Aged G-Gal Forgets Time of Husband’s Death; Knows Date She Saw Fujimoto

The blood and thunder testimony in the Hawaii Smith Act case by a 87-year-old F.F. planner in the Communist Party in San Francisco provided laughter in the courtroom, a court reporter and sharp argument for a mistrial by defense attorneys this week.

Attorney Leo J. Wisg asked the counsel for a mistrial, Defense Attorney Richard Gidwitz, in an unclose manner, and the court ruled that the trial was not due to the defense attorney during the last 90 minutes of the trial.

Judge Smiley To

The court’s preparation of revolution in San Francisco with words like “blood libel” and “the goon squad” at a hearing for the Communist Party in San Francisco presented at the hearing.

The court said that the inquest on the Janitorial service fell short of what promised by the landlord.

Lopes argued that he had paid a janitor to do the work, though the janitor, a man named Beske, testified that he had not been instructed to do anything but pick up trash and pack it away. Beske said uncertainly about the payments to the janitor in front of Beske testified that he had not signed receipts, if any, and there were no signatures.

At the request of the man they couldn’t scare, Gen. Irie, Kuba, refused to be photographed on Tuesday.

The situation is similar to the case of Samao Kimono, who refused to be photographed on Tuesday.

The Honolulu board of supervisors, which had heard the request of Samao Kimono, refused to be photographed on Tuesday.

Ex-Cop Not Billed On Sex-16 Charge

Ex-Policeman Raymond Gay, who pleaded guilty for an early guilty plea hearing, was “no-billed” as a result of a charge of an under-10 made against him.

A similar charge against another ex-policeman, Charles Gullick, has not yet been given the guilty plea.

Both Gay and Gullick voluntarily resigned from the police force during the time of the charge. A police spokesman said Gay was not applied to appear at the trial on the force and there is no indication of his intentions.

Hilo Local 155 Members Will Get Facts, ILWU Plans

It was an interesting, not a secret, meeting at the ILWU Local 155, with a group of 300 members present to see the ILWU at the quarters of the president of the board of directors of the ILWU, which Assistant Attorney General, said the statement of ILWU leaders here to the effect that officers of the ILWU had been “prevented from full and free discussions.

Said a statement of ILWU leaders here: “These officers have been prevented from full and free discussions with members of the membership and have kept an iron curtain between the rank and file of the ILWU. We will demand the return of the ILWU and that the rank and file be let in on all facts.”

Immediately under question will be Local 155 officials and the ILWU certification of ILWU Local 155. Leaders here indicated they will act immediately to protect the jurisdiction of the union and its contracts.

The action followed an announcement by Gabriel Manning.

Lattimore Indicted; Are Rep. Judd, IPR, Riley Allen On List of Hunted?

By EDWARD ROHRBOUGH

Reading of the indictment for perjury of Owen Lattimore, scholar as an expert on Far Eastern affairs for two decades, I cannot help wondering if Congressman Walter Judd and the Rockefeller Foundation are next.

Consider the charges against Lattimore. He is accused of having lied when he said he didn’t know a Russian official known as Chi was a Communist.

If Chiang Kai-shek had known anything like that, he certainly has cut China’s head off. Lattimore is accused of lying when he said he didn’t know the writer, “Atavism.” was a Communist.

This FENCE, erected by the City and County of Honolulu at the new Beretania parking lot, creates what few dispute is a fire hazard by barring rear exits of entertainment places on Nuuanu St. Whose fault is it?

CALLS FOR IKE TO BRING PEACE

Truman Policy History’s Greatest Hoax, Writes Former Iowa Attorney General

THE MONDAY FEATURE—In an open letter to President-elect Eisenhower, former Iowa Attorney General, George Condon said he was impressed by the president-elect’s readiness to recognize the great powers in world affairs.

But Condon’s letter was printed in the Iowa Union and ran for more than a page. In it he went on to praise President Truman’s foreign policy based on “the greatest ideals ever projected in all history... the pseudo premise that America was in Europe and America.”

Chiang, Riley Blackman,
The Truman policy substituted military domination for peaceful negotiation, Condon said, adding that the “evil effect” of this policy are visible in the world and that the United Nations.

