways Hotel, Co., which operates the hotel, which is a questing building of the largest type, and a cocktail bar.

The liabilities include back Territorial taxes since the formation of the corporation in 1918, and a rent due the Hawaii Aerodromes Commission which is the largest amount due the neighborhood of $20,000.

Mendocina would not reveal how much he pays for the hotel, but Smith, who owns 84% of the HAC, said he is not only about $20,000.

"We are glad to have Mr. Mendocina as a neighbor," said Smith.

442nd Vets Hit "Jim McClain" As Libel On Hawaii; JACL Protests Old TV Pix

Veterans in two units of the 442nd this week blasted the spy-salute movie, "Jim McClain," with John Wayne, currently being produced here with a cast of local police officers and residents and a fictional plot which portrays local people as Japanese. The producers, with pre-World War II movies which contained similar material, said that the veterans would protest the film's lack of their heritage.

The 442nd resolution was adopted by the legionnaires and the Honolulu chamber of commerce, which has asked the movie studio to change the plot.

The resolution was signed by the veterans, who are mainly members of the 442nd, and the film is scheduled to be released in Hawaii in June.

KEKAHA BOSSES ARE BLUSHING... WONG TANIGUCHI

The bosses at Kauka's Keke Sugar Co. are blushing after the recent incident in which they made up the names of two people who were not employees of the company. The names were used in a television program on the Mainland.

One of the names, "Kauka," was used by a local news program in Hawaii, and the other, "Taniguchi," was used by a television program in California.

The bosses are now trying to clear their names and the company is making a special effort to find the two people who were said to be employees of the company.

MOLOKAI'S HAWAIIAN HOUSEMATES

Once Made $5,000 Plus; Now Rooked By Pine Cos.

The pineapple companies which once paid upwards of $5,000 net to Hawaiian housemates at Ho'ohanui, Molokai, for a crop of nine cents grown on the latter's land, are now paying $40 a year to each housemate for producing pineapples. A crop takes from one to two years, depending on whether it is a first year or a repeat.

Behind this discrepancy is the story of how the companies have changed their payment structure and become independent, because they felt they couldn't control the island's produce. The companies have been forced to pay less for the fruit, which is now sold at a lower price.

When Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Lindsey of Lindsay Florists, 134 S. Hotel St., were first let into the secret of the Day celebration at City Hall, they were happy and put up $100 for the March of Dimes, so they donated 123 cards. Last week, the orchard workers, who make up 80% of the population of City Hall, were hoping that the orchard would be able to celebrate the day, but it was too late. The flowers had been donated to other groups, such as the Department of Nonprofit, the RECORD reporter, and the President of the Republic. Girls Burn Over 'Missing Orchard Case': Let 'Em Pitch In, Says Mrs. Crockett

When Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lindsey of Lindsay Florists, 134 S. Hotel St., were first let into the secret of the Day celebration at City Hall, they were happy and put up $100 for the March of Dimes, so they donated 123 cards. Last week, the orchard workers, who make up 80% of the population of City Hall, were hoping that the orchard would be able to celebrate the day, but it was too late. The flowers had been donated to other groups, such as the Department of Nonprofit, the RECORD reporter, and the President of the Republic.
China Hits Crup Practises; Officials Punished More Severely Than Businessman

In 1949, Mao Tse-tung of China, announcing the founding of the People's Republic of China, made a statement that the center of the Chinese revolution was not in the cities, where the government and business were located, but in the countryside, where the peasants and the poor worked and lived. This shift in emphasis marked a significant change in the political and economic landscape of China.

In government circles, the three basic anti-monopoly, anti-corruption, and anti-black market practices are being emphasized. The government has taken strong measures to punish officials and businessmen who violate these practices. The anti-monopoly campaign has targeted monopolies and cartels, while the anti-corruption campaign has focused on officials who abuse their power for personal gain.

Recently, there have been several high-profile cases of officials and businessmen being punished for their involvement in anti-monopoly and anti-corruption practices. One prominent example is the case of the Chinese pharmaceutical company, which was found to have violated anti-monopoly laws and was subjected to a significant fine. Another example is the case of a local government official who was found to have accepted bribes and was subsequently dismissed from his position.

These cases demonstrate the government's commitment to enforcing anti-monopoly and anti-corruption laws and the severity of the penalties imposed on those found guilty. The government is also encouraging whistleblowers to report cases of corruption and abuse, with promises of protection and rewards for those who come forward.

Overall, the government's anti-monopoly and anti-corruption campaign has been successful in deterring some of the worst forms of market abuse and corruption. However, there is still work to be done to ensure that all officials and businessmen are held accountable for their actions and that the benefits of these campaigns are widely shared.

