Police Capt. Denies Roughing Boy

COULD THIS BE YOU?

The surprise resignation of Capt. Horatio O. Thomas was announced as the RECORD went to press. The following story was written prior to that announcement.

Capt. Edward J. Hitchcock, commanding officer of the police training division, is a professional officer, as indicated by the department's complaint of maintaining a University of Hawaii policy of handling solicitations by the police spokesman has called "very serious.

Also being investigated in the connection is a complaint by Hitchcock that the student of the university that he alleged that Capt. Hitchcock had charged out of his home and punched or slapped Clifford while the latter was handling the case in front of the police station at 9th and Halsey.

Both complaints arise from an incident in which Paco Espiritu, father of Clifford, brought to police attention Tuesday when he alleged that Capt. Hitchcock had charged out of his home and punched or slapped Clifford while the latter was handling the case in front of the police station at 9th and Halsey.

Jenkins Ouster Reasons

Still IMUA Secret; Got About $1,300 Mo.

Why John T. Jenkins was resigned by IMUA was not publicly announced by the organization as expected by some during the election of officers last fall. The RECORD learned this week.

Jenkins, who conducted IMUA's nightly radio program and edited its monthly newsletter, was separated from the organization for personal reasons, according to sources considered reliable.

Kaiser-Rutledge Contract

Called Step Backward

A few weeks ago, Art Rutledge, head of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union (AFU) boasted loudly that the contract he had signed with Henry J. K. Kaiser for workers at Kaiser's Hawaiian Villas was about as good as it gets, and that the workers would have to be "heavily bargained against" before the new hotel became operational.

Now it comes out through reliable sources that the contract contains a step-three or a step-four.

The workers get less under this contract, say these sources, than they get with the Matson hotels.

For instance, though overtime is paid at 1½ times the regular rate, Kaiser pays the first four hours at 1½ times the regular rate, and then an additional 25¢ per hour for the second and third shifts.

Furthermore, the sources say, while workers get 1½ times the regular rate, the workers are allowed to leave the job at the end of the work day.

Lurline's Rebel Target for Turner's Abuse

By AMY CLARKE

LITTLE Charles Klasa is dead. Perhaps his death seems more cruel because it is only a few weeks before Christmas, the peak of the year for boys his age. His christmas spirit and sympathy, touching everyone, is most troubling to mothers of boys like him.

Charles was standing on Kamehameha highway at the intersection near the Pearl City Tavern last Saturday. It was 5:30 in the morning, cold and still dark. He was talking to his brother and several other boys. Then it happened. Running across the road, he was struck and instantly killed. The child was 197 years old and several feet by the car and his newspapers flew over the highway while his horrified companions watched.

Did you read this in the papers and wonder why such young children are permitted to sell papers on busy highways? Children have a innutural right that adults will look out for them, that the newspapers will place them in situations where they brush against actual physical danger.

Newspaper Peddling is one of the last stronghold of the exploitation of child labor. Through constant propaganda (by the newspapers, who profit by this cheap labor), parents have been led to believe that it is good for boys. It is supposed to build character, a sense of responsibility, appreciation of money values, and thrift. That's all right. But what good is this to go Charles Klasa?

Through A Woman's Eyes

Child Labor and the Newspapers

I do not believe nine-year-old boys should be allowed to sell papers in the midst of fast-moving traffic. They do not have the discretion to move cautiously when cars are moving and think they may miss a sale. I think boys should be at least intermediate school level—12 or older—before being given the highway posts.

And this applies also to the late-hour stands in front of movie and drugstores. How often have I seen tired, yawning little boys at midnight or late counting their pennies with no one to help them sell before they can go home. The children should be in bed at that hour. Let the older boys take over these posts.

It is true that newspaper selling is one of the few jobs at which a young boy can earn money and still attend school. But money will not bring home is really needed. But some control is necessary—either by the newspapers themselves, or by the legislature, or both. Congress should set minimum age limits on the assignments involving danger or irregular hours. To neglect this is to set the stage for an other stage that a tragedy last week's.

Child Labor Is Never Cheap. The cost is Intangible but it is always there—nervousness, robbery of play time, not enough play, and sometimes the occasional times violent death. All this so that the newspaper companies can avoid paying adult wages for the distribution of their papers.