The primary purpose of the UN as a world forum, to bring about peace, through negotiation, and mediation, he said, “previously the method followed with such good results, when the Arab nations made aggressive war against Israel and our Dr. Bunch discredited himself as the great mediator who brought about peace. The UN never intended as a

While there are still many hidden and controversial aspects of the Korean war, Coonan said,
it is clear that “Chiang Kaishek
and Syngman Rhee are the curse
at the peace of the world.”

“We are fighting now in North Korea, not to resist military aggression,” he said, “but at the first hour of Syngman Rhee to be and non-territoryotech, on the 38th parallel which neither we nor Rhee’s people have to the Korean war, to deliver over to Rhee.
We are willing to have our own nation pulled around and blackmailed by these men, and sacrifice
the lives of untold American boys, without power and extend the jurisdiction of Chiang and Syng-man Rhee.”

Does It Make Sense?

Coonan cited a column by Mar-
gus Gilbert in which he said Gen.
James Van Fleet told Rhee “to see complete assurance that American forces would remain in Korea until north and south were united under Rhee” and that “more recently, Van Fleet had said that with 50,000 casualties
he could destroy the Reds even though his force has been built up to a strength of well over a million.”

Coonan said Van Fleet’s statements throw much light on why there has been no settlement of the prisoner exchange issue.

Sheriff's Report To Ask New Jail Again

"We'll ask for a new jail and try to emphasize the need as much as we can," Deputy Sheriff Lao Akana said last week. "We'll ask for a new jail and try to emphasize the need as much as we can."

For the past 20 years, sheriff Duke Kahanamoku has been the strongest crusade of the residents for a new jail. He pointed out that the overcrowded condition makes rehabilitation of prisoners very difficult, and that necessary mixing of hard-core criminals with first offenders makes one of the worst possible situations.

Judge J. Frank McLaughlin has emphasized Kahanamoku's words by refusing on one occasion last year to commit Federal prisoners to the O-C jail.

The officer, shocked this week, a first offender, released from the jail, was shot at conditions that, in some ways, rival the notorious Bridge House maintained by the Japanese guards during World War II.

"In the block where I was," said the released man, "you spent 24 hours in your cell. You couldn't get to the toilet, used a bucket for that. If you weren't in there, you missed your meals too."

The complaint by the released man was against the administration of the jail rather than its

Mayor Wilson Steals March On GOP;

Working so quietly that few have been aware of his presence, a high-powered civil service expert has been investigating the Honolulu C-S civil service system. His name is Richard Graves and he was brought in by Mayor John H. Wilson, standing on a special $4,000 fund put in the budget for the purpose of investigating civil service.

Graves is highly recommended by city officials in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago, where he has worked previously. It is revealed that his name was mentioned by Mayor Wilson last winter when Republican members of the board pushed for an investigation of charges they had indicated irregularities or malfeasance of some kind. When the mayor suggested bringing in an expert the Republican members opposed the idea and elected a number of hearings in which Attorneys Nathan Tavares and Samuel P. King were employed by the board to question witnesses.

The hearings provided headlines to the dailies for a short time, and the civil service "situation" was referred to in the recent political campaign by Mayor Wilson's opponents, though specific incriminations were not made.

But City Hall politicians say Mayor Wilson may well have stolen a march on the Republicans by importing Graves and forcing them into a job. "I told Graves to dig in and find anything there was," the mayor says. "If there's anything wrong, we want to know it. But I want to see the job done by a man who knows his business."

Although the Republican board members, especially Apana and Tave, insisted they were not motivated by political interests, John H. Wilson, elected by Republican politicians recently when he tried to confirm the appointment of Herbert Ham to the civil service commission. The law does not require that Mayor Wilson report the hiring of Graves to the board officially, unless the expenditure goes over $4,000. For two weeks now, Graves has been studying civil service records, attending meetings of the commission and the board of supervisors, and it is expected that he may take some two or three weeks more to complete the job.

THE HONOLULU RECORD
Joaquin's Fate Up To Gov. Oren E. Long; Judge Buck Reported for Clemency

The fate of Liberato G. Joaquín still hung in the balance shortly before Christmas, with papers from the attorney general's office not yet passed to Gov. Oren E. Long for final disposition. For nearly four years, Joaquín has resided in Oahu Prison under sentence of death.

When the last papers, notifying Gov. Long of the situation of the case, have been sent over from the attorney general's office, the governor will make the final decision of whether to sign execution papers or commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

The only paper thus far received at the governor's office is a plea for clemency from Joaquín's attorney, R. H. Shelton.