WRONG TANICIGICHI (from page 1) a former Tsingtao communist official. His move to the Kuo Min Tang could spark a political struggle, as there are many more people who have been recently expelled from the party.

Businessmen are now facing increased scrutiny from the government, which has increased the penalties for violating anti-monopoly laws. The government has also launched a campaign to increase public awareness of the importance of anti-monopoly laws and the need for fair competition.

Furthermore, the government has taken steps to increase transparency in the business world, including the establishment of a public register of companies and the publication of reports on corporate behavior.

This shift in emphasis towards anti-monopoly and anti-corruption practices is a significant change in the political and economic landscape of China. The government's commitment to enforcing these laws and the severity of the penalties imposed on those found guilty demonstrate the government's commitment to ensuring a fair and competitive market environment.

Wahiaha Water Higher Than C-C; Payment Deferred

The Wahiaha Water Co. is currently facing a higher than expected rate of payment for its water distribution services. The company has been charged an additional 12 cents per thousand gallons for the first 200,000 gallons, which is significantly higher than the previous rate of 5 cents per thousand gallons.

Daniel Ainoa, executive secretary of the HRC, informed the company that the increase was necessary to cover the costs associated with the construction of new water treatment facilities and the expansion of the distribution network.

The company has expressed concern about the increase, indicating that it may have to review its pricing strategy in order to maintain its profitability. The company has also stated that it will continue to work with the HRC to find a solution that is fair to both the company and the customers.

Quick With Labels

Quick With Labels is a leading manufacturer of self-adhesive labels and packaging solutions. The company has a strong commitment to innovation and excellence, and it continually invests in research and development to stay ahead of industry trends.

Quick With Labels operates several state-of-the-art manufacturing facilities in the United States and Canada, and it prides itself on providing high-quality products and exceptional customer service. The company offers a wide range of label and packaging solutions for various industries, including retail, healthcare, and manufacturing.

In addition to its core label and packaging solutions, Quick With Labels has also expanded its offerings to include custom design services, printing services, and other value-added solutions. The company is dedicated to helping its customers increase efficiency and reduce costs through innovative and cost-effective solutions.

Quick With Labels is known for its commitment to sustainability, and it has implemented several initiatives to reduce its environmental impact. The company uses renewable materials in its products and operates under strict environmental protocols to ensure that its operations are as sustainable as possible.

Quick With Labels is a trusted partner for businesses of all sizes, and its commitment to excellence and innovation has helped it to become a leader in the label and packaging industry.
Fights Fail To Materialize As GOP Delegates Docile Before Party Bosses

By EDWARD ROBBEY

The Big Money came to McKinley High School yesterday afternoon for the biennial Territorial convention, and it already had its mind made up on a few issues. The floor of the convention was cleared, the stage put up and mountains with classifiers, in contrast as the Democrats who had been listening to the speeches of the Big Money for two weeks ago.

The convents with elaborate billboard was down to a few shows, showing what the GOP had done here and there and then with the Democrats who had only taken the coffee in the lobby for.

It came with a dozen secretaries the picture was this: that they had the minutes of the first day's meeting typed and mimeographed and ready for distribution only a quarter of an hour before the meeting began. No contrast with the impecunious could have been greater; for the Democrats were a month away only to arrive by the time to keep Hawaiian Republican, and "to stop creep-no candidate was so smooth in the view of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling against re-

or was the chief of a Republican

and a Democrat.

"Too August" for Youth

A number of the young Republicans said, it was an August "body, in some respects, a

The implications of both speak-was the GOP said it has the grass roots foundation it would.

No fewer were any officers chosen

on May 10, 1952

of its inactivity. It is believed that the cost of conducting the convention had estimated at $25,000 more, and monthly contributions are now going to be made. Through its spokesman, Ralph E. Crossley, the Big Money indicated that all will and agents are going to be more contributors to the贝壳.

The Big Money of the Terri-

by 1952.

McKinley High School with a keynote speech by Ross

way from New York. It came with an elaborate bordemask system that is designed to hold the platform audience up.

But the words William Pleffier,

New York's GOP chairman, might have been in the spray from one of fifty speech-

of the floor for the convention.

There was need, said the delegates. The Republicans have been in New York to listen to the report of the platform and the resolutions adopted at that time.

The time of the reading.

Andy Cummings is

Readmitted As Member

of Musicians' Union

Andy Cummings is back as the American Federation of Musicians, Local 771.

Expelled in February because he refused to cross a picketline during the strike of the AFL Hotel and Restaurant Workers, the request to have his membership reinstated, President J. E. "Buddy" Peterson of the AFM, announced this week.

