Half T.H. Workers Not Voters in Dairy Cuts Price

Ex-Cop Tells Civil Service How Police
"Kick 'em" In Aala Park, Not Waikiki

A former policeman spoke frantically of police work in a story that reveals the manner in which the police attitude varies towards the residents of different sections of Honolulu.

"If you're working in Aala Park," the ex-police officer told the C-C civil service commissioner, "you can kick a guy in the rear and he won't say anything the next time." The officer went on to say that Waikiki was the area where the police were always getting complaints for even talking to a citizen.

Another former policeman, Henry M. Smith, resigned from the force some time ago and was again to get his name restored to the employable list. His appeal was motivational by a citizen's complaint that his name was "a prejudice against them," he explained, "and that the department didn't drop it." Instead. (more on page 7)

Guaranteed Annual Wage Won by Sugar Refinery Workers

New York (AP) - A guaranteed annual wage, expected to set a pattern for the sugar refining industry, was won by Local 8, United Packinghouse Workers (CIO) in negotiations with the Nash Sugar Refining Co. at its Long Island City plant.

Effective Jan. 1, the plan guarantees 1,100 workers 60 weeks, or 2,000 hours, of employment or its equivalent in wages. A union spokesman described the guaranteed wage victory as "an important contribution to the economic stability of the industry."

The new 1-year contract also provides complete medical coverage for employees and dependents and a 16 cents hourly general wage increase. The pay raise brings the rate for married workers up to $7.15 to $9.15 and for single workers to $8.

Injured Infant Waits On Kauai Rd. Because Of Doctor's "Ethics"

Some Kauai doctors answer emergency calls—only when those injured are among their regular patients.

That's the report brought to a traveler from the Garden Island by a visitor to a hospital with symptoms of a serious condition, who inquired for a doctor's name specialist with the board.

"At that time when I made the application," said Rose Maukana Lane, "I was taking care of my mother-in-law. I had all kinds of trouble at home and I was desperate. I don't remember what I did."

"The father-in-law was Lot Ka-

T.H. Unemployment Figure Shows Discrepancy of 910

While the total labor force in the Territory went down from 176,308 in November to 175,709 in January because of a difference of 1,299, the territorial department of labor said that local industrial reports showed no increase in unemployment for the same period by approximately 910.

The department says a person is not listed as unemployed unless he is looking for work. In an interview with officials of the department, the DISCORDER was informed that in the state there is no figure for the number of employed and unemployed, allowances are made for those who work.

Mainland Couple Sells Idea To "Pool" Debts, Skip With Money

Two Mainlanders who sold Honolulans their idea of an "Hawaiian beauty secret" and "money machine" business have taken off to the Mainland with their loot.

The Better Business Bureau tried to locate Mr. and Mrs. John M. Fenton for prosecution but failed in its initial try because it had no evidence that the couple had embezzled more than $100 in a 24-hour period, which would make it a felony.

Has New Lead

The Better Business Bureau was unable to get any leads in their operations, according to the BBB, so as not to be caught in a felony but under investigation. William S. Billam-Walker, who has been working on the case says he now has information which might enable prosecution of the former owners or Honolulu Debt Adjustment Bureau.

When the BBB received reports that Honolulu-born were being taken for a ride by the Fentons in April, 1956, it wrote a letter to the Honolulu-Dear Adjustment Bureau. Mrs. Fenton replied, saying that she and her husband were leaving for the Mainland that weekend.

Mrs. Fenton, the RECORD learned, notified the BBB that their attorney would take up the matter of the BBB, but contact was lost. The attorney did not contact the BBB.

It is also reported that she said (more on page 7)

Lot Lane's Daughter-In-Law May Lose Job Teaching Hula

A daughter-in-law of one of Hawaii's most famous sons and his nurse during his last long illness has appeared in court as she told the C-C civil service commission she had no intention of falsifying her application for a job as hula specialist with the board.

"At that time when I made the application," said Rose Maukana Lane, "I was taking care of my mother-in-law. I had all kinds of trouble at home and I was desperate. I don't remember what I did."