Judge Buck for Clemency

It is reliably reported, however, that Judge Carrick Buck, who originally sentenced Joaquín to death after his conviction of killing his stepmother, Mrs. Sally P. Anderson, has added her name to the clemency plea.

By this act, lawyers pointed out, Buck does not reverse his original decision as a trial judge, since the verdict of the jury made a death sentence mandatory. Though required by law to pass the death sentence, it is pointed out, Buck may have personally opposed it at the time.

In the appeal, the point was made that the evidence might have pointed to a second degree conviction as well as a first degree count.

The evidence showed that Joaquín had spent some $5,000 upon Mrs. Anderson, a taxi dancer, and that she became incensed when he could not afford to give her the amount she asked.

There is no indication from Gov. Long's office as to what his attitude will be when the time comes for his decision.

Molokai Swap Was Too Hasty, Puua,
When is a deal a deal? Sometimes in the Hawaiian Homes Commission's affairs, it's a little hard to tell. The case of Gabriel Puua and Mrs. Louise Bethel of Molokai is a good example.
Mrs. Bethel had a home-stead, but because her children would not be able to inherit it, lacking 90 per cent Hawaiian blood, and because her husband found the location inconvenient for his business, she sold it and its accrued debts to Gabriel Puua. Under the arrangement, Puua paid cash to Mrs. Bethel for improvements, and he wanted to be able to assume the loan from the HHC where Mrs. Bethel had left off. Charles Mayer, HHC official on Molokai, had received some of the money on behalf of the commission, and had told both parties the deal was consummated—or would be at the next HHC meeting.

At least that's what the parties told the commission and they were somewhat upset that the matter hadn't been placed on the agenda of last Thursday's meeting.

No Deal, Ainoa Says
Secretary Daniel Ainoa of the commission told them that was impossible because of the severe restrictions on loans at this time. There was no way the deal could be consummated until more money becomes available to the commission.

For a little while it looked as though Puua might have to ask for his money back, and move off the homestead where he has already been living for nearly a month.

Then Ainoa thought of a way by which the parties could utilize the credit union and remain where they were until the commission has the money to grant the new loan to Puua.

And Mr. Meyers was to be warned that such actions cannot be taken without the commission's approval, members told Ainoa.

ILA Racketeering vs. ILWU Rank File Militancy

(Harry Bridges and the ILWU constantly face government and big business attacks for their leftwing policies. They have an army of home grown racketeers from West Coast waterfronts.)

Joe Ryan, a former lieutenant of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) on the East Coast, make a little money from Reds and leftwingers and sold them a solution rank and file militancy. They operate the New York waterfront through crime and corruption.

Bridges refuses to ratify the contracts from bosses which have been forced by government authorities who seek to depopulate the area and who have been paid to do so for over two decades.

Joe Ryan makes millions and sells out. An old time electronic racketeer, he is still quite responsible in the eyes of government authorities who want the interests of the big shipping and steel firms.

In the current New York State Crime Commission hearings, the ILWU is not mentioned in the proceedings—the West Coast union whose program, militancy, character and activities are sharply opposed to the interests of the Ryan-run, racketeering ILA.

The shabby structure of crime and corruption on the West Coast waterfront is based on shapenup hiring and predating by criminals.

This has been clearly brought out in testimony.

The shapenup is a hiring system where longshoremen crown the docks each day to be picked up for work. Many are forced to hire at a safe price. The shapenup breeds crime and shows the criminals.

The shipping and stevedoring employers prefer to use the shapenup hiring hall operated by the ILWU on the West Coast.

The reason is simple—average yearly earnings of ILA members on the Atlantic Coast are $1,500. This compares to the $3,500 average West Coast longshoremen earn.

Testimony before the commission also revealed that corruption starts at the top of the New York waterfront. Officials of big stevedoring companies, including Jax Corp. and Jules & Lirak Co., admitted they maintained a shapenup in the form of accountable petty cash amounts to thousands of dollars weekly. The amount of money was used for illegal or questionable gifts.

Tied to the West Coast waterfront is the problem of corruption.

Frank W. Nolan of Jax Corp. testified that he was authorized to negotiate labor agreements with Theodore Kienzle; "Isn't it a fact that you personally authorized our company to purchase two government bearer bonds of $10,000 each, and presented these,法定代表地, to the president of the (ILA) to influence his action favorably to your company?"