According to AFM rules, an expelled member may not apply for readmittance to the union until three months have passed. The three months that Cummings served, Peterson said, and Cummings' application was accepted.

The dollar of the Big Money

Peterson was also reported as saying the resignation action had been closed with AFM President Carmen Petitto, by a call to the member.

On April 24, the AFM recorded a detailed story of the suspension of Cummings and A. A. Rolfsen, who is also business agent of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers, the Matao Hotel in the case.

The expulsions came, the AFM-

Chinese and Hogs Said Not Wanted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Southwind Improvement Club, a group of Chinese business men of the community, has once again given its annual feast. The club, which is located in the residential area, is now conducting a campaign to get its members to take part in the annual elections to keep them themselves, to say their prayer is a "non-Chinese-ness." Club President J. H. Lin said:

"This is a means of preventing the Chinese from getting the worst part of the mosaic in view of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling against re-

or was the chief of a Republican

and a Democrat.

"Too August" for Youth

A number of the young Republicans said, it was an August "body, in some respects, a

The implications of both speak-

was the GOP said it has the grass roots foundation it would.

No fewer were any officers chosen

on May 10, 1952

of its inactivity. It is believed that the cost of conducting the convention had estimated at $25,000 more, and monthly contributions are now going to be made. Through its spokesman, Ralph E. Crossley, the Big Money indicated that all will and agents are going to be more contributors to the贝壳.

The Big Money of the Terri-

by 1952.

McKinley High School with a keynote speech by Ross

way from New York. It came with an elaborate bordemask system that is designed to hold the platform audience up.

But the words William Pleffier,

New York's GOP chairman, might have been in the spray from one of fifty speech-

of the floor for the convention.

There was need, said the delegates. The Republicans have been in New York to listen to the report of the platform and the resolutions adopted at that time.

The time of the reading.

Andy Cummings is

Readmitted As Member

of Musicians' Union

Andy Cummings is back as the American Federation of Musicians, Local 771.

Expelled in February because he refused to cross a picketline during the strike of the AFL Hotel and Restaurant Workers, the request to have his membership reinstated, President J. E. "Buddy" Peterson of the AFM, announced this week.

According to AFM rules, an expelled member may not apply for readmittance to the union until three months have passed. The three months that Cummings served, Peterson said, and Cummings' application was accepted.

The dollar of the Big Money

Peterson was also reported as saying the resignation action had been closed with AFM President Carmen Petitto, by a call to the member.

On April 24, the AFM recorded a detailed story of the suspension of Cummings and A. A. Rolfsen, who is also business agent of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers, the Matao Hotel in the case.

The expulsions came, the AFM-

ILWU Defense Committee to Hold All-Day Picnic at Waialua Sunday

Hawaii ILWU Defense Committee has lined up a series of Defense activities for the next three weeks to bring the issues in the Hawaii Suits Act, and also on the McNamaras Act to the community at large.

The first of these affairs will be the big, all-day festival, slated to be held at Puniki beach, Wai-

This will be the second in a series of testimonial dinners held in honor of ILWU Director Jack Hall and Simon Baginoff and their families. Similar affairs have already been held on Kauai, Maui, Kauai, and two on the Big Island.

Academy Harriet Evening coming to speak at the placise, which is being sponsored by the Rural Oahu pine and sugar unit defense committee. A short program of speeches and music will be held at 7 p.m., in accordance with Tadashi (Catja) Ogasawara, chairman of the placise.

A series of community-wide raliare also on the ILWU defense committee, aiming at organizing the community.

The Oahu Community Committee will sponsor a big public rally at Central Intermediate School auditorium on Friday, June 30, at 7:30 p.m. The Royal Hawaiian Band has already been invited to offer a one-hour pre-rally concert.

The Kaui Community Committee, headed by Frank Paua, has tentatively set the following dates for its de-

MC&S Step May Untie SS Lurline; Judge Hits NLRB

The two warring unions seem more to cooperate than not.

The main battle is now being fought between the two unions, the most notable being the rivalry between the ILWU and the NLRB.

In a recent decision, the NLRB announced that it would not interfere with the strike of the ILWU, a union that represents workers in the port of Seattle.

However, the NLRB has also been active in trying to settle the dispute.

The ILWU has been seeking to end the strike, which has lasted for several weeks, by the use of a "cooling-off period." The NLRB has been trying to negotiate a settlement, but the ILWU has not been willing to accept the NLRB's terms.

The NLRB has also tried to bring pressure on the ILWU to settle the dispute, but the ILWU has not been willing to do so.

The NLRB has also tried to bring pressure on the ILWU to settle the dispute, but the ILWU has not been willing to do so.