The father-in-law was Lot Ka-

"Small" Number Registered, Gov. King's Survey Reveals

"Demos In Pre-Convention Scraping; Rumor Hite As Entry Against Burns"

With the time for convention and direct action drawing closer, especially among local Democrats, much of the planning has to be held in secrecy while the issue of whether the convention will be held in Washington. Some Democrats say frankly that they cannot move far enough that they would be forced to vote yes or no, because there might be more than a dozen votes for the "no" side, but whether the convention would be held in the U.S. Congress or the Hawaii legislature.

Some Republicans profess not to be greatly concerned with this matter. They have already made plans to lay their plans to fight whether the vote moves elsewhere.

But among the Democrats, enthusiasm is rising without any clearly indicated outlet, the order of the day appears to have become more general backing for the idea of having a convention in Hawaii, and the time has arrived to begin planning for the convention.

"Demos In Pre-Convention Scraping; Rumor Hite As Entry Against Burns"

With the time for convention and direct action drawing closer, especially among local Democrats, much of the planning has to be held in secrecy while the issue of whether the convention will be held in Washington. Some Democrats say frankly that they cannot move far enough that they would be forced to vote yes or no, because there might be more than a dozen votes for the "no" side, but whether the convention would be held in the U.S. Congress or the Hawaii legislature.

Some Republicans profess not to be greatly concerned with this matter. They have already made plans to lay their plans to fight whether the vote moves elsewhere.

But among the Democrats, enthusiasm is rising without any clearly indicated outlet, the order of the day appears to have become more general backing for the idea of having a convention in Hawaii, and the time has arrived to begin planning for the convention.

"Demos In Pre-Convention Scraping; Rumor Hite As Entry Against Burns"

With the time for convention and direct action drawing closer, especially among local Democrats, much of the planning has to be held in secrecy while the issue of whether the convention will be held in Washington. Some Democrats say frankly that they cannot move far enough that they would be forced to vote yes or no, because there might be more than a dozen votes for the "no" side, but whether the convention would be held in the U.S. Congress or the Hawaii legislature.

Some Republicans profess not to be greatly concerned with this matter. They have already made plans to lay their plans to fight whether the vote moves elsewhere.

But among the Democrats, enthusiasm is rising without any clearly indicated outlet, the order of the day appears to have become more general backing for the idea of having a convention in Hawaii, and the time has arrived to begin planning for the convention.

"Demos In Pre-Convention Scraping; Rumor Hite As Entry Against Burns"

With the time for convention and direct action drawing closer, especially among local Democrats, much of the planning has to be held in secrecy while the issue of whether the convention will be held in Washington. Some Democrats say frankly that they cannot move far enough that they would be forced to vote yes or no, because there might be more than a dozen votes for the "no" side, but whether the convention would be held in the U.S. Congress or the Hawaii legislature.

Some Republicans profess not to be greatly concerned with this matter. They have already made plans to lay their plans to fight whether the vote moves elsewhere.

But among the Democrats, enthusiasm is rising without any clearly indicated outlet, the order of the day appears to have become more general backing for the idea of having a convention in Hawaii, and the time has arrived to begin planning for the convention.

"Demos In Pre-Convention Scraping; Rumor Hite As Entry Against Burns"

With the time for convention and direct action drawing closer, especially among local Democrats, much of the planning has to be held in secrecy while the issue of whether the convention will be held in Washington. Some Democrats say frankly that they cannot move far enough that they would be forced to vote yes or no, because there might be more than a dozen votes for the "no" side, but whether the convention would be held in the U.S. Congress or the Hawaii legislature.

Some Republicans profess not to be greatly concerned with this matter. They have already made plans to lay their plans to fight whether the vote moves elsewhere.

But among the Democrats, enthusiasm is rising without any clearly indicated outlet, the order of the day appears to have become more general backing for the idea of having a convention in Hawaii, and the time has arrived to begin planning for the convention.
Four Horsemen Said Spreading Gloom, Doom

Walter P. Reuther, Adal E. Stevenson, Sen. Paul K. Douglas (D., Ill.) and Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind., Ore.) were called a “quartet which rides like the four horsemen spreading gloom and doom across the land.”