The witness asked for a recess before answering. The commission and Kienzle, a member of one of the largest corporation law firms in Wall Street, asked. After the recess, the question was not repeated.

The story of gifts of $10,000 bearer bonds to steamship officials made the gifts reportedly received by ILA President Joseph P. Ryan seem relatively small. President James C. Keeney of Dan- els & Kennedy admitted that every year for five successive years, he had made Ryan a present of $1,500. Keeney said the practice had been started by his father and that he continued the payments to Ryan without conferring with the ILA head. Asked: "How did you get the figure of $1,500?" he answered: "Well, I figured it was $1,500 and that was it."

HARRY BRIDGES

The ILA boycott was praised in the Hearst press here as a patriotic action and was even commended by the State Department.

On Aug. 30, Butman testified, he received an anonymous phone call advising him to appear at the office of the Port Elizabeth police if he was interested in unloading those tons.

Coughed Up $30,000

At the pier, Butman said, Temp- mal Manager Harry Brinkman and another terminal official escorted him to a room and left him there with two men. The pair were later identified as the hearing at the late Anthony Chas- toma and Pasquale Perrone, of- ficers of ILA Local 1886.

The two men offered to have the ten tons unloaded for $30,000. As a result of this meet- ing, Butman said, he subsequently gave the two officials $5,000, the rest of the money was paid, and the tons were taken off the ship.

Earlier, the commission heard testimony that preference in hiring was given to men with the ILWU records. Bartley G. Perry, operating manager of the Moore McCormick Line, admitted that stevedore hiring bosses used the firm's stationary to appeal to parole boards for release of pris- oners they wanted to hire.

Shipping company officials who testified before the commission all pictured themselves as helpless victims of more powerful ILA officials. The common theme of their stories was that they cooperated with the officials in an effort to avoid trouble with the authorities.

Shipping Companies Hit

The latter drew a strong rejoinder Dec. 10 from Police Commiss- ioner George Monahan, who said: "It is the responsibility of the shipping lines and their associations in proper practices to have made it difficult for authors-" lies to enforce law and order on the waterfront.

rumning out that “in many instances they have preferred to hire thugs with criminal records as cut ting horses,” Monaghan said the shipping companies have not complained to the police department.

“for reasons apparently related to their own advantage and it is now cheese milk. They take part in these complaints that they do not receive adequate police protection.”

The Republican-appointed commission asked away from calling working longshoremen to the witness stand. It showed no interest in hearing their rank and file

International Longshoremen’s

Association (ILA) members tell of their many years of semi-underground struggle to win demonstrable rights in their work and to break up the squeeze play between employers and managers in which they are the prime victims.

Some of the story came through however, in the testimony of Anthony De Vincenzo, former stevedore honor boss for the Jarra Corp.

In Hoboken, N. J. The former

ILA member said he was forced to change his waterfront when he refused to cooperate withILA Local 306

President Edward Fiorio, a leader of the union and former bookkeeper.

Meet At Demo Club

De Vincenzo, who appeared at the hearing under heavy pressure

because of threats to his life, described the alliance among Jarra,

ILA officials and top politicians in Hoboken and Jersey City that “took the blood out of longshoremen.”

One racket, he said, involved

using seven man work gangs on the Hoboken pier instead of 22

man gangs as required by the contract. Jarra Corp’s timekeeper would turn over pasted payroll lists to the paymaster, who would make out wages for non-existent longshoremen. The money would be divided between

The Wheel of Chance

"Now, of course, what happens in a jury trial is that the clerk tables the wheel and asks you to pull out the name of the lawyer and the lawyer's name is then called by the judge. The lawyer then has the right to disqualify the judge or to remove him from the case if he feels that he can't represent him."

"We are not concerned with the appearance of fairness, we are concerned with the question of whether those three particular names happened to get into that wrong box.

"It is unknown to the public, it is left to the judge to fill that wheel with discretion and it is filled at the discretion of the judge who has the right to fill that wheel."

"The judge may have been temperamentally inclined toward a particular judge or juror and may have selected someone who is sympathetic to his views."

"In many cases, the selection of the jury is based on the selection of the judge who chooses his own jury."