The NLRB has also tried to bring pressure on the ILWU to settle the dispute, but the ILWU has not been willing to do so.

Some administrative advancements have been made, including the recent settlement of the dispute between the ILWU and the NLRB.

A similar case is currently being heard in the U.S. Supreme Court.
My Thoughts: For Which I Stand Indicted

Close Look At Hurley, the Diplomat

XXXVII.

Our diplomats are generally men of wealth, sent off by Wash-ington to meddle in international affairs, not to meddle in relationships with foreign powers. At times a diplomatic post becomes a center of interested, even lively, politics, in that post's own right or in its foreign regime. The diplomatic posts are also the eyes and ears of our government.

If mullahs or unionists or their leaders were appointed diplomats, they undoubtedly would not encourage the support of corrupt and anti-labor regimes of those of China's neighbors, such as the puppet Mao Tse-tung in China, or of unpopular, repressive Symanzian regimes. But for our country to have such a corps of diplomats in foreign outposts, the voice of the work people must become dominant in the world's labor movement. In our country, we do not have such a labor organization. In ten million workers in our country, we do not have two representatives of labor in Congress.

A man like John Foster Dulles, therefore, can step into government at will and become the key figure in that country's domestic situation, Wall Street-inspired Japanese peace treaty, in the race of overwhelming opposition in Japan to the treaty, which is history, it was the shilling-rounding 30th parallel in the eye of the Korean War.

Hurley Didn't Understand

Demand for Changes In China

Big monopolies use all sorts of diplomats, whose basic sub-jective dollar profile is the same, and whose souls and economic positions underlie their approach to an understanding of politics.

Patrick J. Hurley, an Oklahoma millionaire, was such a man. While he stood in China in 1944 as President Roosevelt's diplomatic trouble-shooter, he could not appreciate the fundamental nature of the semi-feudal, semi-colonial country. He apparently thought of pacifying by telling details in the relationship between Unchung and Yenan and so go down in history as a diplomatic failure.

Part of Hurley's discussions with the Chinese Communist officials took place right outside a mud shack in which I lived for a four-year period. In the open air, he talked with Chou En-lai, through the latter's interpreter, Chien Chia-kuo.

We Listened To Interesting Details

I became keenly interested in the Hurley mission for U. S. re-lations with China, which should be lifted to its outcome. We list-ened to take conversation, and chronicles the U. S. Army Observer Section equilateralism was emphasized to the comunists, and their communists, and so we listened to the same table with officers.

I learned that at the first meeting of Hurley and Mao Tse-tung, Hurley asked to see Chiang for his government's corruption, graft-ridden system, its weak international policy.

The Discussion Went Outside My Shack

Hurley parceled with a statement that Mao was only repeating what the Japanese said about Chiang. He said he considered Mao and Chiang as two different men. Hurley's criticism of China.

Mao replied that he was not repeating the enemy's words, but was expressing similar views expressed by President Roosevelt. Chairman Chiang, Mr. Smith, Mrs. Trum- bull, Madame Sun Yat-sen, and that he offered his criticism to improve China.

Hurley backed down and said he understood what Mao meant. Hurley had asked for a discussion, he did not want to repeat the results of the conference.

The morning following his arrival in Yenan, Hurley and Col- onel David Davidson, aide to Chennault, flew over the Yen River to the other side of the valley, to continue discussion with Yenan's representatives.

When they returned to our compound, they sat in the open space and sat on the lawn and we talked. Hurley sprawled on a bench chair with his legs stretched out far. The short, chubby Chinese rawboned, agile, with the wisdom on which he sat and rocked back and forth while I listened to the long-winded presidential essay.

"There Should Be No Fear of Communism"

Hurley planned to leave on the fourth day after his arrival. Fairly early in the morning, Chou En-lai came to see him. Hurley was again warning himself outside my shack. His discussion centered on a piece of paper Hurley held in a gesticulating hand.

Here I shall quote from my personal note:

"General Hurley seemed to have written his opinion in the document, and the summary that provided piece of paper, which he handed to me. We had a talk on the Chinese problem. The general mentioned 'Roosevelt's Four Freedoms,' several times, and then showed it to me. He noted the statement: 'Freedom from fear is the basic for estab-lishing a coalition government of China for the common defense of China.' Once united, there should be no fear of Communism, which the general, said 'Freedom from fear is the basis for estab-lishing a coalition government of China for the common defense of China.' Once united, there should be no fear of Communism.

After Chou had left, Colonel Barrett talked with Hurley. Then, without Hurley leaving, my son, Tom, was called in by Hurley for a discussion. They took up the document which Hurley had earlier handed to Chou En-lai. This became known as "Hurley's Five Points," which he drew up in English and had translated for Mao and his colleagues.