THE RULERS of the “four horsemen of doom” charge Feb. 5 was none other than GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall.

In the smear technique that is intended to silence people, GOP’s Hall declared: “The truth is that the left wing in America regards a depression as its one-way ticket to power.”

The tactic was put by association, by now spread so far down as to include the conservative president of the University of Hawaii whose liberalism is a minus quality.

ANOTHER TOP NOTCH Republican called Truman’s talk of U. S. depression a “fear deal.”

House speaker Joseph W. Martin (R.) recently blamed the “eagled wing” for “filing depression.”

This kind of gibberish was an attempt to obscure the grave economic situation confronting the nation. And behind it was the move to protect profiteering of big interests.

Thus, Labor Sec. James P. Mitchell

MAIN WEAPON: Ease Corporation Taxes

The President’s economic report sent Congress Jan. 24, it made clear that the easing of corporation taxes was the main weapon the administration relies on to prevent depression. Real help to workers, the report said, might ruin business.

THE BIG BUSINESS administration, which is criticized by small business operators and farmers, in the economic report wanted a minimum wage that is “too high” may hurt the low-income groups by driving industries out of operation.

According to Sen. Paul Douglas business failures were up 20 per cent by Jan. and the rate had been 12 per cent by Dec. and this was evidently not the result of adequate wages but of workers that lack training and big business taking huge profits.

Jobless Figures: Statistical Tricks

The census bureau reported Jan. 20 U. S. unemployment stood at 3,259,000, an increase of about a half million over the December figure.

UNION ECONOMISTS who analyzed these figures correctly reported Feb. 4 the census bureau report was all wrong.

Unemployment in Jan. 1964 was 4,041,000, not 3,259,000, they reported.

Statistical tricks used by the bureau in compiling official unemployment figures were revealed by the economists for the United Electrical Radio & Machine Workers.

The analysis said these tricks are used:

- Including temporarily laid-off workers as employed.
- Including among the employed workers who are employed as little as one hour a week but want full-time jobs among the unemployed.
- Exclusion from the labor force of more than a million persons, many of them women and youth who really want jobs.

The union study takes off from the 2,259,000 unemployed figures of the census bureau. To this it adds 920,000 temporarily laid-off workers, 291,000 who work less than 6 hours a week but want full-time jobs, and 1,974,000 persons “excluded” out of the labor force by the bureau since January 1963. The result is 4,071,000 jobless.

While the U. S. labor force increased an average of 74,000 annually for the past seven years, the unemployment rate has increased by 1964 to 71,000.

The statistical tricks used by the bureau were exposed also by chief AFL economist Boris Shishkin. In his report to the IV congress AFL executive council Feb. 1, Shishkin stated:

- In the past seven months the number of jobs shrunk by 5,250,000, a period during which the total employment should have grown by over 400,000 to cover the normal rise in population.
- According to official government statistics 2,600,000 workers left the job market since Jan. 1. In the same period, official statistics on workers looking for jobs rose by 796,000, bringing the total dip in employment to 2,800,000.

Measures to avert economic crisis were the first major subject taken up by AFL officials at their annual mid-winter session. Immediate increase of minimum wage to $1.25 an hour, government projects and liberalized unemployment insurance system to provide bigger benefits and to extend the time during which benefits can be collected were some of the proposals.

Big Compromise In Germany: Equal Share

The Advertiser this week ran a headline that said: “Big Three Offer Major Compromise to Russia.”

The lead paragraph in a United Press story from Berlin said the “major compromise” of the Western powers was “to give East Germans an equal share in running all-German elections.”

Another UPI dispatch said in part: “The Western powers are unalterably committed to making free all-German elections the first step toward German unification. The German notion would then be free to join Western defense plans.”

The conference continued with the Western powers seeking to make Germany a military bastion in the Western military alliance and the Soviet Union seeking to have a neutralized Germany.

WHILE INTERNATIONAL TENSION remains, pressure increased for East-West trade. "The Chairman of Anderson, Clayton & Co. of Texas called for the removal of trade barriers. The UN released information gathered in a survey that China’s trade with Western Europe and non-Communist countries rose sharply during 1963.