Is it worth it?
PITFALLS FOR DEMOCRATS

Democratic presidential aspirants would be happy if they could have Vice President Richard M. Nixon as their opponent.

But as James Reston, political writer for the New York Times, says, "President Eisenhower neutralizes them, and Chief Justice Earl Warren terrifies them, and they have no agreed alternative set of policies to talk about."

Right now the national Democratic leaders are boasting that they can whip the Republicans with a "hot war" Marshall Plan and NATO approach.

They talk of a campaign to blast the Republicans for negotiating with the Reds, and bringing about the Geneva spirit which has endangered global economic policies.

They aim to blast the Republicans for not boosting military spending, particularly in foreign countries.

The District leaders are probably confident that they can win the presidential election by campaigning like Truman.

They should remember that Harry Wallace did Truman a great favor by running as an independent and carrying many of the necessary votes. Truman, too, was disappointed in what turned out to be empty promises.

The Democrats might ponder over this--that Chief Justice Earl Warren is now popular because his stand on various civil rights issues and for standing firm against unwarranted pressure by Truman who mouthed civil rights to get elected.

And they ought to ponder over this, too, that Pres. Eisenhower's victory in the last election was largely attributed to his declaration that he would bring truce to Korea--where Truman started the police action.

The Democrats are now making pronouncements on the election in the shadow of the cold war policy which stands behind them. Cold war means restriction of civil rights and hysteria. It means arming and rearming with A, H-, and H-100,000w, atomic bombs, germ warfare, weapons, etc., without end.

All that will be needed is a small excite- ment and a trivial accident to devastate the whole world.

Democrats might talk about the big business "giveaway," and the farm crisis, but for the American voters, peace and survival and co-existence are more important.

That's why Warren, a liberal-sounding opponent of the Democratic party, is re- duced to peace negotiations, gives the Democrats the choice. They ought to psychocanly do something in that direction.

When thought about the New Deal in the decade following FDR's death, the party led for many years would be the Republicans for advancing peace?

Bergstrom May Be Reorganized by Son Of Major Stockholder

Bergstrom Music Co. in the monster hit of this year, is being reorganized with Philip L. Keller, Jr., taking over the firm.

Some of the earnings of the company's reorganization is expected to be $30,000 for the year, and $100,000 for the next year.

Some sources say that Philip L. Keller, Jr., who has 3,000 shares of Bergstrom stock, is the local to his Mainland corporation. He is so far an indirect owner of the company.

Some sources say that the older Keller, R. B. Keller, is the major stockholder in Bergstrom and after he retires for his share of the assets, his son may buy out the remaining interests and reorganize.

Mr. Keller is moving on and the store as a whole is up for sale. The big music stores in the country are in the market for the famous store.

The stores have been reduced to a $20,000 line and have some first class music.

The home mortgage debt alone is about 60 per cent of the asset value.

Hilo Road Dept. Sweeps UPW Softball League

The Hilo road department whipped the UPW softball league with a 17 to 7 victory over the Hilo "Bunnas."

Led by Sports Director Robert Kato, Jr., the Hilo team made a clean sweep of all its games, beating out competition in the building department, Puna Hale and the Stamps in both rounds of the season.

The outstanding feature of the UPW league was the participation by the Hilo members and the work of 50 clappers participated in the four teams’ play.

There will be a renewal of activity of the UPW league in February when the teams will play against the Kona team, long active in the community league there.

Until that time, the pick of the UPW league will be active in the T.U.W.S. Softball League as an invitation entry. Games are scheduled to begin Wednesday, Nov. 20.

Physical damage in the 8-state disaster area stricken by floods in the northern part was estimated by the Army Corps of Engineers at $671,000,000. Of the 100,000 workers made homeless by the destruction 12,000 were still in Caneelton alone a month after reconstruction was started.

No Appearance of Witchhunters

Certainly we are now living in one of the unhealthiest areas when it comes to the well-being and safety of the community. The loyalty to the country is being hindered by the recent events. Since the loyalty program went into effect, it is not too late to seek the support of the Government employees fully on the new program. We should be supporting the program that is helping to keep our community safe.

Hitchcock, Sons in Dispute With Espiritu, Son

The story is in some ways diametrically opposed, but both agree on the original destination because of a girl.

Presenting Mission

The young couple said they had been walking home with a girl who had been with boys they both knew were objectionable. They thought that the objection became clear when the girl left the scene and returned later, saying she had been followed by a man in a blue dress.

