State of Hawaii
University of Hawaii at Manoa
William S. Richardson School of Law

Functional Statement

The overall mission of the William S. Richardson School of Law is to provide formal legal education, to encourage and support scholarly legal research, and to promote justice in our society and professional responsibility and public service within the legal profession. The School of Law shares the goals of the State of Hawaii and the University to provide educational opportunities for the people of this State, and to be leaders in Pacific and Asian legal studies and the Law of the Sea.

Dean of the School of Law

Responsible for the overall planning, supervision and direction of all functions and activities necessary for the effective implementation of the School's instructional, research and public service programs.

Coordinates the instructional, research, law library, student services, administrative services, alumni affairs and community relations activities of the School of Law.

Maintains liaison with the University's administration, other University programs, the Hawaii State Bar, Legislature and Judiciary, accrediting organizations, other law schools, and public and private legal agencies throughout the state as well as the national and international legal community.

Manages the development program, including fund raising activities, special events, distinguished visitor logistics and protocol, alumni activities and overall public relations.

Associate Dean

Reports directly to the Dean in administering the academic program, class scheduling, instructor assignments, faculty support, development and advising, program and curriculum evaluation and development, and coordination of faculty committees.

Coordinates curriculum planning, faculty recruitment, promotion and tenure, and other related faculty activities.

Provides student academic counseling services.

Associate Dean (Continued)

Coordinates the Law Review, Moot Court and Student Externship programs.

Procurement of goods and services.

Facilities and property management.

Financial accounting, analysis and reporting.

Contracts and grants management.

Maintains liaison with related university, state, federal and private agencies.

Law Librarian

Reports directly to the Dean in planning, development and operation of the Law School Library, serving as the major legal and resource center for the School, including access to legal research materials and basic reference services.

Provides bibliographic and other legal media support for the full programs of the School of Law and for the programs of other universities and schools.

Coordinates with the State Supreme Court Library, the provision of legal materials as required by the bench, bar and general public.

Oversees the implementation of general policies of the Law School faculty library committee as related to library acquisitions and continuations.

Responsible for ordering, receiving, processing, cataloging and integrating new library materials into the existing collection.

Supervises circulation control and physical housekeeping, including managing book circulation and retrieval and inter-library loans.

Manages various types of support equipment for patrons.

Oversees the technical services and public services functions of the Law School Library, as well as provides supplemental services including access to an automated legal research system, on-line database services of the State of Hawaii's Legislative Reference Bureau, and access to an inter-library loan system from the graduate library and law libraries across the nation.

Provides library staff development and supervision in recruiting, hiring and processing of appointments, including student assistants, and provides overall supervision of the library personnel staff's performance, essential to an efficient and more than adequate law library.

Pacific and Asian Legal Studies

The Pacific and Asian Legal Studies program involves the comparative study of law, focusing on Asia and the Pacific. Many of the Law School's faculty members have incorporated an Asian-Pacific component into their work, including courses offered in the current J.D. curriculum. Training seminars and workshops are also offered. The Director serves to coordinate the many activities within the School of Law which deal in this area. Eventually, the studies will be developed into a certificated program.

Law of the Sea Program

The Law of the Sea is a program of the William S. Richardson School of Law. It provides a forum for the study and discussion of the law, policies, decisions, and organizational arrangements related to the use of the world's oceans. It encourages and facilitates communication and research among those interested and involved, publicly or privately, in marine affairs. It stimulates debate on major issues and disseminates information and ideas. Its primary focus is on the international aspects of the law, utilization, and management of the ocean, emphasizing the legal, social, political, and economic consequences of the evolving uses of the sea. It has a global perspective and a multidisciplinary identification. It seeks assistance from all regions of the world and from all relevant social and marine sciences and technologies.
