Acknowledgments

This project is the result of a joint undertaking between the Native Hawaiian Advisory Council (NHAC) and the William S. Richardson School of Law (Law School) at the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa. It follows and builds on the Law School’s 1995 EPA-funded environmental justice project entitled "Kupa‘a Mahope O Ka ‘Āina." This project would not have been possible without the efforts of Law School Professor M. Casey Jarman and NHAC executive director Elizabeth Ho‘oipo Pa Martin, the creators, as it were, of this project. Their unyielding commitment to increase public awareness of and participation in this State’s environmental decision-making process is applauded.

NHAC staff members Debra ‘Ililani Gabriel and Kathleen Kōaniani Brizuela contributed greatly to this project. They were responsible for scheduling meetings, researching various issues, contacting agencies, information gathering, data collection, and bringing it all together. Their unselfish efforts in furtherance of this project are greatly appreciated.

Law school students Jamaica Kawauchi, Isaac Moriwake, ‘Ilina Morrison, Craig Nagamine, Susan Serrano, and Taryn Tomasa, along with Kekai Perry, Esq., Kawika Liu, Esq., and Moses Haia, Esq. are thanked for their tireless efforts at researching, writing, and editing this workbook.

A special mahalo is extended to Joyce McCarty, Esq. for contributing freely and greatly of her time with her insightful comments and editing.

Funding for this project was provided by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) under assistance agreement number EQ999493-01-0 to the Native Hawaiian Advisory Council. However, this workbook may not necessarily reflect the views of the EPA and no official endorsement of the views expressed within this workbook should be inferred.

Finally, we once again thank the Hawaiian community for suggesting that we continue the work initiated by the "Kupa‘a Mahope O Ka ‘Āina" project. "E Alu Like Mai i Ka Pono".