The couple then went to the police station to report the incident. The police officer who took the report was convinced of the girl's innocence and did not press the matter further.

Curtis Hitchcock, who questioned the young couple, explained it was not clear that the girl was innocent.

Hitchcock, questioned by the RECORD, presented quite a different story. He said the girl, who was a relative of Hitchcock, had grabbed the young couple while they were walking home, and then had released them.

The police officer who took the report was convinced of the girl's innocence and did not press the matter further.

The police officer who took the report was convinced of the girl's innocence and did not press the matter further.

May Have Pushed

Curtis Hitchcock was questioned, however, whether or not the incident was a matter of pure speculation.

"I may have pushed him toward his car and told him to get out. I don't know what I am going to do with him."

The police officer who took the report was convinced of the girl's innocence and did not press the matter further.

When the boys from the Koahuli high school started leaving the building earlier this year, the administration of the Hilo Hospital wanted quite a bit of the capacity and valuable brass and other pipes, and other material in the building which were expressed as pieces of property taken down.

"The administration of the hospital was not able to get in touch with the administration of the high school, and it was necessary to hire an expert to examine the school building and haul away every piece of lumber and fixture," said an official of the hospital.

Fund for Youngsters

"The Hilo Hospital people were surprised when they learned that the school building was going to be torn down," said William Amore, superintendent of training schools.

Today the lumber and other materials salvaged from the Koahuli school building are being used to construct new classrooms and other projects in the Koahuli school. The school will be able to save the materials and the lumber for future use.

This is being said in some government circles that the territory had given the building away to private used-lumber dealers, the taxpayers would have taken a big loss.

Administrators of Mental Hospital See "Furnace" Too Late

The Territorial Hospital at Ka'ookee which was eager to get rid of a two-story furnace building because it appeared to be riddled by termites, has discovered that the building was worth a "furnace" when another agency under the jurisdiction of the state department of institutions began leasing it down.

The administration of the mental hospital originally saw the building worth a "furnace" when it was discovered that the building was being used by termites to make a complex network of tunnels in the building.

The division of trainee schools (Kualoa Boys Home and Kualoa Girls’ Home) didn't accept this view and continued the building to be used as a trainee facility. They found the building used by termites only in one small section. They arranged to tear down the building and haul away its lumber and fixtures.

U.S. Scholars Accused Of Spying in India

Charges of spying and anti-Indian activities against several American scholars in India were made by members of the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly, according to a recent report of the Indian Times.

Uttar Pradesh Premier Bimal Narain, in his question to the Assembly, asked: "What are the reasons for the stoppage of the program at Lucknow and Jaipur?" He said they did not send copies of their reports of questionnaires to the state government.

Mr. Narain asked the Indian government to ask if the Indian government knew that some books written by American scholars were contrary to the Indian government's policy.

Moviemakers Caught Between Tough Foreign Competition, Catholic Ban

BY EDWARD ROBBINS

Hollywood: A recently announced plan to produce a series of pictures to compete with the likes of "Titanic" and other foreign films that have been doing well at the box office, has been met with strong opposition from the Catholic Church and other religious organizations.

The plan, announced by the Motion Picture Producers Association, would involve the production of a series of films based on the Bible, with the intention of reaching a broad audience. However, the plan has been met with criticism from Catholic and other religious leaders, who have argued that such a move would be a violation of the Church's teachings on the sanctity of the Sabbath.

"We are deeply opposed to this plan," said Father John Smith, a spokesperson for the Catholic Bishops' Conference. "The Bible is a sacred text and should be treated as such. The production of films based on its themes would be a violation of our religious beliefs and teachings." He added that the Church would be considering legal action to prevent the project from going forward.

The plan, however, has also met with support from some quarters. "We believe that the Bible is a powerful tool for education and outreach," said Dr. Jane Doe, a representative of the Faith and Film Initiative. "Films are a powerful medium for reaching people of different backgrounds and cultures. By producing such films, we can share the message of the Bible with a wider audience, and help to promote understanding and peace amongst different faiths and cultures." She added that the project would involve the involvement of religious leaders from various denominations, including Catholics, Jews, Muslims, and Buddhists, in order to ensure a balanced and accurate representation of the Bible's teachings.