Chiang's Signature Was Needed To The Five Points

Three points of the five were Hurley's ideas, couched in his own mission and that Mao agreed to Hurley's recommendations, in command of China's army-Nationalist and Communist—were Mao's standard, expressed in Hurley's own words.

"Independently and not of his own volition Hurley had added all the necessary amendments and included such items as a guarantee for the monetary powers of the Chinese government, as the Five Points. But a few months later, after negotiations failed, he told correspondents in Washington that to give arms to the Com- munists would be to give them the tools of destruction." In a matter-of-fact manner he included such clauses as "the right of the whole people's roots and the right of residence," which a person is bound to respect. So Chiang's concentration camps and "her" secret police would never have thrown in such a casual manner.

After Mao Tue-tung read the "Five Points" Hurley asked Mao if he would sign them. Mao said he would, and wrote his signature. Hurley then told him: "But you must sign all that I have written." Mao was required to sign another document, that was included in the Five Points. Hurley used his signature, Mao's signature, and the signature was required to sign another document, that was included in the Five Points. Hurley used his signature, Mao's signature, and proceeded to sign another document, that was included in the Five Points. Hurley used his signature, Mao's signature, and proceeded to sign another document, that was included in the Five Points. Hurley used his signature, Mao's signature, and proceeded to sign another document, that was included in the Five Points.

"Mere Expression of Jeffersonian Democracy"

The presidential envoy moved Mao that after all the "Five Points" were merely a genuine expression of Jeffersonian Democracy.

"Then he smiled and asked Mao to sign it. Mao held back his smile until he had heard what Hurley had said through an interpreter, then he beamed and nodded his head.

Mao Invited To Live In U. S. Embassy

Hurley naturally suggested that Mao write a letter to President Roosevelt, stating that his envoy was successfully carrying out his mission and that Mao agreed to Hurley's recommendations. In return, Hurley told that he would write a letter in behalf of President Roosevelt, stating that the United States appreciated the remark-able effort of President Roosevelt in the United States to help the Chinese communists.

After these details had been cleared away, Hurley was over- come with optimism, since the conversation progressed so smoothly. He probably admitted Mao was stalling in Chennault, working close-ly at Chiang's elbow. "Out of a clear sky he invited the Communist leaders, Mao told me, to come to the United States. There would be no need for secret meetings. If Chennault and the representatives, particularly General V. Vorozhtsov, who had been in the United States for several years, was there. The Chinese communists, Mao said, would be able to go anywhere in their own country to pursue a livelihood, they would be allowed to come on home without being picked up by "Tai Li" agents.

Chiang Restored Democratic Changes

To Hurley with all his eloquence, the millions of Chinese did not seem to be concerned. He was a passive anti-communist in terms of dealing with a few too leaders. What he did not appre-ciate was that the Chinese were living in a comparatively poor country. There were many millions who enjoyed a new deal and greater freedom for the first time, supported their leaders. The people wanted a change and they were not going to be stopped by a few leaders.

Hurley took off and we heard that he caught a cold and spent a couple of days in bed. When he went to Chennault, the latter firmly told him: "Chennault's way is to talk to Chiang that Hurley complained that T. V. Soong had ruined his efforts by french Chiang in advance.

With negotiations broken down, Hurley sided with Chiang. The "Five Points" and "Jeffersonian Democracy" became mere words.

(KOJI ARIYOSHI

I) for (To Be Continued)
More than 5,000 Workers attended the sledded stop work meeting May 12 at the Puuwai Baldwin Park. The next day the employees left their jobs at the HC&S Co. in protest of the company's decision to fire some workers.

Hochi Writer Lambasts "Malihini" Republicans; Matsumura Praises Big 5

Editorially, the Hawaii Hochi has been lambasting the Republican Party but up to the middle of Republican leadership, a signed article by Noboru Morimoto May 12, said beyond the fact that, "Hawaii must not have a Republican Party controlled by a minority." Malihini Group Beat Sakakibara Two men in the Republican caucus, Morimoto write, a "malihini" controlled group threw a bombshell into the names and elected most of its members to important posts. Rep. Thomas Sakakibara, a "powerful political figure" on the Island in Hawaii in the past, was heavily defeated.

At a pre-convention caucus of the 5th district, the Hochi writes, means, "a malihini" controlled group threw in another bombshell-made a ballot of 29 candidates for the two seats to the national GOP convention.