ISLANDERS APPEAL FOR ROSENBERG CLEMENCY

Islanders joined in the campaign to save Ethel and Julius Rosenberg in appealing to President Truman and President-elect Eisenhower for clemency for the two, convicted on an "atomic spy" charge.

A group including Attorney Harriet Bousal sent the following letter to President Truman and a similar letter to Eisenhower:

"Sacco and Vanzetti were executed in the year 1927. A quarter of a century later, an eminent legal scholar, Professor Morgan of Harvard University law school, wrote a book, analyzing the evidence. He concluded that the verdict against Sacco and Vanzetti was not sustained by the evidence. "History may well reverse the verdict against the Rosenbergs. Clemency of the sentence of the Rosenbergs from death to life imprisonment will not endanger the welfare of the United States. It may indeed save our country from the shame of an injustice later acknowledged and discovered. "Our country survived for 16 years without a death sentence ever being imposed in a sedition case. The sedition of yesterday in our country, the oppressive epithets "communist" and "democrat" during the era of the Alien and Sedition Act of 1798, have been accepted, even treasured political Trite of today.

"One justice of the Supreme Court, Justice Black, dissented from the refusal of the Supreme Court to grant a hearing. What more eminent jurist do we havethan the Supreme Court of the United States yet with one man dissenting in the trial jury, that could have been no verdict of guilty in this case."

"Please use your power as President to commute this sentence, so that those of us citizens of America who feel sick at heart can have renewed faith that the right to petition for redress of grievances has meaning today."

Although Harry Lundebergh, head of the Sailors Union of the Pacific, obtained openly for Eisenhower, many members of his union were for Stevenson. On one ship, the deck crew wore Stevenson buttons in opposition to the mates, who wore "I like Ike" buttons. When political discussions got serious with the approach of the election, the deck crew offered to fire the mates - a collective, sizable amount - The mates weren't that confident and refused. The ship was on a long voyage and Nov. 4 came while the ship was still at sea, but the Eisenhower victory brought little feeling of triumph to the mates. They could only berate themselves for their own timidity while the passengers crowded to think of the wages they had saved by not betting. But there are SUP men now who wonder if Lundebergh really earned much by backing Eisenhower - since the new Secretary of Labor, Martin Durkin, head of the AFL plumbers' union, is a Democrat who backed Stevenson.

Maui Notes

By EDDIE UJIMORI

Lieu. Thomas Noda, president of the Maui UPWA, seems to be the target of a series of campaign of harassment on Maui. Recently, he was reprimanded by Fire Chief Alexander Ohashi for leaving the post, though entering the incident on the freelance log, when he argued the case of an employee and union brother before the board of water supply. That might sound fair enough were it not for the reports that the unionists at Pala, Lahaina and Molokai leave their jobs without telephoning the chief or asking permission.

OFFICIAL movements directed at Lieut. Noda may have emanated from the fear that his stand resulted in a strong defense for Sam Pushiro, Lahaina electric water tender. Pushiro's firing had been requested by George T. Cooper, manager and chief engineer for the waterworks, even though the water tender had been on his job for 11 years. Cooper charged Pushiro had been negligent in that he had failed to keep scumhitas near the intake, the result being that debris filtered into the meters and caused costly damage. Noda, defending Pushiro, said the man had not realized that the intake was non-existent to prevent debris from entering. He also said he lost Pushiro 30 minutes to get to the intake, and he feels the line should have a bigger settling tank.

John T. Pesina, Lahaina district waterman over the Lahaina waterworks, had a similar experience. He said he could not find Pushiro when he waited for him, but when he nearly felt he had to leave, Pushiro countered with the explanation that Pesina assigns him to so many jobs he can't give proper attention to the intake. When he takes it on himself, Pesina said, he may have to assign it to someone else.

As a result of the hearing, the board recommended that Pushiro be transferred to some other job where he will receive pay equal to that he gets now.

AN ACCUSATION has been made publicly by Dennis DeCote, that David K. Trask, Jr., chairman of the Transportation Control Committee, asked a $5,000 loan of him and implied that DeCote might receive a bus line he wanted. Those who follow government affairs are waiting to see what Trask's answer to the accusation will be. The accusation would appear to call for some positive action of some sort by Eddie Tam and the supervisors. Let's see if they're as eager to investigate this accusation as they were to go after Lieut. Noda.

