2 Sisters New from Philippines Run Into School Transportation Problem

When Lydia and Fe Cristoeste, aged 10 and 12, respectively, arrived from the Philippines one month ago, they never realized that their transportation to school would be a major problem, upsetting the routine of the newly arrived family. They thought transportation facilities were better here than in their native village.

Their father, Renegio Cristoeste, an irrigator at Daka Sugar Co., Waipahu, went back to Rizal, Bocas Norte, Philippines, a few months ago and returned to Hawaii with his family from whom he had been separated since 1944; the year he came here to work in the sugar industry.

The Cristoeste family lives in Pump 5 Camp, which is several miles from the town of Waipahu. Up to a few years ago when another family with children attending Waipahu schools lived there, the couple lived in the same house as the children.

Taxi drivers are getting a lot of business from the Cristoeste children who visit their house after school, especially if the weather is bad. The family has been looking for a way to economize on transportation costs.

Oahu Sugar Co. employees can now buy houses and lots in Spanish Town, a 100-acre development near Waipahu, for $1,200 each. The community is entirely self-contained and includes a police station, post office, supermarket, and school. The houses are built of wood and have running water and electricity.

A recent report indicated that tenants in Spanish Town are paying more than $1,000 a month for rent in Waipahu and other nearby towns. The Oahu Sugar Co. has been trying to attract more tenants to Spanish Town by offering low rent rates and a wide variety of homes.

News of the development has spread throughout the island, and many of the tenants in Waipahu are planning to move to Spanish Town. Some of them have already purchased houses and are planning to move out soon.

Bergstrom Imports

To Boost Sales in Business Sell Out

Bergstrom Mfg. Co., 1425 N. Beretania St., announced last week it is going out of business and that it will sell all its merchandise, office equipment, and trucks. The RECORD learned it is bringing in thousands of dollars worth of equipment for sale.

Bergstrom's, according to sources, put in orders for Magnavox, phonographs, and TVs a few days ago after it announced it was selling its stock in going out of busi- nes.

A spokesman for Bergstrom's was surprised when asked about this by the RECORD. He declared that the firm is going out of business and is not adding to its stock. If there is a buyer before (More on Page 3)

Two Circuses In Two Months Too Many; Eating Team May Descend on Blue Note

A serious conflict in circus dates may force Baldu, Yempruk to reverse his plan for frightful Clyde Brindley show in March, as he had intended.

The conflict is with the Shriners, who plan to bring a circus of their own here in February and it is the feeling in show circles that the Brindley show would suffer in attendance from being brought to the Blue Note. The show was scheduled for April, 1956.

As planned, the Shriner’s circus will be put together on the Main- land especially for the tour to Hal- low and Fred Barnett, who has much to do with the arrange- ments, says the Shriners will select the acts themselves. They expect the show to draw about 50 acts of which they will select 18.

“With keep in mind especially that will appeal to children,” says Barnett, “this show will be a big event, plenty of fun acts. The show is for children in every way, and I expect it to be the biggest, finest circus that has come to Hawaii—at least since (More on Page 5)
Accidents No. 1

Child Killer

Cancer, pulmonary heart disease, pneumonia, influenza, tuberculosis — these diseases claim major tolls among children. And yet all of them combined do not cause as many fatalities as one other — the greatest single killer of children — accidents.

In 1933, accidents claimed the lives of children between the ages of one and 14. The nine dreaddest of child diseases claimed the lives of 19,769 in the same age group. Certainly in view of the statistics, there is nothing that could be cited, it is justifiable to say, as having been a major public health problem.

Autos, Top Killer

This, in effect, is what has been done by Dr. Harry F. Dikauza and Mrs. Bolorun M. Greenberg in their pamphlet, Your Child's Safety, published by the Public Affairs Committee in cooperation with the Nationwide (Farm Bureau) Insurance Company. Four cents per copy from Public Affairs Committee, 22 East 36 Street, New York 16, N.Y. Quantity rates bring the price down to 14 cents per copy.