A British scientist (Feb. 4 NPD) was reported to have said U.S. "spy hysteria" was apt to give the Soviet Union unaided leadership in the atomic field.

Professor E. B. Simon of Oxford University said the "hysteria" creates a false sense of security for those who believe that the Soviet Union can make progress only with the help of stolen secrets, when in actuality it has plenty of good atomic scientists of its own. He also said "hysteria" was in "sickness" in U. S. atomic research.

Indo-China: Few Frenchmen In Combat

INDEP.- Without aid to the independence movement of Indo-China the French have not been able to hold territory in the Far East.

The French have not been able to hold territory in the Far East.

The French have not been able to hold territory in the Far East.

The French have not been able to hold territory in the Far East.

The French have not been able to hold territory in the Far East.

The French have not been able to hold territory in the Far East.
Hilo Taxi Dance Patron Refuses to Pay For Wallflower Time, Wins

A worker from a plantation vis-à-vis Hilo dance hall. The hostess was in a trance as she danced and pretended that they sit out the dance. Being a beginner in dancing, he had dropped her shoes and stepped on her gown.

"When you come to buy, they sell you an hour. No one came by to ask her to show her." Finally when he had seen enough of the dancing he decided to leave. According to the hostess informed him that she owed the man $5.50. The man refused to pay the 50 cents for the last hour.

The man said he did not owe her anything. He had only paid her for one dance. She had suggested it, he replied, to please her. He said he did not want to dance with him, or to engage her for any more.

The hostess refused to accept the money. She had not received it. She said he had paid her for the dance, and she was not going to accept it.

As the police threatened to lock up the man, the worker reacted, tried it.

At the police station, the worker asked the officer to contact his lawyer for him.

"Where is your lawyer?" he asked.

"We cannot help you." The officer said.

"We have no lawyer." the worker replied.

"Nothing more. Please, leave." the officer said.

After a moment's silence the officer turned to the worker and suggested that he find a new residence in the Hilo-Waikiki area.

New Local Bank Causes Old Ones to Make Changes in Personnel

The Central Mutual Bank, the first local bank to receive a bank charter since 1922, will operate under the name of The Hawaii Trust Company.

It has $1,000,000 in capital, paid in 350 shares of stock and statutory deposits of $100,000.

An interesting development in the banking community was the appointment of the chairman of the board of directors, Dr. Henry Pook. The board of directors, which was investigating him, acted more like a prosecution attorney than an unprejudiced agency trying to get at the facts fairly and objectively.

What does it mean to Sen. Mitchell's appointment of the chairman, who has been accused of fraud in the event of alleged fraud in the event of the bank's management? The Senate, in investigating him, was acting more like a prosecution attorney than an unprejudiced agency trying to get at the facts fairly and objectively.

What does it mean to Sen. Mitchell's appointment of the chairman, who has been accused of fraud in the event of alleged fraud in the event of the bank's management? The Senate, in investigating him, was acting more like a prosecution attorney than an unprejudiced agency trying to get at the facts fairly and objectively.

Marcantonio Forns New Political Party

NEW YORK—The incorporation of the Good Neighbor Political Party by Representative Marcantonio and two others is viewed as a move to bolster the House of Representatives from the Republican Party in Congress from the 18th Congressional District in Manhattan.

Marcantonio was appointed as chairman of the Good Neighbor Political Party after last year's election, saying he would "abolish the rich and support the poor." The party now has a platform of 12 principles, including the abolition of the rich and the support of the poor.

The GOVERNOR last week handed a proposal for a stricter control over the activities of public officials.

"I was going to the line," the governor said. "Last year I took a big step from the line to the governor's conference and this squandering of public money was giving us a reason to act.

The governor had been given a week's notice to leave office, before his term ends, and was therefore unable to resign.

The column will not go into detail on the governor's extraordi-
ILWU Scores Gain In Representing Ship Stewards
SAN FRANCISCO—ILWU—representing a substantial number of West Coast stewards—on February 7th, filed a formal complaint with the National Labor Relations Board. The complaint charges that the ILWU was not consulted in connection with the proposed hiring of new stewards. The ILWU represents approximately 6,000 stewards on the West Coast, and the complaint alleges that the ILWU was denied the opportunity to be involved in the selection of new stewards.