PEACE and GOOD WILL TO ALL MEN!

Hawaii's Barons Get Words of Wisdom

"Naturally, the old feudal idea dies hard in Hawaii, as it did in the South. Sovereignty of the soil is, for more than a generation, the baronial class of planters are reluctant to let any of the land they control or may wish to control in the future, pass from their hands; but the baronial idea was doomed by annexation and it will be the highest wisdom to admit the fact and make conditions of labor fit the manifest destiny of this people and of this soil.

‘Brigadoon’ Will Open Here Jan. 7

"Brigadoon," a smash hit on the New York stage several years ago, will be the next production of the Honolulu Community Theater, opening at the Roxy Theater, January 7.

The musical comedy centers around a story of two American lads who wander into the pleasant Scottish village of Brigadoon, which occurs to life only one day in every century. It has a tender love story, lilting melodies and "a sweetness like the scent of heather in the air."

The box office will open Dec. 29 at Bergstrom’s Music Store, and reservations may also be made at Carter’s Camera Shops in the Royal Hawaiian, Surfrider and Moana hotels, at the House of Music and the Edgewater Hotel.

A 25 per cent discount will be in effect for service personnel and students and there will also be half-price Saturday matinees.

75 Children Guests of MCS At Yuletide Party

About 75 children of members of the National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards were guests of honor at a Christmas party given at the union hall, 126 N. King St., last Saturday morning.

The children, ranging in age from a few months to 13 years, had a program in which they sang songs and participated in an amateur talent contest.

At the end of the program individual gifts were presented the children by a Santa Claus whose costume remarkably resembled that of a seaman off a ship in port.

Following the children’s party came another party for the union members and their families with a Christmas dinner that featured baked ham and roast turkey.

(from page 1)
appeared as a strong opponent to returning the property, realized the trend was against him and bowed out gracefully.

But it was Sam Ichimura who
from the beginning of the hearings last August, right through to last Friday’s meeting, supported the return stronger than any other board member. It was Ichimura who built up
interest of other board members,
and it was Ichimura, though defeated for re-election, who fought Tever’s suggestion last Monday when it came out, would have resulted in further delay of the property’s return.
The elders bemoaned Tuesday with the pleasure of victory, and prepared, under the guidance of Kakihiko Miyamoto, to see if it was possible to celebrate the New Year on their old temple ground.

Large Credit To Kuba
And none who attended the hearings would deny that a lion’s share of the victory belonged as a result of the Kuba, the aged through his glasses, and sporting a new Christmas tie decorated with bright yellow flowers.

Two-Day Strike

One of the few strikes in earthy ways, where two national-ties combined, was that on January 29–31, 1911, by “Japs and natives” against Kauai Railroad. According to a press report, they “had carefully formulated plans for donations a material increase in pay.” The strike, however, was unsuccessful.

NICK TEVES was told again that he talks too much, this time by Mayor William H.玲玲 in the mayor's office last week. Nick was told the same thing by an office of his own Republican Party in a meeting at Kawaihae Kula not long ago. Looks as if he had won a bit, what with the same criticism coming so di-certly and from such various sources.

THE POAHA CASE. First reported in the RECORD, came up at the HBC meeting last Thursday. No one had much to say about it, nothing much happened. It was indicated that before anything very drastic takes place, witnesses are going to be called in again. Two commissioners, Harry Field and Mrs. Harriet Magoon were on the Maunalua when some of the important evidence was being reported.

The case arose from complaints of Mrs. Elizabeth Poakes of Malakal that a house she had ordered built was not completed, though the amount of her loan, the price of the house, had been expended. Since John C. Thompson, actor of the construction, had negotiated much of the buying and building for the contractor and since she found items charged against her account that had never been placed in her home, she put in a complaint. The HBC turned the case over to an attorney general's office for investigation and Everett Poak made a report.

But Magoon, one commissioner, spoke out saying that if the case may not be too much for the commission to handle, after all, the thing was being delayed for a long time.

MUCH TO the consternation of some commissioners, the last HBC meeting ran from a little after 7 p.m. until 1 a.m. today, though the agenda wasn’t very long.

Mrs. Magoon, an experienced commissioner and one very popular with the Kauai homeowers, be put in an especially difficult position when meetings of that length occur in the middle of the night. Since she had to get to the Fifty Hour Hotel at 7:30 each weekday morning to begin her work as Mayor Wilson’s secretary. Many of the other commissioners are not in positions that commit them to such regularity.

