

PUBLIC PRESENTATION

Navigating Through Repositories: Making Native Hawaiian Genealogy Research User-Friendly

By
Jessica Kalika EnYuck Wong
Hawaiian Studies

March 9, 2011
9:00-10:00 am
Kama 207

This project examines the challenges in researching Native Hawaiian genealogical records. Personally experiencing these challenges has sparked my motivation to create a user-friendly guidebook for novice genealogy researchers. The purpose of this guidebook is to provide clear and basic information to simplify the often-difficult process of researching Native Hawaiian ancestry. It is presented with the hope that its guidance will not only offer a research tool, but also assist with the development and empowerment of cultural knowledge, identity, and pride among individuals, families and communities.