For example, they discuss precautions that should be taken by an adult riding alone in a car and a child riding alone in a car and reminder states that the child was restrained, next to the driver, because she used this automobile for transportation safety. Not so. Actually, the seat next to the driver was used for a dangerous place in a car. It is far more dangerous than the back seat making it hurtling against dashboard or windshield when the car stops short. Much safer for children is a standing position at the right shoulder of the driver. In this way, the driver can use his arm or her arm if, necessary, body to protect the child when a car stops short.

Need Decent Play Area

Of course, the best way to prevent children from being victimized by traffic is to provide them with decent play areas away from the traffic.

Equally obviously, enforcement agencies should be making available for purchase or lease to the community as many safe places as possible and as many as possible. The number of empty dangerous road houses by forcing landlords to provide decent central basements, designated by the place as providing adequate living space for the use of the children who frequent the area. All of these would add to the walkability of the number of dangerous children. Moreover, overcrowding are the same which contribute to the number of the accidents.

Are We Accepting A Cult of Violence?

Because crime and violence are subjects which concern people in every community, I have prepared a program on the subject of "Accepting Cult of Violence," which will be discussed on the radio. The program is being broadcast by the Edwin Mead collection, and is being distributed to the public through the medium of radio stations in various parts of the country. The program is designed to acquaint people with the problems of violence and to educate them about the causes and methods of violence.

By REV. STEPHEN FRITTSCHEN

I have a television set in my home, and I am often asked to discuss the subject of violence on television. However, I have been told by the National Broadcasting Company that I cannot discuss this subject on their television stations.

So I have decided to do something about it. I have written a program for radio stations, and I am now broadcasting it on KFKE in New York City. The program is called "Accepting Cult of Violence," and it is being broadcast every Sunday evening at 8:00 p.m.

The program is designed to educate people about the dangers of violence, and to help them understand the causes and effects of violence.

We are seeing a growing number of people who are being affected by violence, and we need to do something about it. The program is designed to help people understand the nature of violence, and to help them prevent it from happening.

I hope that people will listen to the program, and that they will take the time to learn about the dangers of violence. By understanding the causes and effects of violence, we can work together to prevent it from happening.

I would like to thank the National Broadcasting Company for allowing me to broadcast this program. I hope that it will be helpful to people who are concerned about the dangers of violence.

Yours sincerely,

Rev. Stephen Frittschen
Morale Improved

Yes, boys attend classes in khaki uniforms which are sent out for laundry. Clothes are worn on clothes and do their own washing and ironing.

After careful study of the suicidal activities, the administration is now wiser about improving morale. Amongst others.

The D.P.I. staff at training schools is working hard to improve facilities for the troubled children. They have begun to hold social activities at the library. The boys' love for the library is said to be high. Many students who are committed to the training schools are slow readers, and they require special reading programs.

They explain it is important to shift the academic level of back-logged students. After they are committed to the detention home, that they will not lose interest in studies but will move along with other students. The achievement of this objective is difficult for younger students. The library is crowded with books from various school districts in the territory, and their scholarships and academic backgrounds vary.

Recreational Fund

At 2:30 in the afternoon school will conclude and the boys will turn themselves to vocational work, which is another program for training for the older students.

Vocational work is done on campus and includes building, construction, gardening, landscaping, teaching, business, and more. Students are not allowed to leave the yard except on trips, where a bus is provided at the end of the day. Some students work on the library, while others cut grass or clean the landscaping.

Secretary Lee says that he has told older students they could continue to attend the school and he also said that the HAC gives money to those who are willing to come and train him up to theHAC's level of qualification.

The qualification questionnaire that is sent out to the trainees, the program is short and not very informative. The questionnaire must be returned to the HAC by Nov. 17. The council has decided to make the questionnaire more meaningful and useful to the trainees. The council has decided to add questions on ground rules and regulations that are necessary for the trainees to understand.

What's a Cottage?

A cottage is a square concrete structure with a dirt floor, water, and electricity. The courtyards are paved with asphalt and there is a play area in the center. The court yard is locked when there is no one inside. The cottage is surrounded by a fence, and there are no windows except in the door.

The cottage is a good place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. It is not temporary but a permanent place for the kids to enjoy and enjoy together. We have to think about the matter of their adjustment when they leave us.

Leis and Gifts

So last year we gave our own. This year we gave our usual gift cards and certificates, the graduates received a pen and pencil set and a certificate of achievement.