Aged G-Gal Forgets Time of Husband's Death; Knows Date She Saw Fujimotos

When told to name the guards and fight-ness and fighters by Gladstein. Mrs. Van Dorn named about five women who were lies and forties. She admitted further, that they did not receive any training in the use of arms.

Were they told how they would be trained in the U. S. troops, police, and people who would go for the trials and the San Francisco area, she said she was. She answered they weren’t told anything on this subject.

She said a leader of the party branch told them that the revolution was “near at hand” and that the higher-ups
knew the exact time.

Easy On Details

Party members were to cut telephone wires, and she said a telephone strike was then going on.

But anyone cut suspender wire she was asked. She did not know, but she reported all this to the FBI. Was any party member in her branch arrested? She did not know, and said no.

In preparation for the revolution, C & H sugar was stored in parties she was informed. She tested this in 1945 and the sugar was found to be in force. She said she reported this to the FBI but she did not know if the owner was arrested.

Similarly, she reported to the FBI about the storing of “implacable members” by the Communists. She said she did this right away. She did not know if any one of her party association was picked up.

Mrs. Van Dorn said she was finished by the FBI in mid-October, 1944, several months after she was reported to the Garfield Building where the California Communist Party
headquarters was located.

Pay Was Raised

For turning in information, she first was paid $50, but when asked at first, then changed this to $125. For her living.

Was she given this money for two years so that she would testify in Communist cases? Glad-stein asked her. No, she answered. She was told about testifying after the FBI stopped paying her.

The last answer Gladstein grew from the witness was to answer in reply to a question as to whether she was promised a specified amount by the prosecution for testifying here.

Mrs. Van Dorn said: "They told me they would take care of me."

The elderly witness, who was built up by the prosecution as the grandmother of 11, who wanted to return to San Francisco to be with her family during Christmas,
like other government witnesses,
had a remarkably good memory
for names and events, but almost no memory for normally significant information.

Peculiar Memory

She thus knew the exact date:
Sept. 9, 1947—when she met defendant Sharon Fujimoto in the Communist headquarters in San Francisco, who was operating an elevator in the building. But she did not know when her husband died in 1948. Asked to fix a definite date, she finally said
it must be "the first part of July"
and in that month he was killed by Gladstein, she emphatically said she had not discussed Charles and Eileen Fujimoto with Prose-
ctor Hodrick, James Freeman,
another defendant who was interviewed by her. She said she had seen the Fzimotos in September 1947 and had never seen photographs of them or even seen them again before taking the witness stand, she said.

How then, did Hodrick ask her about the Fujimotos? She was asked, This question was objected by Mrs. Van Dorn.

The next morning, Tuesday, Mrs. Van Dorn volunteered the information that in her heart
she had misunderstood Glad-stein the day before, and that she had discussed the Fujimotos
and Freedom With Hodrick.

Gladstein asked her if she was making this correction because she knew no one would believe her when she said she never talked about her testimony with Hodrick, who suggested that she make the correction? Gladstein asked, and Mrs. Van Dorn replied: "They did," indicating the prosecuting attorneys.

Tanny Nanning of Hall

She said she had been shown pictures of the defendants by two FBI agents in Oakland about two weeks before she met Hodrick
and Ros McClintock, another testimony Hodrick.

The name of defendant Jack Hall was brought out by her as a personal fact he had identified for the FBI agents from among the photographs. She said he visited the Communist headquarters and when she testified she told Hodrick about Hall, she did not ask about him in direct examination.

George’s Christmas for a Lincoln Service...
GREETINGS OF THE SEASON

PEACE AND GOOD WILL

Humility is the theme that sings at the heartstrings of all the humble-minded people at this festive season of the year.

For the essence of the teaching of Jesus, for whom Christmas is celebrated, is peace and goodwill.

Today, millions of people are sacrificing for peace and international friendship in a war which shows the threat of a Third World War. In Korea, total destruction takes place and masses rise from the ruins and from bodies burned by jellied gasoline poured from the skies by U. S. planes.

Today, as in the time of Jesus, sharp criticism of the ruling classes brings repression. As in the earlier period, the times demand courage.

