

LIS 662 Asian Informatics - Dr. Noriko AsatoPrimary Student Learning Outcome: SLO5 Cultures (Core-eligible)Prerequisites: NoneLast ran: Fall 2017 (as LIS 693)Meeting days and location: Online (Asynchronous)Course objectives:

- Understand the historical development of information and communications technology (ICT) on Japan and other areas of Asia
- Develop an understanding of current and developing issues regarding Asian societies and ICTs
- Develop an understanding of comparative model of ICT and society that could be applied to analyzing other countries' information systems
- Demonstrate an understanding of an ICT issues through researching and writing a research paper

Required texts:

- No required textbook. Readings will be announced bi-weekly.

Required technology:

- Computer with a reliable internet-connection or mobile device with a high-speed connection

Teaching methods:

- N/A

Research methods:

- Information retrieval and sociological inquiry

Major assignments:

- Slackshares
Critical reflection paper
- Mini research paper
- Final paper

ePortfolio-eligible assignment: N/A. This course last ran prior to the establishment of the ePortfolio capstone.