The ILWU is seeking to have the 6,000 stewards represented by the newly appointed stewards, and is requesting that the National Labor Relations Board order the company to negotiate a new contract with the ILWU for the stewards.

In addition, the ILWU is seeking to have the new stewards removed from their positions, and is seeking reimbursement for the costs incurred in negotiating the new contract.

The ILWU's complaint is the latest in a series of disputes between the union and the company over the representation of stewards. In recent years, the ILWU has been involved in numerous disputes with the company over the representation of stewards, including disputes over the selection of new stewards and the negotiation of new contracts.

The ILWU's complaint is the latest in a series of disputes between the union and the company over the representation of stewards. In recent years, the ILWU has been involved in numerous disputes with the company over the representation of stewards, including disputes over the selection of new stewards and the negotiation of new contracts.

The ILWU's complaint is the latest in a series of disputes between the union and the company over the representation of stewards. In recent years, the ILWU has been involved in numerous disputes with the company over the representation of stewards, including disputes over the selection of new stewards and the negotiation of new contracts.
Demons In Pre-Convention Scrambling; Rumor Hie As Against Burns

(from page 1)

Top officials of the Murphy-Ahola Motors, Kamehameha Motors, and Ohana Motors have passed the legislative calm of the session never before reached.

From left to right: Bill Ishii and Jiro Shizuma, manager and captain respectively of Murphy-Ahola Motors; Keono Kimura, chief umpire; John Velles, Herbert Tanaka and George Kishida, captain, coach and manager respectively of Amulan.

The ILWU-AAO HAUU COUNTY city section softball league opened its second season at the Ala Moana park last Sunday morning with four games. Picture here talking things over before. (continued on page 4.)

250 Greek Women Appeal to UN From Prison for Amnossy

Two hundred fifty women from cold and damp cells of Avero prison, Athens, Greece, are appealing to the UN and world democratic opinion to insist that a Greek woman be freed.

The appeal made by these women has been made by the Greek government, which has already freed several thousand prisoners.

250 Greek Women Appeal to UN From Prison for Amnossy

Two hundred fifty women from cold and damp cells of Avero prison, Athens, Greece, are appealing to the UN and world democratic opinion to insist that a Greek woman be freed.

The appeal made by these women has been made by the Greek government, which has already freed several thousand prisoners.

Hunan Two-Crops Rice, Gets 400,000 T. More

By expanding the double cropping rice acreage, an extra 400,000 tons of grain was harvested in Hunan province, according to reports from Peking.

The double cropping rice acreage was expanded by 20 per cent last year.

Hunan is the biggest rice producing province in the central south of China, which is the main rice-producing region of the country.

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.

The owner of L & L, Robert Lee, purchased Waimanalo farm to Campos Dairy, which has been operated for the past few weeks by a milk distributor who paid him 18 cents a quart. The dairy will be operated differently, using a different system from Campos.

According to the spokesman, the dairy will be able to increase the amount of milk by selling it at a lower price, which will be a benefit to the consumer.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Ravenholt

New Dairy Sells Milk for 29c. Qt.
THE GAMBLERS" is the title of one of the most recent of the documentary-ironic romances at the Columbia Broadcasting System— a series which has become as well known as one of the hardest punching, most informative and most valuable programs on the air. Others have included documentaries on crime, sex, the New York waterfront, narcotics and poverty. "The Gamblers" makes studies of situations in northern Kentucky where a Cleveland syndicate makes its play, and in New Orleans where big-time gambling has flourished off and on since before the city was part of the United States. But it goes farther, having discovered (find out now, easy) that it is gambling in other cities. Here are a few of the things the reporter learned.

That you can lay a bet on the horses in a Boston parking lot.

That a factory worker in Detroit sells numbers to his fellow workers, collects $6 a week and presumes he has more than $10,000 a year. (That's right, just a little documentation.)