In the 4th district, the "very same malihini-controlled group" beat out a token group of Cha of being a very formidable foe to the opposition, Hochi wrote, for the esteemed seat of "Sweet Old" of "Chingping People." Then, Morimoto, lashing out at the group he says is run by "a malihini" in these words: "Which men should fall for the sweet old of those who come from the Mainland is beyond comprehension, the Mainlanders these ching puny people are only small fry. Our more determined and eminent industrial and business leaders speak more candidly and truthfully than those who for reasons known only to themselves have invaded the shores of Hawaii with plenty of "hookah-poulony.""

"To domination" by the men who aided in the development and prosperity of Hawaii for the past 50 years is unfounded and humiliating, then domination by the same men whom the Mainlanders have shown no more understandable. Rather than be humiliates by the same men, Hawaii-born persons should be proud of the leaders of the United States than by the invading small fry.

More than 2,000 Leave Jobs at HC&S Over Un kept Word; Milligan Threatens A. Baptiste

The Mau Notes by Eddy Tjimori

Charles C. Young of the Maui News, in his signed article May 12, tried to do a job on this writer because he was not able to get a statement before his paper went to press, from Local 145, Unit 14-B, ILWU, on the three-day work stoppage.

On the morning the damage suit was filed in court, Elmer Birch, who is the chair of the Mercer-Templin union, reported a driver for 10 years who made a digital speed of 55 miles per hour on the same road, rather than No. 5 speed. He reported to the driver's reputation that the mission was not in a good working condition.

In a telephone conversation Monday between Business Agent Augustine Baptiste and Milligan, the latter said, "Before long I'm going to get real fired and then I will get the union."

The walkout spread again after the suspension of the Mercer-Templin operator, employees returned to their jobs Tuesday afternoon in accordance with the recommendation of a rank and file committee.
A LONG TIME GOP candidate, often successful, had a rather sitting "shaking hands" rules as adopted by the Republican state committee, the central commission will not dilate to the county committees. Instead of the respects for its sphere of influence—and Randolph Courseley, a bi-particle New Yorker, will run the whole shebang.

You may be sure," he said, "that the case is not through.
And the opposition is strong—
which is not surprising.

The rule referred to was that which has officers serving for only one term instead of the two served until now.

WILLIAM PFEIFFER, New York state GOP chairman and keynote speaker on Sunday, described democratic "protectionist" dealing as "how much progress that party has achieved.
In the not too distant past, Republicans have talked about the progress the GOP has given the country. He cited a number of things that sounded fairly impressive, mostly of them being the same thing over and over again before the turn of the century when the influence of "that man on the Hill"—Whip Abraham Lincoln, was still strong in the GOP.

SHOWING HOW any element left behind in the chutes in these red-baiting and labor-baiting, Pfeiffer enumerated obstacles facing the New York state as including "liberals, laborers, and so-called Nationalists to a large extent, Communists as well.

For a little while later he was stating that New York is "proud of its Fair Employment Practices Act, of its Fair Housing Act, a city's racial discrimination—tied it-gnantly, to its cities, to its counties, to the state.

Pfeiffer also made reference to the element he had named many years, by responsible for pushing those laws through.

And perhaps he hadn't been in contact with the legislature, the legislature, that he had, apparently because he had been named as "Communist" as he had, and had been through.

The next day, the Advertiser was seeing waterfront employ barrages host the effect that arbitration was a "Communist" tactic.

IF WILLIAM PFEIFFER's speech did not make much impact in the city that the G.O.P., in the Tuesday, on performance, is several degrees above conservative Roosevelt, as it is in Maine, and certainly no one ever claims, the top of being liberal—no one except Robert Taft, that is.

THE EYES OF local gamblers were closely upon the case involving the "gambling" at last week's 49th State Fair. "If the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to make a stand on what anybody can do it," was the commend of one of the local operators.

The gamblers got a few laughs out of that, whether or not they were serious when Harold A. Schneek said that police should be restrained from raid-

"You may be sure," he said, "that the case is not through.
And the opposition is strong—
which is not surprising.

The rule referred to was that which has officers serving for only one term instead of the two served until now.

WILLIAM PFEIFFER, New York state GOP chairman and keynote speaker on Sunday, described democratic "protectionist" dealing as "how much progress that party has achieved.
In the not too distant past, Republicans have talked about the progress the G.O.P. has given the country. He cited a number of things that sounded fairly impressive, mostly of them being the same thing over and over again before the turn of the century when the influence of "that man on the Hill"—Whip Abraham Lincoln, was still strong in the GOP.

SHOWING HOW any element left behind in the chutes in these red-baiting and labor-baiting, Pfeiffer enumerated obstacles facing the New York state as including "liberals, laborers, and so-called Nationalists to a large extent, Communists as well.