The project is currently in the planning stages, with the aim of producing a series of films over the next five years. However, the Church's opposition has raised doubts about the likelihood of the project proceeding as planned.

Was Fresno Rough, Dirty?

Just how rough (and/or dirty) did the Fresno State footballers play against the University of Nevada winning last Saturday's thriller at the Cowell? You get an idea from various fans, expert and in-coming.

Gene Good, the radio voice who broadcast the game, and Oski, "showed up" the band. Quite a few fans who kept track of statistics, gave picture-perfect descriptions of the band, which was "rubber banding" as the game started. In the heat of the moment, everyone forgot the academic status of the band and that he didn't think anyone would notice them playing at all. The band never comes back.

Sierra people seem to be clear to him that, except for this alleged condition, that the V. O. of H. would have no interest in" the theme. He will be cricketing in an incident in which "Sierra" and 300 boys and girls will be playing in the closing minutes and almost score a game-winning touchdown.

Significantly, Hawaii Coach Charlie Holst announced the time of the meeting when asked by reporters if he would attend with his team.

Fans Split On "Dirty"

Among fans who witnessed the game was a football fan who believed in the ethics of Fresno's play through all the roughness. One former resident noted that Fresno was "a wonderful game. They're a good bunch of fellows. Their fans should enjoy it.

Another former high school coach who had been watching the game with the "dirty" school said that he was pleased with the job being done by the Fresno band.

COUNTY ENGINEER ROBERT G. MILLER is building inspector for the Lahain High School project when South Pacific Airlines will start its service to the Hawaiian Islands. The National Census Bureau has published figures showing that the infant mortality rate in the Territory dropped to 20.7 per 1,000 in 1917, the year before the attack on Pearl Harbor. The bureau said that the rate was 30.4 in 1910, and 15.1 in 1920.

There are an estimated 8,900,000 students in elementary and secondary schools in the U.S., according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Government By Appointees

When a government is administered by political appointees whose responsibilities are not to people there but to party politicians thousands of miles away, the public is damned attitude can prevail frequently.

It's because these politicians are not answerable to the voters of their locality.

Take for instance the awarding of the ground transportation franchise to Gray Line Hawaii but not to a local Authority Commission. Gray Line through this award becomes January 1 the sole carrier permitted to pick up casual passengers at Hilo, bound for transportation to the City. Casual passengers are those who have not made prior taxi arrangements.

This award eliminates a number of taxi companies which have been setting up passengers at the airports.

When the qualification questionnaire was advertised, Gray Line was the only one along with specifications for the new franchise, the HAC was immediately criticized for "tailoring" the specifications for Gray Line, a company which has the favor of the governor of the Territory and as director and attorney of the son of Governor Sam King.

Even before this criticism, the HAC should have held a public hearing on the matter. After the criticism there was ample cause to hold a hearing to air the views.

A commission responsive to public opinion would have postponed the awarding of the franchise until it had gathered information at a public hearing as is customary procedure of governmental agencies. There was no urgency to hurry the change in ground carrier setup for the HAC wasn't confronting the question of a serious shortage of taxis. It was trying to exact a‎ in an area where about 500 people operated, most of whom thought the system didn't require change.

A commission responsive to public opinion would have put out the franchise on bid, as this hearing, it found one company could transport passengers more satisfactorily than several carriers.

Such a procedure would be an advance as expected by many. Gray Line got the award from the HAC, which by its behavior opened itself to further criticism that its award was a GOP political deal.

Numerous people who have watched HAC's action declare that if the people of Hawaii elected their own governor, such conduct by public officials could not be shoved down people's throats in the manner HAC did. The people would have their say directly to their governor, who appoints the commissioners would be answerable to the local people—and through him his appointees would also be answerable to the taxpayers here.

H-Bomb On Oahu

What do you think would happen to you if a million tons of TNT were to fall and explode on the shore and around Pearl Harbor?

Speaking for myself alone, I suppose it would depend upon where I was at the time. If I happened to be in downtown Honolulu, I doubt that my chances for survival would be worth a counter-putty penny, but if I happened to be on Oahu or Kauai or Maui, I would probably live better.

But if the million tons of TNT were to be detonated off shore in the ocean, I would wonder if the effects would be felt around the world. I wonder if any news media would broadcast the news to the world. I wonder if the world would react to the news, or whether the world would remain silent.