That it's no trouble at all to find a legal or the numbers game, in Tamp,

The BIG STORY of the CBS broadcast was a New Orleans radio station's report on how payoffs run steadily all the time. "The Gamblers" takes the "pickup" man collecting shakedown from gamblers— the entire thing that is called "the daily shut down"— and gives the television audience an inside look at the operations of the bookies, the numbers game. The program is based on a story by John Dugdale, "The Gamblers" writer. It is narrated by Guy Kibbee, the actor, and is signed by "The Gamblers" writer, John Dugdale.

GREGG M. SINGHAI, president of the U. of H. and an object of the episode, is a traveled man: he

TOP ROLLER at the fisticuffs in the second round of the Los Angeles-Ran-down the line of its great fights.

A RESTAURANT man here doesn't know any of the staff, and that's one thing he said, "I wish, in fact, that you'd do something to help me with the payroll." That's a genuine, friendly gesture.

* * *

DO YOU buy the "Information Please Almanac" every year? If you do, why not order another as a gift? It's a top-notch gift, perhaps better than more than one thing.

* * *

ONE OF THE BEST appointments by the University of Kentucky, the year before last year, was that of Dr. Jack Williams to the head man for the baseball team. A member of the faculty, the year before last year, was appointed by the president of the university, to fill the position of athletic director. The new appointment was made after an exhaustive search.

* * *

DO better than the year before last year, was that of Dr. Jack Williams to the head man for the baseball team. A member of the faculty, the year before last year, was appointed by the president of the university, to fill the position of athletic director. The new appointment was made after an exhaustive search.

* * *

ONE OF THE BEST appointments by the University of Kentucky, the year before last year, was that of Dr. Jack Williams to the head man for the baseball team. A member of the faculty, the year before last year, was appointed by the president of the university, to fill the position of athletic director. The new appointment was made after an exhaustive search.
Mainland Couple Sells Idea To 'Pool' Debts, Skip With Money

from page 1

If And When Money Comes
Judge Moore told this weekly the other day that the unexpected financial windfall was not a matter of chance but rather the result of careful planning. "I can't say how many times we have thought how nice it would be to have some extra money on hand," he said.

The couple, who are in their early thirties, have been saving small amounts of money on a regular basis and have managed to build up a substantial sum. They are planning to use the money to travel, buy a new car, or make some other major purchase.

Tf Employment Figure Shows Discrepancy

from page 1

Ex-Cop Tells Civil Service Police

"Kick 'em" In Aloa Park, Not Waikiki

from page 1

Smith was broken from motor patrolman and lost his $20 per month gasoline allowance.

That was the week the panic struck. Smith was surprised, but not too much, to find that the government was willing to pay him the $20 per month.

"Being a family man living up to it," he told the official, "I was broke and that $20 meant a lot to me, God knows!"

---

Injured Infant Waits

Of Doctor's "Ethics"

On Kauai Rd. Because

from page 1

"If you're not going to drive somewhere to see a doctor," he said. "I've seen several cases and it was just too much of a problem. The baby was too far away and the doctor was too busy."

The infant was eventually referred to a hospital in another area, but the parents were still concerned about the long distance and the cost of transportation.

---

Lot Lane's Daughter-In-Law Wins

Sympathy of CSC But "Hands Tied"

from page 1

Her words to the civil service commission Tuesday were spoken under unusual circumstances. Mrs. Neola Gallia, former member of the commission, appeared to be with difficulty that she seemed an outburst of tears.

"I feel her remarks were entirely contrary to fact--as far as I understand them," said Mrs. Gallia.

"She had no comprehension of answering that question," said Mrs. Gallia.

But the trouble is that one answer Mrs. Lane gave was entirely contrary to fact--as far as I understand them, Mrs. Gallia told the commission.

"There were other questions from the commissioners, all obviously aimed at Mrs. Lane for the unhappy woman. But nothing changes the fact of the application.

"I'm afraid our hands are tied," said Chairman Kuhn.

"We are sorry you apply for a pardon," asked Mrs. Gallia.

"No," said Mrs. Lane. "I didn't think I needed it."
Now Sinclair, Who's Next?

Now it's Gregg M. Sinclair, conservative president of the University of Hawaii.