For a little while later he was stating that New York is "proud of its Fair Employment Practices Act, of its Fair Housing Act, a city's racial discrimination—tied it-gnantly, to its cities, to its counties, to the state.

Pfeiffer also made reference to the element he had named many years, by responsible for pushing those laws through.

And perhaps he hadn't been in contact with the legislature, the legislature, that he had, apparently because he had been named as "Communist" as he had, and had been through.

The next day, the Advertiser was seeing waterfront employ barrages host the effect that arbitration was a "Communist" tactic.

IF WILLIAM PFEIFFER's speech did not make much impact in the city that the G.O.P. is the Tuesday, on performance, is several degrees above conservative Roosevelt, as it is in Maine, and certainly no one ever claims, the top of being liberal—no one except Robert Taft, that is.

THE EYES OF local gamblers were closely upon the case involving the "gambling" at last week's 49th State Fair. "If the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to make a stand on what anybody can do it," was the commend of one of the local operators.

The gamblers got a few laughs out of that, whether or not they were serious when Harold A. Schneek said that police should be restrained from raid-

"You may be sure," he said, "that the case is not through.
And the opposition is strong—
which is not surprising.

The rule referred to was that which has officers serving for only one term instead of the two served until now.

WILLIAM PFEIFFER, New York state GOP chairman and keynote speaker on Sunday, described democratic "protectionist" dealing as "how much progress that party has achieved.
In the not too distant past, Republicans have talked about the progress the G.O.P. has given the country. He cited a number of things that sounded fairly impressive, mostly of them being the same thing over and over again before the turn of the century when the influence of "that man on the Hill"—Whip Abraham Lincoln, was still strong in the GOP.

SHOWING HOW any element left behind in the chutes in these red-baiting and labor-baiting, Pfeiffer enumerated obstacles facing the New York state as including "liberals, laborers, and so-called Nationalists to a large extent, Communists as well.

For a little while later he was stating that New York is "proud of its Fair Employment Practices Act, of its Fair Housing Act, a city's racial discrimination—tied it-gnantly, to its cities, to its counties, to the state.

Pfeiffer also made reference to the element he had named many years, by responsible for pushing those laws through.

And perhaps he hadn't been in contact with the legislature, the legislature, that he had, apparently because he had been named as "Communist" as he had, and had been through.

The next day, the Advertiser was seeing waterfront employ barrages host the effect that arbitration was a "Communist" tactic.

IF WILLIAM PFEIFFER's speech did not make much impact in the city that the G.O.P. is the Tuesday, on performance, is several degrees above conservative Roosevelt, as it is in Maine, and certainly no one ever claims, the top of being liberal—no one except Robert Taft, that is.

THE EYES OF local gamblers were closely upon the case involving the "gambling" at last week's 49th State Fair. "If the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to make a stand on what anybody can do it," was the commend of one of the local operators.

The gamblers got a few laughs out of that, whether or not they were serious when Harold A. Schneek said that police should be restrained from raid-
Kekaulike's Oahu Market Pays Nearly Same Property Taxes As Bank of Hawaii
(from page 1)
Liberty House, properties on which Robert W. Fitchman & Co. (jewelers) and Diver Jewelers, Ltd., are located. They are assessed at about $30,700 per year.

The property on which the storefront of the Bank of Hawaii, under the corner of King and Queen Sts., is located is assessed at $118,000 per year, or about three times that of the Bank of Hawaii property.

Tax officials say that the shopping district of Oahu, including Kekaulike, Kameha, and other streets, is owned by landowners who charge higher property taxes, mainly because the area is a tourist attraction. They say the area's demand for small stores and demand come high rental fees. They do not say that the Big Five build- ing, in which millions of dollars in business is transacted, should be taxed on the volume of business.

The Big Five firms find every inch of space they have in their buildings.

Testimonial Dinner for L.A. Smith Act Victims

L.A. Smith, a defendant in the federal trial for the famous Smith Act, was awarded $40,000 as damages for his trial.

Adolph Mendonca Buys Airways Hotel; Corporation Owed HAC $20,000 Rent

Adolph Mendonca Buys Airways Hotel; Corporation Owed HAC $20,000 Rent

C. Miyashiro Paid $600 For Extra Food From Outside

Miyashiro paid for the extra food for his employees at Queen's Hospital, which was paid for by the state.

Grateful To Kanimolu

The driver, who had been on strike for almost a year, was grateful to Kanimolu for the food.

Kanimolu Turned Case Over

Kanimolu turned the case over to the authorities.

Falk Find I Didn't Care

Falk found out that he didn't care about the situation.

I Thought He Was Improved, Too

Dr. Kanimolu was pleased with the improvement.

