

Panel Presentation and Discussion

Mongolia:

The Struggle to Develop Natural Resources while Protecting Culture and the Environment

Friday, April 5, 2013

12:00 – 1:30pm

Saunders 624

The presentation and discussion will focus on the impact on culture and the environment of recent discoveries of vast resources that are of great interest to a powerful neighbor and global investors.

Panelists:

Charles Krusekopf

Associate Professor, Royal Roads University, Victoria BC
Executive Director, American Center for Mongolian Studies
www.mongoliacenter.org

Paula DePriest

Deputy Director, Smithsonian Museum Conservation Institute
Washington, D.C.

Bill Fitzhugh

Director, Arctic Studies Center
Smithsonian Museum of Natural History
Washington D.C.

Co-sponsored by the Public Administration Program (PUBA), the School for Pacific and Asian Studies, and the College of Social Sciences.