Workers Don't like It. They said, "It is better to give them something else than school certificates."

The reason is Coca-Cola's net revenue of $114,295,000 was increased by $24,375,000, while Pepsi's net income was $11,200,000. Coca-Cola has been advertising its products heavily, especially in radio and television. The advertising has been very successful.

Now that the signs are up and the stores are open, the company is intensifying its advertising, especially in TV and radio.

WILLIE'S CHEESE STEAK

The Quarterback Club's drive for funds to aid the University of Hawaii football players is experiencing a surge in support. The drive, which began on November 19, has already raised over $44,000. Coach Harry Vail has encouraged his players to be active in the campaign, and the players have responded enthusiastically. The proceeds will be used to provide scholarships and other financial aid to student-athletes.

 programmer-mint missile and atomic war—there are no victims only spectators. The game has become more violent, and players are more likely to use their bodies as weapons.

More Rough Stuff

Oklahoma was involved in last week's game, which was characterized by intense, physical play. Both teams tried to outmaneuver each other, and penalties for roughness were frequent. The game was stopped on both sides, and the players were warned.

But is this trend merely temporary?

Similar periods in the past will be recalled by many old-timers—none more than the 1930s. Some say that the game is losing its character.

But in this trend of new things?

Will it be a year when the game's end is near? Or will it be a season when the game grows? That's the question.
Trouble In The Middle East

Frankly-speaking

By FRANK MARSHALL DAVIS

Patching a solution to the problems between Israel, the Palestinian Authority, and the Arab states is long overdue. Instead of being a single matter of one nation versus another, the question of who owns the borders, the issue involves colonization and the struggle between the U.S. and the U.N., as well as many other nations.

In this case, the Israelis are almost an island in the midst of an Arab Sea. Arab states that have been generally friendly to the Israelis have begun to turn against them, putting the rest of their population at risk.

But despite this antagonism toward the Jews, we must remember that the Arab world is not a closed system. We can work to improve relations with other countries who have been hostile in the past.

Leiterman Tells How Aloha Helped Toward Million; Locals Recall Details

Elmer G. Leiterman, the high-pressure insurance salesman from New York, who considers Hawaii a sort of second home, is one of 22 millions who tell "Aloha, Made a Million" in a recent book of that name recently published in the Pacific islands.

What's more, Leiterman uses his experiences in Hawaii as one of his prime examples of how he used sort of the Carnegie approach in his salesmanship.

The first time he landed in Hawaii, he says, he saw a delegations court house, a trip, and a Volo band....

More people take the leis off when they get into automobiles, but not Leiterman. No matter how busy he is, he always has someone to meet him in the insurance man, he wears the leis anyway.

"You know he's short and his neck is so short he can carry one out of them, but he keeps them on. He never loses one."

Not only does he want to carry his own, he says, but he always carries a lei for his wife's sister, who works for him in the office. She doesn't wear them, but he says he's afraid she might lose one.

His wife, he says, "wants to be sure she has one on the right hand when she goes to church."

When Leiterman extended his type of aloha to a sufficient number of people, he'd go to the airport and have himself driven the rest of the way to his house.

Leiterman Meets Carmen

A few years ago, Leiterman was a frequent visitor to U.S. and many remember his little play-by-play of the day Carmen Miranda came to Hawaii and received the official greeting. Carmen...and he had a photographer of his own standing by. Then when Carmen Miranda was standing there for a moment, I pushed his wife by the elbow and said, "Come on!" They rushed over to take pictures of her and while they were taking the pictures, she started talking. You can't say Elmer didn't put some energy into that, but his friends say they never did find a nicer fellow for a million.

Observing Educational Week

This month the U.S. observes education week. It is time to examine the positive and negative aspects of education today.

On the negative side are conditions such as portrayed by the movie "The Blackboard Jungle." Locally there are some situations where parents from poor families are ashamed in the classroom because their children are unable to pay various school fees. They are told by their teachers—they will be held back until they pay their fees. Disadvantaged students have to stay away from school. Some end up at detention houses.

This country lacks 250,000 classrooms. Standards for schools come from classroom shortages, too. The police can have a ratio of 30-1 in the classrooms but they have failed to fulfill their promises.

All these and more are challenges to the community and to the nation as a whole.