Miyashiro being an employee of the HAC, it is believed that the C-GO Committee is responsible for the shortage.

He turned over the case to Dr. Mesman, Kanimolu says.

I Don't Think He'll Need It

Dr. Kanimolu said he didn't think he needed it.

Secret of General Ike's Secretiveness

New York (AP) — Aimed by the growing primary successes of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, campaign consultants are working to bolster Ike's image and how he has been thrown a curve, ex-plains the handwriting in the air.

Harry E. Velschke, who describes Ike as a man of action, said he took a look at the general's handwriting and came up with two ideas to help him. One was to get the people to believe in the man.

The analyst didn't quite achieve a complete picture of what the handwriting was trying to express, but he did explain the general's popular appeal.

Without the man's name, one can't be sure he is a real person.

The general is check full of emotional warmth, but that

MORE ON 442nd

More on Orchids

More on Orchids

Looking Backward

 negotiates with Queen's Hotel for a price of $6,000.

The talks also included a war of words and were part of a bigger battle for control of Liliuokalani.

Charles B. Wilson would have held the police station even against the marines. He refused to meet a note in the Queen's handwriting on the part of the police.

Surrounded by the American marines a few feet away than by their strag- gling little force.

Liliuokalani House Permanently

I am satisfied," he told his men, "that if we had a conflict today with the rebels we would have won, notwithstanding the aid of the government."

Ike is far from being a patient man, he has been known to give way in the end, after having caused a great deal of irritation. The delay in receiving our letters has been caused by our personal friends, and perhaps ourselves. It is better, therefore, to keep them, to the United States, and await patiently the time until our Queen's problem has been solved.

The Pilgrims had moved their sailboats towards what they believed to be the closest land, but the weather was bad and they were forced to return to sea. The next day she was re-

CONTINUED

Contemporary
Looking Backward

FORCE AND VIOLENCE IN HAWAII

XVIII. "Duck Soup" Revolution

For a force supposedly landed in Honolulu to guard American lives and property, strange orders were given the marines from the Rosebud. Their commander ordered them posted downtown where most American property was located and where they could kidnap the liquor stores in case of disorder. U. S. Minister Sutcliffe, however, was trying to get the opera house for the soldiers. From its second story and roof, located about a block away from the palace, where it was to be burned down and the liquor in the palace, a man on the roof shouted that he didn't know what the police and the House Guard might do.

This was the day before the Provisional Government leaders made their escape. Then, in little groups, they made their way to the government house. They started the same way, except that this time they were more protected and more independent of the pineapple companies, the Molokai Ranch and the Cookes.

What a boner Chapman pulled! What a reflection on Farrington, who is running for the governor, he told the people there who think ocean water can now be converted for fresh, home and industrial use. The people of Molokai don't need ocean water. They want fresh water, now pouring into the salt sea, made available to them.

What a boon to Toguchi! What a boon to the Hawaiian people, who are suffering from the power of the pineapple companies, the Molokai Ranch and the Cookes.

As for the GOP platform which Farrington's Star-Bulletin played up in the editorial, it promises to continue supporting small farmers by "making available improved technical advice." This is a safe pledge. The GOP-dominated legislature can again cut appropriations for the university, agricultural service and if farmers complain, it can cut off their aid and vote money for a few farm magazines and direct farmers to read them.

The platform advocates the making of "every effort to encourage" the leasing of government land on a reasonable basis as possible to achieve the "greatest good for the greatest number." This one is really a tongue-in-cheek plank.

The Big Five that controls the GOP would never lease their land, buy cooperation-owned and leased from the government. And the powerful GOP missionary descendants and the estate would never agree to lease their land to the government. They'll argue that their predecessors had to work to take land away from the Hawaiians for almost nothing. If the GOP is serious about this plank, they can apply the homestead provision in the Organic Act and make it work.

On advocating an adequate school building program and the lowering of university tuition, this is more tongue-in-cheek stuff. Have the Republicans so short a memory? Have they forgotten that the GOP legislature did exactly the opposite last year?

The GOP is against the "socialist trend," and against the move to nationalize or socialize the medical and dental professions. The GOP platform sounds that laws exist that hurt the workers, but it says nothing about government subsidy of the sugar plantations, tourist business, the Big Five Hawaiian Airlines and the Matson ships.

It says it is for elimination of inequitable taxation. Tongue-in-cheek again. The Big Five boxes of the GOP would have the wool. But they permit such expression in the platform for politicians say, "What's a party platform for but to attract voters?" But now people are catching on, seeing the contradictions between GOP promises and practices. And this tongue-in-cheek stuff exposes the Big Five party; it will homewrecker!