Jesus left his carpenter's bench to take up teaching when John the Baptist was beheaded for denouncing the corruption of Herod Antipas.

Jesus was a great teacher and He was a man of ideas, an advocate of social change. He was crucified for His ideas and teachings.

Twice, in two separate years, Jesus chased the money changers and merchants from the inner courts of the temple in Jerusalem where the priests and religious leaders had allowed them to enter to do business.

He could have done nothing better to bring home the horror of those who saw Him as the antichrist.

What He did then was comparable to the denouncing of Wall Street and big business practices of today, and making people see in true light the conditions as they were.

After He chased the money changers from the temple the first time, He was arrested by a counterpart of today's un-American committee-the Pharisees. The tax collector, by finding him guilty of treason against the Roman government. In this they failed.

They tried to get Jesus on blasphemy. They asked Him what was the first Commandment of all, and other questions. They failed again.

Three years later, when Jesus again chased the money changers and merchants of a decadent society from the temple, He had the following. His growing influence struck fear into the hearts of the chief priests and Pharisees.

The enemies of Jesus used the in former, Judas Iscariot, to have Him arrested at night. Jesus was taken into the judgment hall before Pontius Pilate, charged with sedition and blasphemy. Pilate first said he found no fault with Jesus and sent Him to Herod, who showed Him back to Pilate. These rulers feared the people. But in a witch-hunt hysteria, Pilate finally convicted Jesus for blasphemy.

Jesus and His followers then comprised a small Jewish sect, a minority group. Paul later popularized Christianity and spread it far and wide. In Rome, he was arrested, imprisoned, and finally executed. Our law allowed arrest and conviction for preaching. He was put to death.

The corrupt rulers of that time strongly feared competitive ideas and teaching. But such ideas have become accepted and common in a constantly changing world.

The time of Jesus, corrupt, despotic and fearful rulers have tried to put padlocks on people's minds. In 1952, in the United States, books and ideas are on trial in the Senate's Smith Act cases.

Man's inhumanity to man will cease when man's exploitation of man ceases. Ideas are important in winning human decency, peace and plenty.

Best wishes.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

ARCHBISHOP R. J. CUSHING DENOUNCES MCCARRAN-WALTER ACT AS UNCHRISTIAN

The Roman Catholic priests' views were expressed in a message read at a hearing conducted by the President's Commission on Immigration and Naturalization. The hearing was the second in a series scheduled by the seven-member board, which is under instructions to recommend changes in the law, the Ninth Circuit Court over President Truman's veto. At a recent two-day hearing in New York, the commission heard documentation of the law from more than 300 witnesses.

Cushing singled out for condemnation the "national-origin restraints of the law. He charged that these provisions are "specific and unproven designed to virtually exclude for the U. S. people from southern and eastern Europe.""

"At least it is assumed," he continued, "that people from these areas make worse Americans than northern and western Europeans." New theory of national origins cannot be defended without recourse to the disputed and un-Christian theory of race. To sanction racism after we have fought for democracy to defeat it is nothing short of bizarre.""

Rabbis Judah Nadich, speaking for the Jewish Community of Greater Boston, said legalization of foreigners is "a national disgrace." The commission's recommendation to change immigration policies.

The commissioners also heard from Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (R-Mass.), chairman of the Senate's Immigration Committee, that the U. S. Senate from Massachusetts, who testified against the law.

SORT OF JOINTED SNAKE

"The Merchants' Association is almost identical with the Chamber of Commerce, as I understand it. The Chamber of Commerce is an association of merchants of this city. Not one member of a firm is eligible for membership. So the Merchants' Association for the purpose of creating artificial sentiment at Washington, was formed. There will be a resolution from the Chamber of Commerce and one from the Merchants' Association involving the protection of the Fifth Amendment. For the protection of one firm, you were a traitor, or knew that a certain person was a Communist in this country of business and the individual who was so much in demand, and you knew he was not and you could not be a Communist yourself. That is the kind of an idea that the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association are all about."

Judge Abraham S. Humphrey, 1932

Conviction—Coming and Going

One of the open secrets in the Lattimore indictment, incidentally, is that he lied when he described the Communist as Dr. Ching Feng, a high official of the Chinese government, as a Communist."

The crime of lying for a man to face 20 years in jail for saying that he did not know that a certain individual was a Communist, but such as the possibility. Lattimore actually might not have been a Communist.
