

FROM BANDA ACEH TO FUKUSHIMA: Rethinking Risk, Resilience, and Recovery

PANEL DISCUSSION

SESSION ONE

Looking Back at the Indian Ocean Tsunami

FOCUS:

The lessons learned from the 2004 Indian Ocean Tsunami.

9 AM - 10:15

PANELISTS:

Kitty Courtney, Tetra Tech, Inc

Laura Kong, UNESCO NOAA, International Tsunami Information Center

Tom Peterman, Asia Pacific Center for Security Studies

Bruce Barnes, UH Matsunaga Institute of Peace

I Made Brunner, Research Associate, University of Hawaii

SESSION TWO

In the Wake of Fukushima:

What's Next in Terms of Recovery and Resilience

Focus:

Examine the questions of risk, resilience and recovery with regard to the earthquake, tsunami and nuclear disaster in Japan

10:30 - 12:00 Noon

PANELISTS:

Rhett Butler, Adjunct Geophysicist - University of Hawaii at Manoa

Van Romero, New Mexico Tech

Claudio Filippone, Logos Tech

Bruce Houghton, Science Director, National Disaster Preparedness Training Center

A public discussion and public policy deliberation hosted by the UH Disaster Management Summer Institute, with support and participation from the National Disaster Preparedness Training Center (NDPTC), the UH PACOM Partnership, and the Pacific Risk Management 'Ohana (PRiMO).

The first panel will focus on the lessons learned from the 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami. The second panel will examine the questions of risk, resilience and recovery with regard to the earthquake, tsunami and nuclear disaster in Japan.

LOCATION AND DETAILS:

Saturday, July 9, 2011

9am - 12 PM

University of Hawaii at Manoa

CRAWFORD HALL - ROOM 105

FOR REGISTRATION CONTACT:

Marge Porter

maporter@hawaii.edu

808.956-0600

Disaster
Management
Summer Institute

at the UNIVERSITY of HAWAII

IN PARTICIPATION WITH

UH/PACOM
PARTNERSHIP