A Navy civilian worker, who was a wartime Navy lieutenant and who attended the university after the war, was suspended from employment because, among other charges, according to Newsweek, "he associated with Negroes and with students in such a manner as to contribute to intellectual sterility at a center of learning where such work would be examined in a scientific manner.

When Sinclair's name was made headlines last week, the Star-Bulletin in a news item explained that the local Institute of Pacific Relations was independent of the IPK on the mainland.

Sinclair in his disavowal, which is a ritual with the week-kned these days in the witchhunt atmosphere, said that neither the International nor the American IPK has been listed as 'subversive' by the Attorney General.

What of it if the Attorney General did list it? In these days of hysteria—and it is emphatically driven home that these are times of hysteria when a man like Sinclair can be branded—former President Truman himself is accused of complicity in treason.

The McCarran Committee held hearings in the IPK and the slanderer, intimidating activities of the committee with regards to the IPK read like any probe of the un-Americans. One of these days, if the tide of witchhunting is not turned back and freedom of thought is not encouraged and nurtured, the Attorney General need not make up a list. Merely the fact that an American committee has harassed an organization would be sufficient to proscribute it.

There is no private or confidential measuring stick for "subversives." When Sinclair's name was turned up in FBI files, he was formerly a member of the Territorial Loyalty Review Board.

What staff witchhunting committees have in their files is beyond imagination.

Some years ago during the Judith Coplan case, FBI reports poured into court revealed that a man was reported as subversive and his name kept in FBI files because he walked naked in his home and

Looking Backward

"We have no newspapers. You never get the truth from the newspapers. I know them. I have been there before. They will never give you the truth of what you say. There is one thing you can do: you can publish a paper that we can control, that will publish the truth we say and want to be published. I belong to the union. Our red flag over there means red blood."

—John Wise, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn.

local, Labor Day, 1919.

On September 5, a Japan-born Maui resident, served with the Red Cross in France during World War I, with rank of lieutenant.

A tunnel through the Pali was proposed as early as 1832.

"The Orientals were brought here to labor as slaves. The celebration of Labor Day, therefore, disappeared..."

Teachers' salaries in the DPI in 1919 ranged from $40 a month for uncertificated teachers up to $91.75 a month for "certificate 10th year and over" and $175.70 for the top teachers in the high schools and Normal School. When unemployed labor was making $2.00 a day.

MR. DAVIS

Dramatic Fight for Freedom and Ahead

This, in itself, is concrete evidence of the place of the Negro in America today. Not many years ago, few minority groups would have dared stage such a demonstration at the Georgia Capitol building for fear of bloody violence. That such can take place today shows the progress that has been made, but the fact that such a dramatic fight for the freedom of the Negroes must stage also shows how far we must still go to reach equality.

After the prayers and songs, the women went in and saw the American flag waving, national white supremacist. It gave them the run-around. Outside, lack of jurisdiction, Palmacher sent them to the State Board of Parole and Paroles which refused to act and declared it would do nothing until August of 1936 on the ground that a life term must serve seven years before being eligible for parole. The Ingrams were sentenced in November, 1947.

However, Negroes and democratic whites are as complicated as the matter in this case as they are to get full citizenship for all non-whites throughout America. So a campaign is now underway to change the minds of these Georgia white supremacists.

We Have Gone Far But Not Far Enough

In April of this year, a large delegation is scheduled to meet with Mr. Brown in Washington. Their position will be that the rights of Mrs. Ingram under the above, and other fugitive stationed were violated as the trial and it is not too late now for the United States Attorney General.

If Brownell cannot spare time from the witchhunters to act toward freeing a woman in just society, the next move will be to send the sending of an even larger delegation to the United Nations to point out that the trial and conditions of Negroes in Georgia, as stated in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the UN Human Rights Commission should stick.

The final step in this campaign is to be a monster mass meeting in a Georgia college campus on Mothers' Day, May 6, where the plight of this Negro mother and two of her children, still in the illegal condition, unless it is hoped the pardon and parole board will change its mind.

Yes, the evidence shows we have gone far; the same evidence also shows we have not gone far enough.